ighting Chance for Victim Reported by Friend at Bedside

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—A sur-n's knife brought a sudden end ay to Mayor William Hale ompson's dramatic entry into the le of a furious political cam-ign. Stricken with acute ap-ndicitis, Chicago's Republican yor was rushed, protesting, to a spital at the very moment that overflow crowd in a downtown ater waited to hear his arraign-nt of his political foes—in this e a member of the same party, th Hanna McCormick, Senatorial ominee.

An operation was performed im-diately. At 2 p.m. he was brought om the operating room and a bul-tin issued by his secretary said ere was no immediate cause for arm.

At 10:15 o'clock tonight, Robert Perbohner, a close personal end, said Mayor Thompson "has fighting chance to live and it oks pretty good." Perbohner said , a doctor and two nurses would at the Mayor's bedside through-t the night.

OUT OF RING

For two years Mayor Thompson s been in poor health, almost a ranger to the public that had own him as a familiar dynamo of eech on the platforms of every ard in Chicago.

Up and down the land he had ured to expound his theories of od control and his favorite doc-ine of "America First." Then, fol-wing his election in 1927, his phy-ician warned him he must exer-se the utmost care of his health d the "Big Bill" of other days ed into silence, remote from pub-eye and ear.

Politics was the love of his life d he could not remain aloof. Re-rning from a vacation on the stern seaboard a few weeks ago, pronounced himself in fine fet-condition of years. There was mmon talk in the press he would a candidate for a fourth mayoral m at the primaries next spring.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Oct. 31. [To the Editor of The Times:] Seemed like old times last night to hear Mr. Coolidge on the radio, especially when he pleaded for "a continuation of Republican blessings." He said what we needed in office was "office holders," men that were used to holding office. He said it was no time to break in new talent. Compare that campaign plea with the one of my old friend Gov. Bulow of South Dakota, who is out for the Senate saying "there is no issue in this election: the other fellow has got a job and I want it." Such honesty must come from a Democrat and it does. And it should be rewarded at the polls.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

COLD SNAP EMBRACES DIXIE LAND

Heavy Frosts Penetrate as Far South as Gulf and Promise to Continue

ATLANTA (Ga.) Oct. 31. (AP)—Southern temperatures dipped to shivering levels last night and today accompanied by snow flurries in three border States and heavy frost as far south as the Gulf coast.

Weather Bureau indications were that the cold snap is in Dixie for a several days' stay.

In portions of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, light snows fell. Louisville, Paducah, Mayfield, Hopkinsville and Harlan, Ky., reported snow, while at Bluefield, Va., an inch was recorded at noon. Snow was general in the Cumberland Mountains. Flurries also fell in Knoxville, Nashville, Elizabethton and other Tennessee points.

Freezing temperatures were noted at points in all the border States and as far south as Northern Louisiana, Mississippi and at Atlanta, where the mercury dropped to 32 deg. early Friday.

The frost caused little or no damage to crops, although tender plants were killed at some points.

Heavy to killing frosts are forecast by the Weather Bureau for the South tomorrow morning.

STRIKE TIES UP SHIPS AT PORTS IN TEXAS

GALVESTON (Tex.) Oct. 31. (AP) Eight vessels were tied up and 2000 longshoremen were idle here today after the longshoremen's union yesterday called a strike involving the ports of Galveston, Houston, Corpus Christi and Texas City. The strike was ordered after representatives of the union refused to sign an agreement involving a new scale of wages reached the 21st inst., following prolonged negotiations.

HUGE WORK PROGRAM

Federal Outlay $1,000,000,000

Administration Concentrates on Problem of Aiding Unemployment

Government Pay Roll Lists, as Result of Contracts, 1,033,000 Persons

WASHINGTON, Oct 31. (AP)—Concentrating on its efforts to lead the country to a solution of the unemployment problem, the Federal government announced today its current construction projects will cost approximately $1,000,000,000.

Contracts under way and pending aggregate $938,416,000, it was disclosed at the White House. Already the building program, including public works, naval and military construction, and ships built through Shipping Board loans, totals $567,756,000. Other contracts to be let as soon as possible aggregate $370,660,000.

These projects are exclusive of the $10,000,000 naval and military aircraft contracts.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

As a result of the construction programs, employment directly attributable to government work was placed at 1,033,000 persons on the 1st inst., as compared with 990,000 persons last January. However, this figure includes all army, navy and Coast Guard personnel, as well as those in the civil service. It does not, however, include those making government supplies.

As reports were received by Chairman Woods of the President's emergency committee for employment telling of the progress in industrial areas toward finding employment for the jobless and keeping other employees busy under the stagger plan, the Interstate Commerce Commission set aside for the first time its regulations on railroad accounting.

The action will permit the Chicago and Northwestern Railway to use $500,000 in employing 1700 of its former mechanics and shopmen during November and December to repair locomotives and rolling stock.

Chairman Woods appointed Sewell Avery of Chicago as director of the committee's work with the industries between New York and Chicago.

NAVAL PROGRAM

The Navy Department broadened its efforts toward the employment problem by announcing it will institute a $44,000,000 public works and utilities program this winter. It previously had made known through the emergency committee that construction amounting to nearly $4,500,000 would get under way at navy posts before January 1.

The monthly survey of business by the American Federation of Labor said temporary measures for relief are of assistance but that unless provision for security of employment and income is made "we shall again be forced to meet unemployment crises."

The review said the number of unemployed in Europe is increasing.

"In Great Britain the number out of work has risen slightly to 2,176,191 on October 6, the highest point since 1921," it added. "German unemployment at the end of September passed the 3,000,000 mark for the first time in the present crisis. Italy has 350,000 out of work and 162,300 employed on public construction."

BUILDING REPAIRS

Secretary Mellon announced plans for pushing public building repairs and construction with the employment of local labor in accord with the government's plan to provide employment as far as possible throughout the country.

The Secretary also said consideration was being given to including in the specifications for public building construction a paragraph to notify bidders that the department will look with disfavor "upon any departure by the contractor from the well-known policy of the government to maintain existing rates of wages."

The Secretary said he had directed that such repair jobs necessary for maintenance of Federal buildings be expedited so that as much work as possible within the limits of the appropriations will be placed on the market within the next three months. This class of work, he said, generally is allocated over the entire year, but in view of the present unemployment situation this procedure will be disregarded.

TO SEEK APPROPRIATIONS

"The government has title to approximately fifty building sites for which no appropriations have yet been obtained for the construction of buildings thereon," the Secretary said. "The department contemplates obtaining the necessary appropriations for these projects in

Pictures Taken in Arctic Before Explorers Died Will Be Reproduced

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) Oct. 31. (AP) A photographic film which had lain for thirty-three years beside the bodies of the ill-fated Andree expedition members in the ice on White Island has been developed by a Swedish photographer with successful results, the Eastman Kodak Company was informed today by cable.

The cable, which came from Hasselblads, a photographic company in Sweden, said: "Andree kodak film developed. Some pictures can be reproduced."

The development of the films may add new information on the expedition to that contained in Andree's diary, which was found beside the bodies.

The brief cable did not indicate the importance of the developed pictures.

New Fast Navy Test Plane to Be Flown Here

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—David S. Ingalls, assistant Secretary of the Navy for aeronautics, today announced he will leave Washington Monday to pilot a new navy experimental plane on a cross-country inspection tour of naval aviation stations.

Mr. Ingalls will be accompanied by Capt. John H. Towers, assistant chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, and Lieutenant-Commander R. P. Molton, Jr., the latter flying a standard navy fighter.

The new plane is an adaptation of the two-place fighter. Its speed is approximately 180 miles an hour. The plane is fully equipped for night flying.

Mr. Ingalls will arrive at San Diego November 8 and Los Angeles November 10.

Six Flyers Still Lost in North British Columbia

ATLIN (B. C.) Oct. 31. (AP)—Six men in two planes are still missing in this region tonight after Pilot Frank Borbandt returned here from a vain search of Northern British Columbia for three of them, Capt. E. J. A. Burke, Emil Kading and Bob Martin. Twenty days have passed since the trio were seen flying back here from a Liard River mining camp, 300 miles to the north.

Pilot Robin Renahan, Vancouver, B. C., and Sam Cierf and Frank Hatcher, both of Seattle, are mysteriously missing since sighted late Wednesday over Vancouver Island, on the regular Alaska, Vancouver and Seattle commercial plane and ship route. They planned to join the Alaskan, Dorbandt, in the search for the Canadian pilot, his mechanic and the prospector, Martin.

POLA NEGRI HAS DECREE OF DIVORCE

Actress Says She Will Visit Mother and Return Here to Make Pictures

PARIS, Oct. 31. (Exclusive)—Pola Negri obtained a divorce today from Prince Serge Mdvani at the Seine Tribunal.

"I am happy to have finished with the divorce so I can consecrate my life entirely to art," said Pola prosaically after the decree was granted. The Prince did not appear in court, but his lawyer was there to defend his interests.

Pola charged abandonment of their conjugal domicile and did not ask alimony, explaining that property rights were all settled. The question of the ownership of a contested automobile came up, however.

"I am going to Cape Ferrat to visit my mother for a few weeks and then return to America to make pictures," Pola said.

British Gunboat Has Fierce Fight With China Reds

HANKOW (China) Oct. 31. (AP)—A Communist battery near Kienli, Hupeh Province, today sharply attacked the British gunboat Aphis, forcing the vessel to use six-inch guns to protect herself.

The Red cannonaders are reported to have showered the Aphis with rifle fire also. Machine guns of the Aphis supplemented her big guns and sprayed the shore line of the Yangtse River with bullets.

The Britishers finally silenced the Communist fire.

'BLACK (AND BLUE) EAGLE' RUINS EMPEROR'S PLANE

ADDIS ABABA (Abyssinia) Oct. 31. (AP)—"Col." Hubert Julian, New York Negro aviator and self-styled chief of the air force of the Ethiopian army, has been ordered home in disgrace by Emperor Ras Tafari, because he cracked up a plane reserved for the coming coronation festivities. The Emperor was a witness to the accident.

"Col." Julian, who was known among his friends as the "Black Eagle" and had gained much notoriety at home and abroad by his aerial exploits, disobeyed the Emperor's orders and took up the plane in order to demonstrate to the Emperor and other spectators his prowess as a pilot and parachute jumper.

Scarcely had he risen 100 feet when the plane crashed in sight of the horrified Emperor. Julian escaped with a few bruises, but the machine was irretrievably damaged.

At first the Emperor wanted to put Julian in jail, but finally decided to deport him. The airman was almost penniless when he left, but borrowed sufficient funds from Americans to pay his railroad fare to Djibuti.

The crash made a painful impression in Abyssinia because the Emperor had purchased the machine in order to show foreign visitors at the coronation that an Ethiopian could fly as well as a foreigner.

FLAMES ROARING TOWARD RICH SANTA MONICA AREA

Great Section of Homes and Resorts Periled as Wild Brush Blaze Rushes on Unchecked

Stubbornly resisting efforts of hundreds of men to bring it under control, one of the worst brush fires in Southern California's history leaped Los Alisos Canyon on the ocean front last night and raged southward endangering the beautiful Santa Monica mountain region, with its many fine homes, valuable resorts, widespread estates and newly developed beach frontage.

While a concentrated defense was thrown into the beach-front fight, the blaze, threatening the region between Ventura Boulevard and the ocean from the Ventura county line to Hollywood, was reported gaining headway near the head of Trancas Canyon, near Decker Road.

At midnight a northeast breeze was aiding the fighters in battling the fiery tide, but the fire authorities frankly feared a reversal to an offshore wind which would heighten the menace to alarming proportions.

APPREHENSION GROWS

More than 3000 acres have been burned over by the huge blaze, and the deputy fire wardens were apprehensive lest the fire cannot be held generally on the front along Los Alisos Canyon and Decker Road, east of which the beach-front blaze and the Trancas Canyon fire are reported temporarily to have a foothold.

The fear is that if the fire once gains headway strong enough past Trancas Canyon it will sweep unhindered across the mountains through a tangled mass of highly inflammable and dense growth, principal of which are mammanita and buckthorn, eighteen and twenty feet high, and greasewood and sage from three to five feet high which no fire has struck for sixty years.

If the blaze advances its front east of Trancas Canyon the fighters will have to fall back to Escondido Canyon, the only available front it again could be fought on, and hundreds of acres with mountain cabins and residences will be sacrificed. Inaccessibility of the region also would hamper resistance.

When the fire broke through to the highway last night traffic was stopped at Topanga Canyon, ten or twelve miles eastward and ordered back. A constant stream of men and supplies are rushing to the front.

MAJOR DISASTER LOOMS

The major seriousness of the blaze became apparent yesterday when the fire broke all bounds, rushing toward the ocean, leaping firebreaks and roads, destroying homes and cattle, and taking its way for miles through heavy brush and trees.

In addition to the wind the fire was aided by extremely low humidity and the high temperature. This was true also in Ventura county, where every available man was rushed to stem the eastward progress of the Santa Susana-Oak Ridge fire, which has burned more than 30,000 acres in the past three days, and which yesterday leaped the natural firebreak of the Grimes Canyon road and began to eat its way through 20,000 acres more of virgin territory.

The fire in the Santa Monica Mountains, however, was regarded as by far the most dangerous.

CREWS INCREASED

More than 300 men were added yesterday to the force of 800 already in the fire zone. They were volunteers who presented themselves to the fire dispatchers, prepared for service. Not once did the dispatchers have to resort to conscription. In addition to the extra men a truckload of supplies also was sent to the front.

The American Red Cross, Los Angeles chapter, took official cognizance of the fire yesterday, sending large quantities of provisions and first-aid equipment to the several camps being maintained by the fire warden's crew.

The Los Angeles County Flood Control also evinced official interest in the effects of the conflagration. E. C. Eaton, flood-control engineer, ordered two men to the scene to make a survey of damage to watersheds.

HOMES DESTROYED

At the Paramount studios about fifty men stood by last night, awaiting a possible emergency call for more volunteers.

The fire made its first appearance on the ocean front at Big Sycamore Canyon, on the Ventura county side, and swept three miles down the coast line to Little Sycamore Canyon. Several homes and many

Rolph-Merriam Talks Slated

Candidates Will Appear on California-Wide Radio Hook-up Tonight

Plans Laid for Wind-up of Republican Campaign in All Areas of State

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31. (Exclusive)—Bringing the Republican campaign to a close, Mayor James Rolph, Jr., Republican nominee for Governor, and State Senator Frank F. Merriam, Republican nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, will speak from San Francisco and Los Angeles tomorrow night over a State-wide radio hook-up.

Speaking over KFRC in this city, Mayor Rolph will go on the air promptly at 9:30 o'clock. He will discuss campaign issues for fifteen minutes and will be followed immediately by Senator Merriam, who, in Los Angeles, will speak over station KHJ.

UNUSUAL PROGRAM

Details of this final summary of the Republican party's appeal for support in Tuesday's election were completed by long-distance telephone today, M. B. Silberberg of Los Angeles, Republican campaign director for Southern California, and Harry Sperb, Northern California campaign director, making the arrangements.

Although the radio has been used extensively in political campaigns throughout the country, Republican leaders believe that the program tomorrow night will be unusual in many respects.

Mayor Rolph has curtailed his campaign activities during the last week due to a heavy cold, but with the speech tomorrow night he will continue active campaigning until election day.

ABSOLUTE HARMONY

The Republican campaign this year has been marked by absolute harmony between leaders representing Northern and Southern California, Mayor Rolph never neglecting an opportunity to urge support of Senator Merriam's candidacy, and the State Senator from Long Beach showing equal zeal in urging Rolph's election.

In fact, local Republican campaign workers have joined in urging Southern California voters to turn out in full strength Tuesday, not only in support of Rolph, whose election is regarded as certain, but in behalf of the Lieutenant-Governorship nominee, Merriam, whose wet Democratic antagonist, Martin Welsh of Sacramento, is expected to receive a heavy vote in this section of the State.

Attention is drawn to the fact that a light vote in Southern California, where Merriam expects to find his greatest strength, will materially aid the wet candidate.

CONCLUDING EVENTS IN SOUTHLAND PLANNED

An open-air rally of Orange county Republicans at Santa Ana tonight and a mass meeting at 4625 Whittier Boulevard under the auspices of the East Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce Monday night will be concluding events in the Southern California campaign for the Rolph-Merriam ticket.

Speakers at the Santa Ana meeting, which will be preceded by a

OKLAHOMA CITY FIGHTS OIL

Five Hundred Men on Patrol as Gigantic Gusher Threatens Metropolis With Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31. (AP)—An army of 500 men, military and civil, guarded Oklahoma's capital tonight against the menace of a potential fire dragon—a gigantic, wild oil well—that roared at the city's edge.

Nine units of the Oklahoma National Guard were called out during the day to assist civil authorities in protecting life and property in the vicinity of the No. 1 C. E. Stout well, which since last night has been hurling prodigious quantities of oil and gas into the air less than a mile from the main business district and on the southeast outskirts of the wholesale district.

All activities in the threatened area were suspended. Householders were warned not to light fires and residents nearest the well—mostly Negroes—were ordered to vacate their homes. Six schools considered to be menaced by low-hanging clouds of gas were closed, making a holiday for more than 2300 pupils.

The well, estimated to have a daily production of 60,000 barrels of oil and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas, tore loose last night when sand cut its connections. Like the "Wild Mary" Sudik, famous outlaw that defied control for eleven days last spring, ordinary methods failed and a special device known as a "Christmas tree," a heavy steel conical bonnet, is being forged to drop over the bellowing maw of the well.

The guardsmen, wearing war-time steel helmets and slickers as protection from the rain of oil, were ordered out by Adjt.-Gen. Barrett after an appeal had been made by Sheriff Rogers for military aid to supplement the efforts of his staff and city fire and police forces.

The well is just outside the city limits, but much closer to the heart of the city than the greater part of the residence districts. It is on the south bank of the North Canadian River which bisects Oklahoma City.

HILL FIRE ROARS OUT OF CONTROL

cabins in these two canyons were reported wiped out. The fire was said to have surrounded the Decker schoolhouse, Decker ranch houses, and reports from residents who poured out of the mouth of Decker Canyon in front of the flames were that many of their homes had been destroyed.

Among these were declared to have been a fourteen-room residence valued at $20,000, and valuable property belonging to Assistant Postmaster Nathan of Pasadena, R. E. Goiding, owner of Los Flores Tavern, Clifford Thornburn, Henry Chamberlain, Paul Fletcher and others. John Huston was said to have lost his house and thirty head of cattle.

RANCH PERILED

As the flames roared along the coastline, representatives of the Marblehead Land Company, controlling the Rindge Ranch, stretching twenty-two miles along the beach from Santa Monica, asserted that their forces were organized to repel the blaze. Despite its length, the Rindge Ranch is only one mile wide and up to an early hour last night had not been touched by the fire. More than 100 employees stood ready to protect the property.

When the fire jumped the Decker Canyon Ridge, Jack Fletcher, fire lookout, and Walter Clayberg, assistant Ventura county fire warden, had a narrow escape from death, when they were almost trapped by the swiftly running fire. They reported they tried to outrun the flames in a light automobile truck operated by Clayberg, but the truck caught fire and they had to abandon it. Both men then ran before the flames, escaping with a few burns but the truck was destroyed.

Late yesterday, deputies under Spence Turner, Los Angeles County Fire Warden, estimated that the fire had burned over approximately 10,000 acres since it began in the Las Turas-Thousand Oak region Wednesday. The longest line of fire was said to exist from Las Turas Lake to within two miles of Seminole Hot Springs. Fear for that resort and the many cabins in its vicinity was expressed.

CANYON ROAD HURDLED

Twenty thousand acres more of valuable brush and pasture land were exposed yesterday afternoon to the westward sweep of the Oak Ridge-Santa Susana fire, when a towering wall of flame hurdled the south end of Grimes Canyon road, according to reports from county fire headquarters in Santa Paula. Efforts of 300 men under deputy wardens were directed at stopping the fire.

The conflagration has already ravaged 45,000 acres in the four days that it has been burning.

County Fire Warden Walter Emerick said that if the fire should once gain a strong foothold west of Grimes Canyon Road, 20,000 acres of tinder-like brush land extending westward to the Santa Clara River at Santa Paula, and embracing the Oak Ridge oil field, would be virtually certain to go up in flames.

RANCHERS ASK AID

Ranchers in the Fairview section, a productive hay territory, sent hasty calls for aid to Sheriff Clark of Ventura yesterday morning as the flames crept closer to their barns and dwellings. South, toward Moorpark, a hot fire was reported nearing the canyon road.

At the north-end of the six-mile line and completely within the fire zone is the Montebello oil field, which was considered safe early yesterday after 200 men beat out flames which closed it from the south, west and east.

"The prevailing east wind and the low humidity make conditions the worst possible for fire fighting," Emerick said.

A stiff wind from the coast would do much to stem the approach of the flames.

SAN DIEGO REGION BLAZES UNDER CONTROL

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 31. (Exclusive) Crews of county and Federal firefighters today were successful in checking the spread of fires which yesterday burned over about 800 acres in San Diego's back country. Low humidity and easterly winds, however, rendered the fire hazard conditions serious and more than 300 fire fighters are closely watching to prevent fresh outbreaks.

Whirlwinds over the fire lines in the Escondido area were responsible today for some spreading of the fire, which yesterday threatened several cottages and ranches. In general, however, the fire in the Escondido area was confined today to the hill areas and the threat to property was not considered great.

The most serious property damage reported so far from the burned area between Moosa Canyon and Twin Oaks is the burning of two homestead cabins in Moosa Canyon, a barn on the Edwin G. Hart Company's ranch at Twin Oaks, and thirty tons of baled straw, which was the property of William Uhland. Between 800 and 900 acres had been blackened by noon today in the Boulder Creek area, northwest of Descanso. In addition to 100 regular fire fighters, two Federal forestry improvement crews from Corona and Pala were working to hold the fire in check today.

PATROL WIL BE ASKED FOR BORDERS OF CITY

Alarmed by the present high fire hazard condition, Supervisor Wright today at a special meeting of the Board of Supervisors will ask for 100 men to act as patrolmen at the edges of the city of Los Angeles and other settled districts near brush areas during the present hot spell.

"If a fire such as is raging in the Malibu district should get started close in to the city of Los Angeles our whole city might go," Supervisor Wright declared last night.

The Supervisor had just returned from the Malibu fire where he and Supervisor Quinn spent the day watching the hundreds of men fighting to check the fire.

"I made a personal inspection along the entire fire front from near Ventura Boulevard through the Malibu Mountains to the Ocean State highway. The great width of the fire, together with the rank growth of trees and dry vegetation, makes the most serious fire of recent years in Los Angeles county," Supervisor Wright declared.

At 5 p.m. yesterday, Supervisor Shaw was busy with the County Welfare Department gathering together 200 men who are in need of employment, to send them to the fire front. The men inexperienced in fighting fire are paid 35 cents an hour. Those who are crew leaders receive 45 cents an hour.

Officials of the fire and forestry department last night requested idle men not to apply for fire-fighting work at the department's headquarters at 202 North Broadway. The men sent to the fire are taken from the immediate district where it is raging, sent from the State Unemployment Bureau, or picked up at the Plaza.

PILOT BRAVES AIR PERILS FOR PHOTOS

Swinging his airplane low over burning mountain ridges and fiery peaks, Frank M. Erickson, chief pilot for the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, with hangars at Mines Field and Grand Central Airport Terminal, yesterday afternoon enabled a staff photographer from The Times to obtain unusual and authentic pictures of the forest fire sweeping the Santa Monica Mountains. Flying over a forest fire is unusually difficult owing to many air pockets caused by the ascending hot air and expert operation of a plane is required to insure good photographs.

Johnson Would Exploit Alaska

SEATTLE, Oct. 31. (AP)—To take, as he termed it, the "great dead hand off Alaska," Representative Johnson told the Chamber of Commerce here today he will introduce a bill in the next Congress to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to "open tracts, 100 miles in width and 500 miles in length, if necessary, for development."

"There has not been one silver dollar going into Alaska in years and no new people," the Representative said. "Open it up and let it be exploited if necessary. Such a development in Alaska would not only help the Pacific Coast from San Diego to Bellingham, but would stimulate the entire western half of America."

Merced Youths Engage in Riot

MERCED, Oct. 31. (AP)—More than 400 high school and older boys rioted in the streets here tonight after attacking and knocking unconscious a fireman and throwing to the sidewalk Police Chief Westfall. The boys tore up shrubbery in the school grounds and threw rocks at motorists on the streets and kept the fire engines continually on the run by turning in false fire alarms.

The rioting started early in the evening when some of the rowdies were placed under arrest.

SOFIA GREETS NEW QUEEN

Boris and Bride Given Impressive State and Church Honors as They Arrive Home

SOFIA (Bulgaria) Oct. 31. (AP)—Czar Boris III of Bulgaria today brought home his Italian bride, Queen Ioanna, as the former Princess Giovanna will be known, to the capital of their kingdom and both received in Sofia Cathedral the "nuptial benediction" of the Holy Synod of the Bulgarian Orthodox Church.

Sofia's day of festivity and rejoicing was clouded only by foreign reports that seven shots had been fired at the royal train as it brought the King and Queen up from the Black Sea port of Bourgas. The reports, however, were denied.

TIRED, BUT HAPPY

Apparently happy, but obviously tired, the 22-year-old Queen watched the people making merry in the streets this evening. There was no work done in Sofia today, nor will there be tomorrow, which is the feast of St. Ivan Rilsky.

The ceremony in Sofia Cathedral, a solemnization rite for the people of Bulgaria, took place after the royal couple reached Sofia.

The national rather than the sectarian character of it was emphasized by the attendance of the chief rabbi of Bulgaria and the chief mufti, religious leader of the Mohammedans in Bulgaria.

The exchange of rings and certain other ritual details of the Orthodox service were omitted, but the fact the crowns of marriage were held over the heads of the King and Queen, and they drank out of the same communion chalice and both kissed the Gospel afterward, was accepted by Bulgarians as compliance with the essentials of the Orthodox rite.

SIGNS OF THE CROSS

In the course of this ceremony, the young Queen pointedly made the sign of the cross in Catholic fashion. Czar Boris made it in the Orthodox manner.

Otherwise, Queen Ioanna complied with all the outward formalities of the state religion, as befitted Bulgaria's new Queen.

Despite the fact the president of the synod, speaking after the ceremony, congratulated Boris on "founding at last the real Orthodox dynasty" desired by the Bulgarian church, observers had little doubt that the Queen intends to adhere to the religion in which she was brought up.

The representative of the Vatican, Mgr. Roncalla, papal nuncio, did not attend the cathedral service, but was present at the railway station in his capacity of dean of the Diplomatic Corps.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING BRINGS WILD RUMOR

VIENNA, Oct. 31. (AP)—A dispatch from Sofia tonight said accidental discharge of the rifle of a railway policeman while the train bearing King Boris and Queen Ioanna was passing caused reports an attack was made on the royal train, en route to Sofia.

The dispatch said another policeman was wounded by the stray bullet and the long line of guards posted near the tracks thought it was an attack on them and began shooting wildly.

The incident, which occurred near Madole, is said to have been the result of a pure accident.

FOREST CLOSED TO PARTIES

Angeles Reserve Supervisor Bans Permits Because of Fire Peril

Fire permits for parties this week-end will not be issued for Angeles National Forest, it was stated yesterday by W. V. Mendenhall, Supervisor of the forest.

The permits will be refused, he said, because of the unusually great fire hazard, due to a low humidity and a dry wind.

Saunders Prize Given Jackling

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—The 1930 William Lawrence Saunders gold medal was presented tonight to Daniel C. Jackling of San Francisco, president of the Utah Copper Company, at a dinner attended by mining engineers and executives from many parts of the world.

The Saunders medal is awarded annually by the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers for achievement in mining. It was presented to President Hoover in 1928.

Mr. Jackling is distinguished in mining circles for his work in developing low grade copper ores.

Apple Auction Aids Workless

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Red apples were traded on the New York Curb Exchange for a time today.

POSTOFFICE DRAWN INTO NORRIS QUIZ

Electric Association Man Asks How Letter to Him Got Into Senator's Hands

OMAHA (Neb.) Oct. 31. (AP)—The Postoffice Department was drawn today into Senator Norris's campaign for re-election.

Thorne Browne, Nebraska director of the National Electric Light Association, asked postal inspectors to investigate the manner in which a letter written and mailed to him by J. B. Wootan of Chicago, but never delivered to Browne, came into Senator Norris's possession.

The letter was read by the Senator, opposed by former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, in an address last night at Blair. Wootan is editor of the Public Service Magazine.

The contents of the letter, it was revealed, concerned "wire-tapping" charges against Senator Nye, chairman of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee.

Senator Norris said:

"I would be glad to have them investigate. Their conclusion that some one tapped the mails was just as silly as their conclusion that Senator Nye's aides tapped telephone wires.

"It is not so much a question of whether Browne got the letter as it is whether Wootan wrote it. And that is admitted. It (the letter) is evidence that power-trust magazines and publications, as well as officials, are trying to defeat me."

WRITER OF LETTER ASKING QUESTIONS

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—James B. Wootan, editor of Public Service magazine and writer of a letter which cropped up today as an issue in the Nebraska Senatorial campaign, issued a statement tonight, in which he said:

"The point of the whole thing is that a letter written by me to my friend, Thorne Browne, never reaches Browne, but manifestly is delivered to some one else. What we went to know is: Who is that some one else? By whom was the letter delivered? And how does it happen a thing of this sort can be done with a letter regularly committed to the United States mails? If it develops the letter was intercepted, it will be important to know how and by whom it was done and at whose behest."

DRY WATCH ON SENATE DISCLOSED

Undercover Agent Sent to Capitol Hill Offices; Doran Explains Step

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The disclosure was made here today that an undercover prohibition agent was stationed some time ago in the Senate office building.

When published reports to this effect were shown Dr. James M. Doran, former prohibition director and now commissioner of industrial alcohol, he said he had sent the agent to the building at the request of authorities there.

"It was my understanding," Doran said, "there never was any intention to spy on the members of the Senate, but merely to stop the activities of a bootlegger whose liquor-selling the authorities of Capitol Hill wanted stopped."

TWO MURDERED IN NEW YORK CABARET

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—The musicians in a small East Fourth-street cabaret were packing up their instruments early today and half a dozen patrons still lingered at their tables when the door was flung open and a volley of pistol shots poured into the place. Charles Greco and Lawrence Viscordi fell dead with bullets in their heads and bodies. One musician was wounded. Police were unable to learn the motive for the shooting.

Espee Files Plea on Railway Here

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Southern Pacific Railroad asked the Interstates Commerce Commission today to require the Santa Fe either to divest itself of control of the Los Angeles Junction Railway, operating around Los Angeles, or permit the applicant to use junction facilities.

The commission is expected to institute an investigation in which the Santa Fe will be allowed to answer charges of discrimination in the operation of the Junction Railway set forth by the Southern Pacific complaint.

JERSEYITES WILL ELECT MORROW

Republican Candidate Rates High on Ability

Intelligent Voters Believe Simpson Weak

Business Depression Not So Critical in State

BY CLINTON W. GILBERT

(Copyright, 1930, by the Public Ledger.)

NEWARK (N. J.) Oct. 31. (Exclusive)—In New Jersey the Democratic trend observable generally in northern and eastern industrial States meets certain counter-influences which are likely to keep the State Republican on November 4, next. An analysis of these factors helps to understand what is at work elsewhere.

In the first place, the Republican candidate for Senator, Dwight W. Morrow, is, whether he likes to be called so or not, wet. And, incidentally, that recent statement put forth to the effect that Mr. Morrow does not like to be called a wet does not mean that he is trying to play the usual political game of trying to be wet and dry at the same time.

DOESN'T LIKE "WET"

He is as he always has been from the start, opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment. His personal opinion is that the word "wet" so handy as a political designation, means nothing. A wet is one who is in any degree opposed to prohibition and for any reason. He may be for retaining the Eighteenth Amendment and trying to smuggle in wines and beers under it.

Mr. Morrow is opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment on principle. He probably sees the convenience of a three-letter designation of those who wish to get rid of Federal prohibition even though he dislikes its lack of precision.

Anyway, for the purposes of this article, Mr. Morrow is a wet. The result is that he does not suffer the opposition that William M. Butler, a dry, does in Massachusetts, and Senator McCulloch, a dry, does in Ohio, or that Mrs. McCormick, who has pleased neither wets nor drys, does in Illinois.

OTHERS OPPOSED

Opposition to prohibition furnishes a reason for a great many Republicans to vote against Mr. Butler, Mr. McCulloch and Mrs. McCormick. If a Republican wishes to vote against Mr. Morrow it will be chiefly on the ground that he expresses his discontent with existing business conditions. Then, too, the situation in New Jersey is different from that in some of the other normally Republican States, which are likely to go Democratic this year, and in this important respect.

Mr. Morrow is an especially strong candidate, the strongest Senate candidate that the Republicans have put up anywhere this year. He has made the impression on his State that he is an especially well qualified man to represent it in Washington. Personal strength in politics is an exception to all rules. The rule in politics is that all candidates of the party in power should suffer during an economic depression.

SIMPSON WEAK

This rule will apply only to a limited extent to Mr. Morrow. And particularly because his opponent, Alexander Simpson, is a weak candidate. In Ohio, for example, the situation is reversed. The Democratic candidate for Senator impresses the State as especially fit and the Republican candidate as not so. And in Massachusetts, while the Democratic candidate is not strong he personally is better liked than the Republican candidate.

Mr. Simpson is well known to the State. He does not inspire much confidence. He has made a rather cheap demagogic campaign which does not appeal to the intelligent and independent voters. He will get what may be called the resentment vote of New Jersey but he will not pull the full strength of his own party.

DEMOCRATS MAY AID

The Wilson Democrats of New Jersey, the voters who do not like The Hague machine, will vote for Mr. Morrow. And so will a considerable element which was pleased with Mr. Morrow's work in Mexico in appeasing the quarrel between church and state there.

Then, too, the reaction against business conditions probably will not influence as many voters in New Jersey as it will in some of the other States. At least, that is the opinion of well-qualified political observers in the State.

This is an element in the situation which is quite hard to gauge. It may produce a moderate overturn or it may produce a Democratic landslide in some places. But New Jersey to all appearances, has not been hit quite so hard by bad business as some other States have been.

PICTURES FAIL

Mr. Simpson has been hard put to it for pictures of a bread line to publish in his advertising. His first picture was quite easily recognized as something else than a bread line, and so was rejected. The one he finally caused to be published cannot be identified by Jersey men as taken in New Jersey.

So Mr. Morrow does not lose in two directions at once as do Republican Senate candidates in some other States that are expected to go Democratic, and at the same time has elements of relative personal strength that Republican candidates elsewhere have not.

matic return to the hustings, a sort of "homecoming" to the political battleground.

A crowd awaited his coming. There was no "Big Bill" on the platform, no cowboy hat waving at them in the familiar way.

A spokesman arose and made the brief announcement, Mayor Thompson, protesting his doctor's orders, had been carried on a stretcher to an ambulance and rushed to Passavant Hospital. Three surgeons at the moment were operating upon their patient.

Two hours later the Mayor's condition was pronounced satisfactory but the attendants said they could not predict the outcome for forty-eight hours.

dinner at St. Ann's Inn in that city, will include Senator Merriam, John L. McNab of San Francisco and a number of Orange county Republican leaders. The meeting will be in Birch Park.

WARNING ISSUED

At the East Side meeting Monday evening, Mr. Merriam, Louis B. Mayer, first vice-chairman of the Republican State Committee, State Senator J. W. McKinley and M. B. Silberberg will be among the speakers.

Declaring that there still may be confusion in the minds of some voters caused by the resemblance in the names of Gov. Young and Milton K. Young, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Mr. Mayer has issued a warning to voters. He said:

"Milton K. Young, the Democrat, contested in the Republican primary for the Republican nomination for Governor, although at the last minute and when it was legally too late, he attempted to have his name withdrawn from the Republican ballot.

"This act of Democratic Milton K. Young led to some confusion in the primary but it must not be allowed to confuse the voters in the general election on Tuesday.

SOLID SUPPORT

"The Republican ticket to be presented to the voters on Tuesday is headed by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, as the party's nominee for Governor, and Senator Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach as its nominee for Lieutenant-Governor.

"The Republican party of the State is solidly behind Mayor Rolph, Senator Merriam and the other candidates on its ticket from the Governorship down to the Assembly.

"We are confident that the citizens of California will, in preponderant majority, cast their ballots for the nominees on the Republican ticket."

the early part of the next session of Congress.

"As a means toward expediting construction in these cases the department has under consideration the immediate use of another appropriation for the making of topographical surveys and test pit borings, which are usually paid out of the building appropriations. With such data at hand work on the plans and specifications for the buildings can be advanced to a point where the projects can be placed on the market for construction bids shortly after appropriations have been obtained from Congress."

RASKOB TARGET IN CRASH QUERY

Stock Investment Counsel Cited by G.O.P. Poster

His Advice Contrasted With That Offered by Mellon

Sheet Scheduled for Display Throughout Country

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (Exclusive)—Asking "Who caused the stock market crash?" the Republican National Committee today began circulation of a large advertising poster quoting a magazine article by John J. Raskob in August, 1929, influentially urging people to invest in common stocks and contrasting with advice from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on March 15, 1930, that they ought to put their money in bonds.

The poster carries a facsimile copy of the Raskob magazine article entitled "Everybody Ought to Be Rich—an Interview with John J. Raskob by Samuel Crowther."

Up in a corner besides it is a New York Times headline under date of March 15—five months earlier than the Raskob interview, and six months instead of two before the stock market crash of October, 1929, year. The portion of the headline shown reads: "Mellon advises buying of bonds now by investors; yields as compared to high stock prices make them worth while, he says—'warning' conveyed in statement backs Reserve Board's speculative caution."

QUESTION PUT

Underneath the facsimile in large type is the query: "Did Raskob cause the crash?" Mr. Raskob, as chairman of the Democratic National Committee and as an operator in the stock market was in a position to wield tremendous influence."

The magazine interview gave an explanation by Raskob as to how great wealth could be obtained through the wise purchase of common stocks. For example, it contained these paragraphs:

"The common stocks of this country have in the past ten years increased enormously in value because the business of the country has increased. Ten thousand dollars invested ten years ago in the stock of General Motors would now be worth more than $1,500,000. General Motors is only one of many first-class industrial corporations.

FORECAST MADE

"It may be said that this phenomenal increase and that conditions are going to be different in the next ten years. That prophecy may be true, but it is not founded on experience. In my opinion, the wealth of the country is bound to increase at a very rapid rate. The rapidity of the rate will be determined by the increase in consumption, and under wise investment plans the consumption will rapidly increase."

In another paragraph he says: "No one can become rich merely by saving. Putting aside a sum each week or month in a sock at no interest or in a savings bank at ordinary interest will not prove big enough for old age unless life in the meantime be rigorously skimped down to the level of mere existence."

No comment from Republican national headquarters accompanies the poster, but it is understood the national committee is giving it wide distribution throughout the country and will publish it in newspapers as an advertisement.

BOURBONS' PLAN MEANS CHAOS SAYS WATSON

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader in the Senate, told a national wide radio audience tonight "no one could even begin to describe the appalling conditions that inevitably would come to pass," if a Democratic Congress were to be elected next Tuesday.

Senator Watson quoted from a recent radio speech of former Governor Cox of Ohio in which the latter said: "If the House and Senate are Democratic the existing tariff law will be repealed without hearings or any other ceremony."

Immediate repeal of the existing tariff law, Senator Watson said, would leave the country without any tariff law whatever and throw the entire business of the nation into "utter chaos."

"And it is worthy of thought, that the present Republican House will remain in authority until March 4," Senator Watson continued. "It would not be possible even to begin consideration of a proposition to repeal the present law before December, 1931, and if a Democratic Congress were to be elected next Tuesday, pledged to repeal the tariff when it comes into power, the business of the country would already be paralyzed through the intervening period. Uncertainty like a black pall would cover every industrial institution in the land."

The floor leader also quoted from radio speeches by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and former Governor Smith, and said a joint debate appeared to be in progress between them as Raskob saw prosperity the way while Gov. Smith saw nothing but gloom continuing for an indefinite period.

WALES TO VISIT SOUTH AMERICA

Tour Next Year Will Be in Hoover's Footsteps

Full Itinerary and Date of Departure Not Set

Business Men Hope to Regain Trade Good Will

LONDON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Prince of Wales, in his role of traveling salesman for old England, will cover much of the territory visited by President-elect Hoover on his South American tour in a trip which his Royal Highness will undertake early next year.

The royal heir's complete itinerary, and even the date of his departure, cannot be stated definitely, since both are still subject to change, Sir Godfrey Thomas, private secretary, said at St. James's Palace today.

FIVE NATIONS NAMED

Sir Godfrey did specify Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru and Cuba as nations which the Prince will visit. "There is a possibility of his Royal Highness entering the Argentine by way of the west coast of South America," he said.

In the event this plan is to be carried out the royal party will leave England probably in December on an ordinary passenger steamer, going direct to Havana. The visit to Cuba will be brief, his steamer remaining in Havana only a few hours before proceeding to the Panama Canal.

"His Highness is not making an affair of his Cuban visit," Sir Godfrey said, "but, of course, he will be delighted to see one more Latin-American capital."

PERU TO CHILE

From Peru the Prince will proceed to Chile and thence by rail across the Andes to Argentina and Brazil. Whether he will come home from Brazil in a British warship or by ordinary steamer has not been decided.

British business, whose South American investments total £1,000,000,000 sterling, has been hard hit by American and German competition.

Businessmen are greatly elated over the royal tour and plan to make of it an occasion to induce South America to give more thought to British goods.

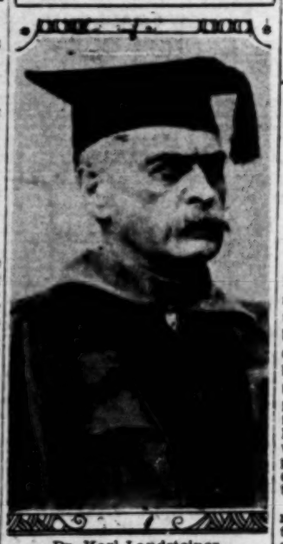
WINNER OF NOBEL RESEARCH AWARD



Dr. Karl Landsteiner

APE MAN'S KIN, NOT ANCESTOR

Nobel Medical Prize Winner Reads Blood Sign

Anthropoid Our Cousin Now Instead of Grandpa

Other Information Disclosed to Rockefeller Institute

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (Exclusive) Man's blood relationship to the anthropoid ape, the diagnosis of paternity and the identification of blood stains as applied to criminal cases were discussed this afternoon by Dr. Karl Landsteiner, winner of the Nobel prize for medicine, in an interview at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Dr. Landsteiner received the award, which carries a money grant of approximately $48,000, yesterday for his discoveries in classifying different types of human blood.

The studies of Dr. Landsteiner are mostly concerned with research in the field of immunology. This science is of comparatively recent development, starting with successful immunizations against infectious diseases by Pasteur and the discovery of toxins and antibodies of their action in the last decade of the nineteenth century. The goal is immunization by synthetic serums.

BROTHER TO APE

Guardedly discussing his experiments with the blood of apes, Dr. Landsteiner said it had been found that a much closer relationship exists between man and the ape than exists between the ape and the monkey.

The ape, according to the immunologist, has blood almost identically like that of man, but the blood of the ape and monkey do not mix so readily when put into the test tube. This eliminates the ape as the "missing link" and advances the theory that both the ape and man originated from an ancestor even more remote than the anthropoid.

Regarding the identification of bloodstains, Dr. Landsteiner said the discovery had not been put to much practical use in criminal cases. It is easily possible, he said, to determine whether the blood on a suspected criminal's clothes belonged to the criminal or the victim.

BLOOD IDENTIFIED

"The comparison of cells in the bloodstain with those of the blood of the suspected criminal," said the doctor, "will immediately reveal whether they are related. If not of the same type, the next step is comparison with the blood of the victim. If they match guilt should be easily determined."

Dr. Landsteiner's study of the human-blood groups started in 1900 and led to the establishment of definite individual differences in human blood. The practical outcome of these findings was their application to the selection of donors for blood transfusion whereby this formerly dangerous operation became a safe and frequently used procedure.

Dr. Landsteiner was the first to infest monkeys with the virus of poliomyelitis of infantile paralysis.

IMMUNITY PUZZLE

The research in immunology, as explained by the doctor, was first to determine the action of serums on the blood. "One of the most remarkable and puzzling features of the immunity phenomena," said Dr. Landsteiner, "appeared to be the specific action of the antibodies on certain substances which had been introduced in the body by spontaneous infection or artificially."

First, the doctor discovered that actual chemical reactions took place and for the first time immunology was placed in the field of chemistry. A man who has had smallpox was given as an example. Some chemical reaction takes place and if he recovers he is immune from smallpox. Why is he immune from that specific disease? That is what Dr. Landsteiner is working on.

Live germs and dead germs were just germs until Dr. Landsteiner began taking them apart and classifying their chemical make-up. Now his work has progressed to the point where the chemical structure of a disease-fighting substance may be correlated to the chemical structure of the germ involved.

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) Oct. 31. (Exclusive)—Arkansas after next Tuesday will have the distinction of having two women as Representatives in Congress with the election of Mrs. Otis Wingo to succeed her husband, who died recently. She has been nominated to fill the uncompleted portion of his term, as well as for the full term following, the nomination having been accorded her by the Democrats of the Fourth District in compliance with a deathbed wish expressed by Representative Wingo. The Republican organization of the district likewise has indorsed her.

She has two children, but was closely associated with the legislative activities of her husband.

QUAKE ZONE REBUILDING UNDER WAY

New City Already Rising Out of Ruins at Ancona; Death Count Unchanged

ANCONA (Italy) Oct. 31. (AP)—A new city is rising phoenix-like from the ashes of the Ancona laid waste by yesterday's series of earthquakes. The people who fled in terror as the earth rocked under their feet have turned to the job of reconstruction.

It was believed possible the toll of dead and injured might be somewhat larger than the official lists indicate, but the count remains at four dead here and thirteen at Senigallia, where the quake struck its heaviest blow. Public officials said in private they believe the Seningallia dead actually number thirty-five or more.

Some of the injured probably will die, too, for harassed physicians despair of saving the lives of all the 300 officially listed among the casualties.

CHILDREN RETURN TO THEIR NEW HOMES

ROME, Oct. 31. (AP)—While Northeastern Italy is digging out from the devastation of a new earthquake, 500 children left Rome today to return to the region stricken by another earthquake July 23, last.

The youngsters, many of whom are orphans, go back to new homes built by government funds to resist future earth shocks.

Oil Men Demand Duty Quiz Haste

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Independent oil producers of the Southwest today urged the Tariff Commission to speed its inquiry into the comparative costs of production of American and Venezuelan crude oil, left on the free list in the 1930 Tariff Act after six attempts to make it dutiable had failed in the Senate.

Following the brief hearing, the third in four days in which the commission has listened to an airing of dissatisfaction over the Hawley-Smoot Act, individual members indicated a report may be expected in December.

Glendale Man to "Sell" Lot

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP) — There were indications today that William Sallstrom will be able to return to his home in Glendale, Cal., with $10,000 in exchange for the "vacant" lot on which he found a $100,000 apartment had been erected without his knowledge or consent.

Officials of a title and trust company announced that the equity of Sallstrom and B. M. Berman, owner of the building, will be settled in such a way that Berman will receive a clear title to the lot in exchange for its value before the building was erected, which was estimated at $10,000.

Four men are asserted to have sold the lot to Berman by fraud.

Californians Get Hero Awards

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31. (AP)—Two bronze medals and a death benefit of $80 a month were awarded by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission today in recognition of acts of heroism performed by two residents of California.

The awards were two of forty-six made by the commission. They were to Mrs. Jay Booth Meredith of Merced Falls, Cal., whose husband died in trying to save a girl from drowning, and Mahlon V. Fales, Santa Cruz, for saving a schoolboy from drowning. Fales was given a bronze medal. Mrs. Meredith was granted both a medal and the death benefit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Radio stations KFHA at Gunnison, Colo., and KZM at Hayward, Cal., were ordered off the air by the Radio Commission today because of their failure to apply for renewal of licenses within the time specified by law.

WOODCOCK HAS ARIDITY HOPES

Bay City Club Told Dry Law Proves Workable

Private Violator Must Be Schooled, He Says

Director Sees Home Brewing as Beyond Reach

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31. (Exclusive)—Lieut.-Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition director, told members of the Commonwealth Club in an address shortly after his arrival here today that he has sincere confidence in the workability of the national prohibition law, the stopping of the flow of illicit liquor in commercial quantities being a problem of cooperation between local and State authorities "and intelligent, honest, energetic Federal agents."

"As to the private violator," he said, "he will have to be educated to the evils of alcohol.

"Prohibition enforcement is akin to stopping gambling. We curb open gambling but we make no attempt to stop the bridge game in the home, although it is gambling, too

EDUCATE PUBLIC

"We have an appropriation of $40,000 for educational work. This is not for propaganda, but to investigate and tell the public exactly how enforcement is getting along. The public is entitled to know how this great experiment is working out, whether illy or well."

With the co-operation mentioned and the right personnel in the enforcement field, Woodcock declared he is "optimistic enough to believe the prohibition bureau can and will stop commercial traffic in intoxicating liquors."

One of the handicaps, he said, is his force of agents. There are only 1650 in the entire country. He has asked Congress for 500 additional agents, he said, to augment his own force. This, and the direct co-operation of State and local enforcement officers, will be of distinct advantage.

CAN'T INVADE HOME

Beer and wine in the home, Woodcock said, are beyond the reach of the prohibition bureau unless transportation or sale or both can be shown. Of this subject, he said:

"Regarding the making of beer and wine in the home, it is unlawful to make anything containing more than ½ of 1 per cent of alcohol. However, unless a householder sells or transports his beer or wine we cannot touch him. It is impossible to obtain a search warrant without evidence of a sale of liquor and we cannot go into a home without a search warrant. This applies principally to home-brew beer.

"As to wine, there is still more difficulty because the courts have held in the manufacture of fruit juices in the home, they must be 'intoxicating in fact' to obtain a conviction. Nothing is said about the actual percentage of alcohol.

CONSPIRACY CASE

"On the other hand, if a manufacturer of fruit juices or grape concentrates advertises or tells customers that the product can easily be turned into wine and the buyer is shown how to do it, the seller can be convicted of conspiracy to violate the law."

Having just arrived in California on his tour of the nation's enforcement divisions, Woodcock said he is not in a position to state yet what the extent is of enforcement co-operation here between local and Federal authorities.

CO-OPERATION BETTER

Generally, he said, co-operation is becoming more and more noticeable. In Philadelphia, for instance, the police closed 2000 bars, and in New York City, half the bootleg liquor cases arising in the Federal Court are cases in which the arrests were initiated or carried out by local authorities. In Chicago police officers were lent to the Federal Prohibition Bureau.

"I believe the prohibition force is composed of honest men," he said. "I have not heard a single charge of graft since I have been in office, and have not received a letter regarding crooked agents."

Washington Jury Clears Campbell

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Herbert M. Campbell was acquitted today of the murder of Mary Baker, government clerk.

A verdict of acquittal was returned by a jury in District of Columbia Supreme Court after it had deliberated little more than half an hour.

The decision left unsolved the murder of the young government clerk, whose body was found in a culvert near Arlington National Cemetery April 12.

REPORTER WEDS MILLIONS

But Nan O'Reilly, $40,000,000 Bride, Keeps on Job After Secret Marriage in 1928

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—She's married to $40,000,000, but she continues as a reporter. She rides to the office in a limousine, but gets out of it around the corner and "walks to work." She has a house with ten servants, but her typewriter is as battered as any.

She's Mrs. Silas Newton, nee Nan O'Reilly, and one of the few women sports writers in the country. She's been married for two years and even her closest friends apparently didn't know about it.

And how was it kept secret? Merely by not attempting to hide it.

"You won't fire me, will you?" was the first question she asked when her editor found out she was married.

Assured her job was safe, she heaved a sigh of relief and asked for a vacation. She and Mr. Newton are on a vacation now, somewhere in the Middle West.

They were married just before they sailed for Europe for the British open in 1928, he to participate, she to write about it.

Besides being an amateur golfer he is president of the Indiana Oil and Gas Corporation. He gave her $1,000,000 as a wedding present.

GIBSON SCOUTS FOR NAVY PACT

Ambassador Confers in Rome With Mussolini

Italy and France Reported to Be Nearer Accord

Paris Declares Government Offers Concessions

ROME, Oct. 31. (AP)—The unexpected arrival of Hugh S. Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium, and his conferences today with high Italian officials made the Italo-French naval situation the chief topic of conversation in Rome tonight.

Although Mr. Gibson denied he is a special appointee of President Hoover to attempt settlement of the Italo-French naval disagreement, saying he merely is here as a member of the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission, he said Italian and French conversations are continuing, and he predicted some results from them.

Official circles confirmed Mr. Gibson's statement he is not here in a special capacity to compose differences of the two nations, but added it would have been impossible for him to have discussed disarmament without referring to those differences.

They likewise confirmed his statement the Italo-French naval conversations, which recently failed at Geneva, have not been entirely broken off, and believe talks will be resumed at the preparatory commission's session at Geneva Thursday.

Government spokesmen said the French attitude has become more conciliatory and they are more hopeful of results.

Mr. Gibson, who is chief delegate for the United States to the preparatory commission sitting, will remain here several days and then go to Paris to confer with Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand.

The American envoy was received in audience today by Premier Mussolini. He also conferred with Dino Grandi, Foreign Minister, and Augusto Rossi and Gen. de Marinis, disarmament experts.

FRANCE WOULD MAKE CONCESSIONS TO ITALY

PARIS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Hugh S. Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium, who long has played a prominent part in international disarmament conferences, was a front-page personage in the European press today, because he is striving to bring France and Italy together on their naval disagreement.

Premier Tardieu has frankly explained to Ambassador Gibson France's position.

France, it is learned in official quarters, is ready to make concessions on the naval problem without, however, admitting the principle of parity, the rock upon which Franco-Italian negotiations have struck.

If Ambassador Gibson carried any message to Premier Mussolini from Premier Tardieu, it is believed here to be that France has no desire to isolate Italy, and that on the contrary she hopes through a binding naval accord to establish friendly and helpful relations in all domains.

GIBSON REPORTING PROGRESS TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Secretary Stimson said today Ambassador Gibson is reporting fully to him on the informal conversations in Paris and Rome, in connection with efforts for Franco-Italian naval accord.

BOARD MOVES TO SAVE HOMES

Federal Agency Has Remedy for Family Perils

Production Based on Needs of Nation Urged

Uncertainty of Work Now Gravest Menace

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—To save the threatened American home, Dr. Louise Stanley, chairman of the committee on the family, advocated a national production program based on national consumption needs in her report for the coming White House child conference.

Chief of the Federal Home Economics Bureau, Dr. Stanley granted that statistics on marriage, divorce and proportion of births to population now seem to indicate family disintegration. But she found family life worth saving.

Machine-equipped industry, her committee discovered, had invented elaborate procedures for housekeeping and created new wants with a multiplicity of products. The home researchers saw, keeping pace with this trend, increased urbanization, growth of apartments and flats, less space per person, less privacy, less family entertaining, more dependence on outside amusements, fewer children, and the cost of a child increased

REMEDY OFFERED

Fitting production to goods used, the committee held, would stabilize the market, obviate the unemployment and migration "which give to urban family life its most objectionable features," enable the worker to establish a permanent home and give to the child family security.

Dr. Stanley's committee placed the official stamp of approval on the wife and mother working outside the home, "if she can earn enough to pay for the goods or services she would produce in the home and get more enjoyment in this outside work."

It also nodded at the homemaker buying food prepared outside the home, provided she knew its quality and composition.

Family discussion of the family budget, both of money and of time, was advised as a home-integrating factor.

ORIGINAL STUDIES

Many original researches, including a study of home environment of 9000 school children, went into the committee conclusions, which also were based on census reports and all other available family facts and figures.

The committee found: Marriage earlier, families larger, in manufacturing centers; percentage of married population increasing as the size of the community decreases; size of family decreasing as size of community increases; illegitimate births increasing with size of community; more childless couples in cities; city families moving more frequently than rural families.

While these results appeared pessimistic for the city family, the Stanley report said, evidence from the study of 9000 school children showed city children better adjusted than rural children.

The committee recommended school and college courses "to further the satisfactions of intelligent participation in family life and to prepare for courtship, marriage and parenthood."

CHURCHMEN TO DEBUNK MARRIAGE

Presbyterians Lay Plans to Take Leadership for Remedying Conditions

DETROIT, Oct. 31. (AP)—Members of the commission on marriage, divorce and remarriage of the Presbyterian church held their fall meeting here today intent on providing leadership in the matter of marriage and divorce.

"There is an honest longing among people for leadership on this question," Rev. Ralph Marshall Davis, Erie, Pa., chairman of the commission, said. "Irresponsible moralists have prescribed many remedies which dispute the basic Christian morality of marriage.

"There is today a real need for debunking marriage. The false values which have been attached to both marriage and divorce must be eradicated, and for this service we must depend upon the ministry of all denominations.

"Our aim is to make clear the ideals of marriage, to assist youth in avoiding the tragedies of youth, to secure life against companionless existence and to provide for all access to a normal Christian home."

The commission has approved the employment of a research secretary and plans to gather data for a scientific study of the entire subject of marriage and divorce. It is cooperating with the Federal Council of Churches, other religious organizations, social-research agencies and universities.

Three Accused in Dry Killing

KEY WEST (Fla.) Oct. 31. (AP)—Warrants charging first-degree murder were issued here tonight for three government agents in connection with the disappearance Wednesday of Willie Demeritt, asserted rum runner, off the Florida Keys. The men named are H. B. Bowry, chief boatswain commanding Coast Guard picket boat No. 2070; Everett Charlow, engineer of the craft, and Oscar Lounders, customs agent.

Demeritt is said to have been fatally wounded by bullets from pistols of the two Coast Guardsmen when he and three companions ignored orders of the Guardsmen to cease throwing overboard contraband liquor from the motorboat Martia.

R-101 Survivors Before Inquiry Describe Crash

LONDON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Four men who escaped with their lives from the inferno of the dirigible R-101 when she crashed and burned on a hillside near Beauvais, France, today recounted those terrifying moments just before the wreck at the court of inquiry investigating the disaster.

So harrowing was the experience that two of them asked the court not to compel them to describe the agonized screams of their comrades perishing in the flames, and the commission was as gentle as circumstances permitted in questioning A. J. Cook, H. J. Leech and V. Savory, engineers, and Arthur Disley, the radio operator.

KIDNAPERS' WOMAN AIDE IN CUSTODY

Confession to Cooking for Captors of Banker Reported by Officials

KEWANEE (Ill.) Oct. 31. (AP)—Two members of the kidnap band were still missing tonight, but the house where Earl Yocum, wealthy Galva (Ill.) bank president, was held captive for three days, and the woman who cooked meals for the banker and his four captors were located.

Sheriff Nash and State's Attorney Melin of Henry county said the woman, Mrs. Frank Stockers, readily admitted her home in Lacon, Ill., was used by the gang.

Search for the house followed a confession made by Vernon Ahlgren, Galva mechanic, who is one of two of the asserted gang in custody. Two others are being sought.

Mrs. Stockers told the officers arrangements for keeping Yocum at her place were made by Floyd Winslow, an ex-convict, who also was implicated in the Ahlgren statement.

She cooked the meals, she said, and passed them to Winslow. To assure she should not see any others of the gang or Yocum, she told the officers, Winslow ordered her to remain in her bedroom whenever members of the gang, other than himself, went in or out.

Winslow is one of the men sought. Orville Whiskers is the other. Ahlgren is in jail here and Harry Whiskers is held in jail at Cambridge.

Yocum was released when the kidnapers were told money awaited them at an agreed place, Ahlgren in his confession, said they found a dummy package.

FLYING SHIP TESTED FOR OCEAN HOP

DO-X in Flight to Try Instruments for Start to New York Soon

ALTENHEIM (Switzerland) Oct. 31. (AP)—Germany's great flying ship the DO-X, which has carried aloft as many as 169 persons, but never has been away from sheltered Lake Constance, is about ready to leave the nest in which it was hatched.

On Sunday if the weather is favorable the world's largest flying boat will leave for Amsterdam on what, if it all goes well, will be the first leg of a cruise to New York.

After Amsterdam the DO-X will go to England and then to Lisbon, whence the start will be made for the American metropolis via the Azores and Bermuda. Maurice Dornier, in charge of the flight, said today the earliest possible start from Lisbon would be November 10, which probably will put the airplane in New York two days later.

So in preparation for this great venture the DO-X was given another trial flight over Lake Constance today, principally to test the instruments and to show twenty-five newspaper men how the craft looks from the inside while cruising.

It was in the air only an hour but that was enough to convince Commander Christiansen everything was in order.

COLUMBIA CREW SEEK PASSAGE ON FLIGHT

BERLIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—Capt. J. Errol Boyd and Lieut. Harry P. Connor, trans-Atlantic aviators, intend to join the projected flight of the flying boat DO-X to the United States if possible.

The airmen, who recently flew from North America to England in the monoplane Columbia, arrived here today in the veteran transoceanic craft and announced they were going on to Friedrichshafen to confer on participation in the DO-X expedition.

SOLAR SPEEDER CAUSES ICE AGE

Theory of Glacial Periods Told Optical Society

Sun in Cosmic Dust Clouds Believed Explanation

Coronal Rays During Eclipse Studied for Solution

CHARLOTTESVILLE (Va.) Oct. 31. (AP)—Solar eclipse studies that may in future years reveal the cause of the earth's great glacial periods were described to the Optical Society of America today.

The glacial theory is one recently advocated by the astronomer, Dr. Harlan T. Stetson, that the sun at times may travel through dust clouds in space which shadow its rays sufficiently to reduce earth's temperature to ice age levels.

The studies themselves are merely measuring, in eclipse after eclipse, the varying brightness of light in the sun's pearly corona. They were described today by Dr. Stetson, who is director of the Perkins Observatory of Ohio Wesleyan University. He said a recently perfected instrument, the Macbeth illuminometer, measured this light in the Malayan eclipse last year and again this month in the Southern Pacific Ocean eclipse observed by Americans at Niuafou Island.

CORONAL LIGHT

By obtaining many measurements of the coronal light and making them accurately enough, he said, astronomers may finally determine much now unknown about the cause of the light fluctuations. One of these studies concerns the sources of the coronal light. One theory of the source which Dr. Stetson said deserves "serious consideration" is the possibility that it is in part reflected from dust particles and so is an evidence of the dust clouds.

In his recent analysis of dust cloud effects Dr. Stetson pointed to astronomical evidence of their existence in the path the sun is known to be travelling. He commented upon effects of dust particles scattered in the earth's atmosphere by the Pelee and Katmai eruptions and said:

SHUT OFF HEAT

"The dust particles act much as a screen to the radiation of the sun and are undoubtedly responsible for decreased solar radiation reaching earth during those years. If such can be the effect of a relatively thin shell of volcanic dust it is more than likely that the passage of the solar system through a cosmic dust cloud would result in lowering the temperature of the earth by several degrees.

"If such lowered temperature should persist for any considerable length of time winter snows would cease to melt and an ice sheet of vast extent would gradually form in the otherwise temperate zones. This appears to be one of the most plausible explanations of the well-known glacial periods."

DRY MAKES WET BOAST BOOMERANG

Antialcoholism League's Chief Causes Statement on Canvass to Hit Back

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, said in a statement tonight there has been no reversal of public opinion on prohibition, "but rather a continuously growing support of the dry policy."

The statement was issued in answer to the announcement last Tuesday by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment that 371 replies to 823 questionnaires it sent to Congressional candidates to ascertain their prohibition views show 265 for and 99 against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

This announcement, Cherrington said, demonstrates that "more than two-thirds and possibly four-fifths of the candidates for the House and Senate are probably supporters of prohibition."

"It is hard to believe any enemy of prohibition or ardent friend of repeal would lose the opportunity thus afforded him of making clear his position on this question, especially to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, unless he were quite certain that a wet declaration would jeopardize his election in a dry State or Congressional district," he added.

"In other words, the 452 who probably threw the wet questionnaire into the waste basket were either convinced believers in prohibition or else recognized the political unwisdom of making any statement which might be interpreted as unfriendly to the Eighteenth Amendment."

HARD LUCK DOGS TRAIL OF PITTMAN

Nevada Senator and Wife Both in Same Hospital With Broken Legs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—It wasn't a campaign year for Senator Pittman of Nevada and he looked forward to some rest this summer from the long grind of Congress, but he now claims a hard-luck role that will overshadow that of any of his campaigning colleagues.

First, the Pittman residence here burned down—twice. Then Mrs. Pittman went out recently to inspect work on the new home. She fell and a leg was broken.

Senator Pittman rushed east from a committee hearing to be with Mrs. Pittman. Getting out of an airplane upon his arrival a loose board on the platform threw him and he broke a bone in his leg. He is now in the same hospital with Mrs. Pittman.

LASSCO-MATSON COMBINE STIRS

Harbor Held Due to Benefit Greatly by Deal

Gain in Cargo and Tourist Traffic Forecast

New Sailing Schedule for Fleet in Making

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

Alternate trips of the $7,000,000 liner Malolo to Hawaii from Los Angeles and San Francisco is one of the direct gains to Los Angeles expected from the merger of Lassco and Matson Line interests announced yesterday.

Details of the combine, regarded as one of the most important to California shipping in years, gradually are being aired.

"It will mean increased sailings and increased tourist and freight movements in and out of this port," it was declared yesterday by Ralph J. Chandler, vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Steamship Company. "We already are working on the new schedules and I can assure you the pooling of operations will prove a happy one for Los Angeles, and a great convenience to the entire State."

Incidentally the combination will give Matson Navigation Company its first direct hook-up with the Pacific - Atlantic intercoastal trade through Lassco's owning interest in the fleet of the Arrow Line. The combine likewise will give Los Angeles more intimate contacts with the Antipodes through Matson's subsidiary, the Oceanic Steamship Company, and through Matson's freight branch of the Oceanic and Oriental Navigation Company.

The Yale and Harvard, also figuring in the merger, will afford a convenient shuttle service to and from San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego in serving the combine's ships plying to Hawaii and Australia.

Los Angeles Steamship Company will not lose its identity. In Southern California the outfit will continue to be known as Lassco; in the north it will remain Matson, while in the east both names will be carried in schedules and exploitation.

The increased schedules are expected this month, but the full benefit locally of the merger is not to be felt until completion of the three new $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 ships, two of which already are under construction at Bethlehem's Fore River plant.

OCTOBER SHIPPING ACTIVITY REVIEWED

Ship arrivals at the port last month came within striking distance of the 2,000,000-ton mark, there being 677 incoming ships, totaling 1,988,676 net tons, according to the report of the Marine Exchange. Although 691 ships entered the port in September, last, and 711 in October, 1929, both months were short of the tonnage record established last month.

By trades, there were 224 passenger vessels, 226 in general cargo trade, 137 oil tankers, fifty-three lumber carriers and fourteen ships in miscellaneous trades. Of these, 204 were in foreign trade, 129 in intercoastal service and 344 in coastwise trade.

In commerce totals last month's port business totaled 2,243,084 tons, worth $80,383,643, against 2,227,659 tons, valued at $79,960,507, for September, last, and 2,193,890 tons, worth $87,029,394, for October, 1929.

Petroleum shipments last month suffered a slight decrease, totaling 9,746,955 barrels, against 10,114,130 barrels for September, last, and 10,985,756 barrels for October, 1929. Lumber receipts also suffered, incoming shipments last month amounting to 71,906,000 feet, as compared to 78,596,000 feet for September, 1930.

The French Line's big turbine passenger carrier Wisconsin will be open for public inspection at Berth 230, Terminal Island, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Harold G. De Golia, district passenger agent. The Wisconsin will arrive late today from Le Havre and sail for San Francisco Monday evening.

Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, operating more than thirty Japanese steamers in world freight trade, will inaugurate general cargo service from Los Angeles Harbor to Japan with the sailing from this port on the 7th inst. of the steamer Glasgow Maru, it was announced yesterday by Swayne & Hoyt, Inc., who will be local agent. She will be followed on November 28 by the steamer Keifuku Maru and other vessels at twenty-one-day intervals. The "Four K" liners will load here for Kobe, Osaka, Nagoya and Yokohoma.

Probable renewal of calls here by ships of the Blue Funnel Line, en route from New York to Japan, is reported following the visit here two weeks ago of A. Calenso, direct from Liverpool, the home of Alfred Holt's fleet of more than 100 ships. The motorship Dolius of that line is scheduled to call here for cotton in January, on what is believed a feeler toward inauguration of regular service. Dodwell & Co., are agents. Blue Funnel ships plied into here eight years ago in almost a noncompetitive service, but since it's withdrawal the trade has developed a wealth of other services.

Eleven thousand tons of cargo will be handled by the Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company this week-end. Discharging are the Danish motorship Panama, 1200 tons, and the Grace motorship Cusco, 1200 tons of Chilean nitrate. The Dutch freighter Modjokerto sailed with 2500 tons last night for the East Indies. Tomorrow the Mallory freighter will bring 5000 tons of sulphur from Texas, and the Muncaster Castle will lift 1000 tons for the Orient.

TRANS-PACIFIC MAIL

Following schedule of sailing is provided by the Los Angeles Postoffice:

Nov. 2, from Los Angeles, Mail for Panama, Canal Zone, Peru, Chile, Bolivia and Ecuador.

Notre Dame Has Easy Game With Indiana

Unscored-on Fordham Squad Has Soft Touch

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—The gallop down the November football stretch, though lacking the spectacular elements of October's last explosive Saturday, nevertheless brings most of the sectional pace-setters smack up against the toughest kind of opposition.

ALBIE BOOTH

Notre Dame alone among the outstanding entries in the national gridiron championship derby appears to have anything like a let-up. The fighting Irish return to their home grounds for a track and field meet against Indiana tomorrow and some thoughts for future tussles against Northwestern, Army and Southern California.

No such pleasant afternoon appears in store for the forces of Washington State, the Pacific Coast pace-setter; Southern Methodist in the Southwest Conference race; Kansas, carrying the Big Six banner east to Pennsylvania; Northwestern, leading bidder for Big Ten honors; Dartmouth, one of the East's few unbeaten arrays; or the unbeaten strong teams of the Southern Conference, Alabama, Kentucky, Georgia and Clemson.

What Dartmouth in particular and eastern football fandom in general want to know is whether Albie Booth has recovered sufficiently from his "knockout" in the Army game to rally Yale's forces against the undefeated Green horde. Albie will be the main attraction in packing the Yale Bowl to its capacity of 78,000 for the second straight week and the main hope of the Elis. Bill Morton, Shep Wolff and the rest of the Indians are on the warpath, however, determined to break the jinx that has kept Dart-

WHITTIER TO FACE SAN DIEGO

Poets Go South Today for Important Game With Aztecs

A light workout yesterday rounded off Whittier College's football squad for its invasion of San Diego tonight. "Chief" Newman, the Poet mentor, is not working his men as hard for the Aztec contest as would ordinarily be his wont before a game as important as the coming one. Injuries and sickness have taken such a toll of the local squad that first-string players, especially backs, are valuable, and the chief is taking no chances on getting another man hurt on the eve of the game.

CHIEF NEWMAN

"Wheezer" Dell and Clif Ograin are both out of the San Diego game. Dell has an injured shoulder that precludes any possibility of his playing. Ograin is out for two weeks with a broken blood vessel in his ankle, the result of a kick in the Santa Barbara clash. "Whitey" Edwards will start the Aztec game at quarter, and if Vince Sinatra is in shape he will go in at fullback. If not, Bud Jones will start behind the line.

With Harry Hill and Bill Mifflin both gone, Newman is hard pushed for backs. Besides, in the line, Frank Jones has a bad cold and will probably not start, and it is doubtful if Percy Lewis, end, will be in shape.

Capt. Cecil Baker will be in shape for the first time this year as a

OXY CLEANS UP REDLANDS, 12-7

Glover and Reed Tally for Bengal Grid Athletes

Bulldogs' Lone Touchdown Made by Pete Beiden

Tiger Rally Near Finale is Checked by Rivals

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

Despite the fact the Halloween goblins were out in full force last night, Eddie Kienholz's Oxy Tigers managed to eke out a 12-7 victory over the rampant Redlands Bulldogs at the Rose Bowl before a scattered crowd of some 4000 fans.

DICK GLOVER

The game was a pretty hectic affair, with Lee Trine's Bulldogs throwing passes all over the lot. Redlands tried twenty-three passes with eight of them being completed for a gain of 164 yards.

Practically all of the aerial attack saw Hank Beiden, Redlands' demon quarterback, on the heaving end and his brother Pete on the receiving end. The two brothers under the pigskin, as it were, gave the Tigers several thrills, chief among them being a heave from the middle of the field by Hank to Pete on the Oxy 30-yard strip. Pete managed to slip out of the hands of several would-be tacklers and crossed the goal line for the Bulldogs' lone score of the contest.

However, Redlands didn't score until the Tigers had pushed two touchdowns over and had a commanding lead of 12 points.

PRETTY EVEN

The first period was pretty even, both elevens making two first downs apiece. In the second quarter, Oxy shoved over its first touchdown with Dick Glover doing the ball-packing. The score came after the Tigers had marched down to the Redlands goal from their own 45-yard line. Meyers tried to take it over from the 1-yard line but fumbled and Bell recovered. On the next play Bell kicked out of bounds on the 24-yard line and the Tigers came right back into scoring territory. The scoring play was a reverse from the 7-yard line, Reed to Glover. Meyers's conversion kick was low.

Matters were fairly even in the first half, the Tigers making six first downs to Redlands' six.

Marching straight down the field from their own 47-yard line, Oxy tallied again in the third quarter. Glover, Tuffy Reed and Stoney Johnston did most of the ball packing with the play that scored the touchdown being a reverse, Glover to Reed, from the 6-yard line. Johnston's attempt to kick goal was wide.

BULLDOGS' START

It was then that Redlands started its main passing whirl, with the most-used play being a lateral pass. Hank Beiden to Pete Beiden. The Tigers had a big edge in the

NAVY SIGNS PENN, BUT HOLDS DATE OPEN FOR ARMY CONTEST

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) Oct. 31. (AP)—Penn and Navy will meet on the first Saturday in December, 1931, at Philadelphia with the understanding the Red and Blue will yield the date if arrangements can be made for an Army-Navy football game next year, it was said today with announcement of the 1931 Middie schedule. The annual Navy meeting with Notre Dame was scheduled for November 14 at the Baltimore Stadium. Western Reserve replaced Duke on the schedule and the University of Delaware replaced George Washington, the game to be played at Annapolis. The schedule remains as this year with William and Mary, Maryland, Princeton, West Virginia Wesleyan, Southern Methodist University and Ohio State holding their places.

SHIRES FAILS AS HURLER

"Whataman" on Mound as Commercial Club Upsets All-Stars; Winter League Opens Today

BY BOB RAY

Lefty Grove's major league All-Stars wound up their barnstorming trip at Wrigley Field yesterday by dropping a ten-inning 6-to-5 exhibition to Wes Kingdon's hard-hitting Commercial Club nine.

"Whataman" Shires, who replaced Earl Whitehill on the mound in the seventh inning, not only lost the game for the All-Stars but endeared himself in their hearts by forcing them to play an extra inning because he walked across the tying run in the ninth. Overtime games never have been popular with the athletes and when one comes for the final exhibition of a barnstorming jaunt it's just bad news for a bunch of travel-weary athletes.

"THE GREAT" SHIRES

The contest was one of the best of the series even if the All-Stars did have to restrain themselves in the tenth to let the winning run score and prevent another extra inning of toil. Frank Brazill opened the tenth with a triple to center and the All-Star infielders, anxious to catch a 6 o'clock train for the East, came in so close that Shires had room to wind up and that's all. Hufft crossed up the invaders by hitting a line drive that Gehringer couldn't get out of the way of and had to catch. Joe Mellano also slapped a line drive that Kress reached up for before he thought but pulled his hands down just in time to let it whizz over his head for a single that brought Brazil home with the winning run. All of which shows how hard it is to end a ball game sometimes.

Hollis Thurston and George Hollerson getting for the clubmen, the latter getting the victory. O'Doul's homer, singles by Shires and Hellmann and an error gave the All-Stars two runs in the fourth, but the clubmen tied it up in their half on a passd ball and hits by Moore and Hufft. A walk and doubles by Gehringer and Miller gave the invaders two more in the fifth.

Shires's wildness allowed the Commercials to tie it up in the eighth when a hit and three walks produced two runs. Both sides scored in the ninth, Shires walking over the tying run much to the disgust of his mates.

The Winter League schedule starts today with Fred Haney's Kelley Kars facing the strong

ALL QUIET ON PACIFIC COAST

Cougars Face Beavers in Only Important Game

Trojans Take on Hopeful Denver Aggregation

Pioneers Expected to Be Easy for Jonesmen

BY PAUL LOWRY

The Pacific Coast Conference football schedule is flatter than the w.k. pancake today. Only one game, Washington State vs. Oregon State at Portland, means a thing or threatens to be at all interesting.

BILL HUNTER

Locally, the situation is even worse. The dear old public is asked to watch a Southern California team, triumphant over Stanford by the record score of 41 to 12, last week, in action against Denver U.

Denver U was beaten 59 to 0, in its own conference last week, and had the misfortune to land on the Trojan schedule because of a good season in 1929.

That, plus the fact that Jeff Cravath is head coach of the invading eleven and a former S.C. hero under Howard Jones.

GREAT PLAYER

Cravath was one of the best centers ever turned out on the Coast, graduating from the local institution in 1927.

He was a star of the Notre Dame-Trojan game in 1926, which the Irish won 13 to 12, and in which Jeff was pitted against Boerringer, nominated by eastern critics as the all-American center of the year.

Jeff's team, which has been here since Monday, will face a Trojan starting eleven this afternoon at the Coliseum, none of whom opened against Stanford.

In the main, it is a second-string line with a third-string backfield. Beatty, Mallory, E. Brown and Hammack are the backs.

Howard Jones, head man of the Trojan coaching staff, left last night for the north with three assistants, Clif Herd, Sam Barry and Gordon Campbell.

They will take in the California-Montana game at Berkeley, which should give the Bears their first chance to land in the conference winning column this year. The Bears have dropped contests to Washington State and the University of Washington, and a week hence they face the Trojans here.

HUNTER AT HELM

Bill Hunter, director of athletics at Southern California, will be in charge of the Sons of Troy this afternoon.

Local fans will observe with interest the Washington State-Oregon State game at Portland this afternoon. In the unlikely event of twice-beaten Oregon State winning from the Cougars, the Trojans move a notch nearer a tie for first place, the Cougars having beaten them, 7 to 6, earlier in the season.

Idaho and Washington see action today, while Oregon rests to complete the roll call of the Coast Con-

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Oct. 31. (AP)—Notre Dame football teams are expected to do everything well. But the point-after-touchdown record of the Irish to date merits mention. Notre Dame has scored fifteen touchdowns this season. Frank Carideo has accounted for ten extra points out of twelve attempts, and Jackwich, his understudy, has booted two out of three, for an .800 percentage.

LIONS TO MIX WITH CLUBMEN

Olympic Football Team From Bay City Tackles Loyola Here Tonight

Although conceded but a slim opportunity of upsetting their heavier opponents, the Lions from Loyola University will meet the powerful Olympic Club eleven at Wrigley Field tonight filled with the same fighting spirit with which they held Coach Jimmy Needle's highly touted Gray Fog eleven down to a 14-to-0 score last week. The game, which is slated to start at 8:15, is expected to draw a lot of fans who are desirous of seeing the conquerors of Nibs Price's California eleven in action.

TOM LIEB

Coach Tom Lieb has his Loyola warriors all primed for tonight's battle. The Lion mentor believes that there is a chance of downing the northern eleven and he is staking all his hopes in the flawless passing attack which he has perfected his squad in during the past week.

His eleven, however, will be playing without the services of two of its stellar linesmen. They are Bill Sargent and Max Haines. Both are two of the best fighters Lieb has and their absence will weaken his line considerably. He will have Gerrie and Weber taking their respective positions.

On the other hand, the Winged O team will have its full strength

Spaulding's Players Wage Stubborn Defense

U.C.L.A. Men Display Good Offense at Times

Moffat and Rothert Sparkle for Palo Altoans

BY BRAVEN DYER

Until Harlow Rothert, big pigskin and touchdown man of Stanford, went crazy with the heat in the third quarter of last night's game at the Coliseum, Mr. Bill Spaulding's battling Bruins gave the Red-shirted Cardinals from the farm all the competition they desired.

HARLOW ROTHERT

But the powerful Rothert couldn't stand the unusual weather and broke out all over the place to score two touchdowns in such short order that the 35,000 assembled fans wondered where Pop Warner had been hiding Harlow all these years. Of course, Rothert hasn't been hiding for this is his third and final season as a pigskin lugger for his alma mater, but the former L. A. High power-back hasn't been noted for his speed until last night when he was pretty personally responsible for the 20-to-0 victory scored by his team.

Getting into the game at the start of the second half, after storing up heat and energy on the bench, Rothert first dashed 54 yards to a touchdown and a few minutes later reeled off another gallant gallop of 40 yards to register his second score of the evening.

Billy Simkins, the Manhattan Beach lifeguard, had scored the first touchdown in the first quarter on a mad dash from the 11-yard line after Phil Moffatt had raced around his own right end for 35 yards to put the pigskin well into U.C.L.A.'s territory.

The Bruins really made a very creditable showing and Spaulding and his aides are entitled to no little praise for their stand against Warner's warriors. Had it not been for those two great runs by Rothert the game would have been fought on practically even terms, so stubborn was the resistance of the Bruins.

When one recalls that the score

REYNOLDS EYES DIXIE TEAMS

Rose Bowl Official Watching Games in South Today as Alabama Faces Kentucky and Georgia Takes on Florida; First Three Elevens Unbeaten

BY BRAVEN DYER

Mr. C. Hal Reynolds of Pasadena, he man who scans the gridiron horizon for football teams to play in the Rose Bowl, will turn his binoculars southward this morning with the intention of discovering several things about the strong field below the Mason-Dixon line.

C. HAL REYNOLDS

Alabama plays Kentucky in one of the outstanding games, while Georgia and Florida will also be engaged in mortal combat. Out of this competition will come at least two possibilities for the Rose Bowl contest, and Mr. Reynolds undoubtedly hopes today's winners will be Alabama and Georgia. This because these two teams meet later in the season, and their conflict should provide the Tournament of Roses with one of the strongest and most colorful teams in the entire nation.

Alabama, Kentucky and Georgia are undefeated. Florida was rudely upset, 14 to 13, by Furman last week. Alabama is favored over Kentucky today, while Georgia is accorded the same rating over Florida.

Georgia has one of the toughest schedules in the country. So far this team has defeated Oglethorpe, 31 to 6; Mercer, 51 to 0; Yale, 18 to 14; North Carolina, 26 to 0, and Auburn, 39 to 7.

TOUGH SCHEDULE

Georgia's outstanding achievement was that victory over Yale. The Bulldogs haven't lost a game since, although they will likely get bumped off today by Dartmouth, despite the fact that Dartmouth has never beaten the sons of dear old Eli.

But look at the rest of Georgia's schedule, following today's contest: New York U., at New York, Tulane, Alabama and Georgia Tech. If Georgia can emerge from this gantlet with an unblemished escutcheon the southerners will certainly be entitled to the Rose Bowl bid.

FULLERTON, COMPTON IN FEATURE JAYSEE CONTEST

Three games are scheduled in the fourth round of Jaysee conference today with Fullerton meeting Compton on the Tartars' field, Long Beach playing host to Los Angeles, and Pasadena traveling to Glendale. Santa Ana, the other member of the western division of the conference, draws a bye, but will play an intersectional game with Phoenix J.C.

The game between the undefeated Tartars and the Fullerton Yellow Jackets, who have met defeat but once, is the most important clash. Compton is favored to win this engagement, but the Yellow Jackets have upset the Tartars several times in the past and figure that they can do it again this year. Coach Pine will probably have his full strength for this game, the two cripples, Tom Yancey, quarterback, and Howard Clark, guard, being ready for service.

The Long Beach Vikings, who have failed to win a game this season, is expected to retain its record by losing to the Los Angeles Cubs. The local Jaysee should not have much trouble with their hosts, who have shown only mediocre football. The Pasadena Bulldogs, who seem to have the habit of losing games by close scores, should win from Glendale. The Bulldogs are three-time winners of the State Jaysee title and expects to finish high in the standings if not at the top.

Coach Bill Cook's Santa Ana squad probably will have little trouble with the Phoenix team, as the Arizona school seems to be a weak team, according to reports.

TIM MARA HAS ROUND IN TUNNEY LAW BATTLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Timothy J. Mara, race track bookmaker whose sidelines were politics and second-hand law libraries, stepped up on the stand in Supreme Court today for the first round of his fight to take a $500,000 chunk out of Gene Tunney's bank roll.

GENE TUNNEY

After a morning in which he gave the fight fans and kids who gathered round quite a bit of action and lots of entertainment, he settled back in the afternoon to the business of dodging left jabs and rolling out from under right crosses proffered in cross-examination by Emory R. Buckner, former United States Attorney and chief counsel for the former heavyweight champion.

He proved adept. When at 4 o'clock court adjourned until Monday, Mr. Buckner, after two hours of cross-examination, had landed only one punch.

That was when he produced in court a contract for a Tunney-Dempsey fight, which he said Tunney and Tex Rickard had signed on January 20, 1926, and Mara testified that in April he had not known of the existence of the contract, although the papers had been full of it.

Mr. Buckner produced photostatic copies of the New York Times of January, 1926, purporting to carry the story of the contract, but Mr. Mara slipped away from that one. He hadn't read those stories because the New York Times was one newspaper he did not read.

Much of the cross-examination revolved around a visit Tunney and his friend, Jimmy Eagleton, "the Irish thrush," who used to sing him to sleep at the training camps, paid to Mara's office early in April, 1926.

Mara claimed credit for getting Tunney his fight with Tommy Gibbons in the summer of 1925. It was by knocking out Gibbons, the man Dempsey had failed to stop in fifteen rounds at Shelby, Mont., that the prestige of Tunney was enormously increased. Mara said he persuaded Charles A. Stoneham, principal owner of the Giants and the Polo Grounds, to promote the Tunney-Gibbons fight, and that, on his advice, Stoneham sent Jimmy De Forrest, Jack Dempsey's former trainer, and at that time matchmaker for the Polo Grounds, out to the Twin Cities to guarantee Gibbons $100,000 for the match with Tunney.

Mara said he was also instrumental in getting Billy Gibson to become Tunney's manager. Gibson, who is a codefendant in this suit, was declared sometime ago to be incompetent to handle his affairs. His guardians are represented by counsel in the trial.

DEMPSEY SAYS IT AGAIN

(Copyright, 1930, by the Chicago Tribune)

BERLIN, Oct. 31. (Exclusive)—Jack Dempsey wants to fight Max Schmeling and he believed the fight will come off, Joe Jacobs Schmeling's manager, declared upon his arrival in Berlin today.

Jacobs stated that he had talked to Dempsey over long-distance telephone before sailing for Europe and that Dempsey admitted that he needs the cash and is willing to fight the German heavyweight if he feels fit for a comeback by January. Until then he will train in the California mountains. The fight won't take place until early summer.

TIGERS RALLY TO COP GAME

Garbo Scores Touchdown in Fourth Quarter

Losers Wilt Rapidly in Final Period

Hess's Crew Almost Scores in First Half

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

Folding up in the last quarter like an empty pocketbook at a night club, Frank Hess's battered Franklin Panthers dropped a 7-to-0 decision to the Lincoln City Tigers yesterday in the lone City League game scheduled. The game was played on the new turf field at Franklin and was witnessed by some 3000 fans.

FRANK HESS.

After holding the Tigers for three quarters and at times seemingly being headed for an upset win over Jim Tunney's eleven, the poor old Panthers went all to pieces in the last period, Lincoln tallying once and being on its way to another touchdown as the gun went off.

In the fourth quarter after Bob Held's kick had gone out of bounds on the Lincoln 40-yard line, the Tigers started their drive and on three plays had made two first downs and were on the Franklin 30-yard line. Santo Garbo and Joe Aprato took it to the 16-yard line in two plays.

Aprato then galloped around left end to the 8-yard stripe and on the next play Garbo plunged through to the 4-yard line. Garbo, on two line drives, made two yards and on fourth down went over left guard for the touchdown. He also placekicked for the extra point.

The Tigers knocked off seven first downs in the last period to bring the final first downs figures up to fourteen in their favor, with Franklin having six.

Hess's Panthers got in all their good licks in the first two periods, making two first downs in the opening period, and four in the second quarter.

It was in the second period that the Panthers had their big chance to score. On an exchange of punts late in the first quarter Franklin gained twelve yards, strange to say, in spite of Lombardo's great punting. The Panthers took the ball on their own 48-yard line and on the second play Bob Held galloped eighteen yards to the Lincoln 34-yard stripe. With Don Carter, the Panther's shot-putting fullback, doing most of the work, Franklin made two first downs and advanced the ball to the 14-yard line. Lincoln was penalized for holding and the Panthers had possession of the ball on the 1-yard line. On the next play the Panthers were offside and lost five yards. Carter tried the line for no gain and Held was stopped on the 4-yard line on the fourth down. Lombardo kicked out of danger.

The victory kept the Tigers' record unsullied as they haven't lost a contest yet this season. Next week Tunney's Tigers draw a bye and will rest up for Fremont and L. A. High, who come next on their schedule.

INGLEWOOD TRIPS REDONDO

Sentinels Topple Seahawks, 19 to 13, in Exciting Bay League Game on Victors' Gridiron

Scoring one of the biggest upsets in the Bay League this year, the Inglewood Sentinels turned in a 19-to-13 victory over the Redondo Seahawks yesterday on the winners' field. Before the game the two teams were tied for the league lead and Redondo was picked to chalk up an easy victory over the Sentinels. Inglewood, however, outplayed its opponents throughout most of the game.

In the first quarter the Sentinels ran up two touchdowns, both coming as a result of the fine work of Fullback Keller. Keller scored the first marker on a beautiful run through the entire Seahawk eleven. A few minutes later he plunged through an opening in the line for the second touchdown of the initial period. Redondo also scored in the first period. Walt Schell, who was the Seahawk star, driving over the goal line.

The Sentinels increased their lead in the second period when Banbleit caught a twenty-five-yard pass from Gilhouisen and stepped over the goal line. Redondo made a game effort to tie the score in the final period when they scored one touchdown and were trying desperately for another when the game ended. Schell made the tally on a line buck.

CATHEDRAL PHANTOMS SWAMP CAL PREP, 32-0

Scoring in every quarter, the Cathedral Phantoms defeated the Cal. Prep eleven, 32 to 0, in a game played yesterday on the loser's field. The game was a one-sided affair with the Phantoms making yards almost at will. The first score came in the third play of the game when Soto reeled off tackle 65 yards and a touchdown. McNese, left halfback, was the star of the game, scoring three touchdowns. The losers failed to make a single first down through the tight Cathedral line. WHITTIER DRUBS HOOVER ELEVEN

Glendale Team Bows 19-0 to Strong Rivals

Heretofore both teams had been undefeated.

The Poets' first tally came in the second period when Porter, quarter, went over on a 3-yard line buck. The second touchdown came in the same period as a 15-yard pass from Robinson, a sub for Porter, to Sanford, right half, was completed, with Robinson adding the extra point. NORTH HOLLYWOOD TIES VAN NUYS ELEVEN

The high school football teams of Van Nuys and North Hollywood battled to a 0-to-0 tie yesterday on the latter's gridiron. Both teams had several excellent opportunities to score, but were repulsed when the defending team's line stiffened and held in the shadow of their goal posts. In the third quarter Hollywood had the ball on Van Nuys's 1-yard line but lost the ball on downs. Van Nuys in turn had the ball on the home team's 1-yard stripe but lost a chance to score on a fumble which Hollywood recovered.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 31.—Riverside Junior College this afternoon passed its way to victory over the U.S.S. Mississippi team, 46 to 13. The Riverside boys dished up a dazzling aerial attack that had the sailors helpless through most of the game. Scoring touchdowns for the locals were Arbelbide, Rucker, Shaffer and Mudre. The two scores for the Mississippians were achieved by Frenkian on an end run and Sidwell on a line buck.

COVINA WINS HECTIC TILT FROM CHAFFEY, 13-12

Another 1930 football championship was unofficially decided yesterday afternoon, as the Covina Colts, coached by Ted (Butter) Gorrell, just barely nosed out the Chaffey High varsity, 13 to 12, in one of the most exciting pigskin games played in the Citrus Belt League to date. Chaffey's coach is Howard (Mugwa) Mitchell.

"Happy" Rauschendach, fullback, was the Covina hero, making his squad's two tallies, one coming in the first period and the other in the last. Chaffey scored once in both the second and third quarters, to lead until the fourth period was well under way. Their first score came when Capt. Meek, left tackle, intercepted a Covina pass just about one minute before the end of the half and galloped 85 yards for a score. The second Chaffey score was registered on a pass from Bigley, who barks the digits, to Gunstream, left end. The conversion that really won the ball game for Covina was made on a pass from Fischer to Griffin. The line-ups follow:

STANFORD WARRIORS IN 20-0 WIN OVER BRUINS

last year was 57 to 0 it is not hard to deduce the tremendous improvement shown by the Westwood boys. Several times last night the U.C L.A. athletes staved off what looked like sure touchdowns and had they been able to connect a little bit better on their passing attack the Cards would at least have left the field with a touchdown or two registered against them.

CARDS FUMBLE

Stanford showed the same old fumbling tendency and gave the Bruins several scoring opportunities via this route, but to the credit of Warner's boys it can be stated that when they found themselves backed to the wall they were able to adequately check every attack their foes presented.

The game was the best night contest played in Los Angeles and developed into a great punting battle between Moffatt of the Cards and Roberts, U.C.L.A.'s high-powered kicker. These boys are possessed of highly educated hoofs and their towering kicks featured the hard-fought struggle throughout the entire first half. Roberts had a slight edge, but Moffatt made this up by returning the kicks for more yardage than the Bruin receivers.

Late in the first quarter, the Cards came into possession of the ball on their own 39-yard line. Moffatt then turned in his great dash around end, only stopping when knocked out of bounds after a jaunt of thirty-five yards. Another first down worked the ball to the 15-yard stripe and this brought Billy Simkins into action. Dashing through his own right tackle, Bill cut out around end and galloped over the goal line, his touchdown arriving on the fifth play after the Cards got hold of the pigskin in their own territory. Grey converted.

After exchanging punts twice soon after the start of the second half, the Cards got the porkhide, or one should say elkhide, as that's what these night footballs are made of, on their own 44-yard line and Robert broke out through his own right tackle. After being slightly detained at the line of scrimmage, Harlow raced on down the field and as was again the case on his second run, crossed the line standing up. Grey converted.

A few moments later Harlow was at it again, this time galloping forty yards on a play which was an exact duplicate of his previous touchdown tour. This time Grey failed to convert.

Decker did some nice ground gaining for the Bruins, but was outshone by little Buddy Forster late in the game. Forster twice worked the ball to Stanford's 20-yard line in the fourth period, but on each occasion the Bruin offense bogged down, or the Cards braced up, and no touchdowns were forthcoming. Buddy's runs were for better than 20 yards each time and the Bruin fans got a big kick out of his ball carrying.

Moffatt played brilliantly for Stanford in the first half, his speed dazzling the Bruins on several occasions. Colvin at end and Hulen at guard were also outstanding.

Solomon and Berghahl got in some lengthy heaves for U.C.L.A. and connected on two or three, but there wasn't enough deception to these tosses. It is undoubtedly hard to put over a strong passing game at night and U.C.L.A.'s aerial attack ought to go better during an afternoon contest.

Stanford made 286 yards from scrimmage to 141 for the Bruins. The Cards also had an edge in first downs, 15 to 6.

Warner's athletes will stay over and watch the Trojans against Denver today.

Lake Norco to Stage Titular Swim Events

"Doc" Beazley, aquatic director at Lake Norco, announced late yesterday that the two junior national championships in diving for women and men and the 500-yard free-style Southern Pacific title swimming event will be the biggest thing the lake resort has staged this season. The championship program is set for tomorrow afternoon.

The diving events are from the high tower both for women and men. A crack field of Southland stars is expected to toe the mark in each event.

Race Drivers Seek New Deal

Art Sparks, Eagle Rock racing car owner who, along with a score of other owners and drivers was barred from A.A.A. tracks last May, yesterday applied for reinstatement. It was announced at offices of A. C. Pillsbury. A decision is expected from Pillsbury today.

Sparks and the rest of the racing men were "outlawed" because they were found to be members of an organization which was said to have been operating contrary to American Automobile Association rules.

Most of the others later applied for reinstatement and in most cases the ban was lifted after they had paid fines.

California vs. Montana: Easy for the Bears.

Washington vs. College of Puget Sound: Just a romp for the Huskies.

Southern California vs. Denver "U": A chance for Southern California reserves to show what they can do.

BY HOWARD JONES,
Coach, University of Southern California

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—This is a rather quiet week-end as football is concerned on the Pacific Coast. Most of the leading teams have hard games scheduled November 8 and therefore taking things a bit easy this Saturday.

The big game from the stand-point of competition is scheduled for Portland, where the strong Washington State College team faces Oregon State. Although Oregon State is capable of giving the Cougars a busy afternoon, it will be a very decided upset if Washington State does not win this game.

Coach Babe Hollingbery has a team of veteran players, all but three of his regulars being in their third and fourth year of varsity men. There is plenty much co-ordination of this year and unless the Cougars have a bad let-down they should run up some large scores. And if Hollingbery gets off to a flying start his team may be rather lopsided.

HUSKIES EASY

California has an easy game with Nevada and it is doubtful if Nibs Price will be called upon to employ any of his regulars in this contest. The Bears had a hard game with Washington last week and will probably welcome the chance to rest a bit.

Jimmy Phelan's Huskies, between battles with California and Stanford, take on a bit of light exercise in the College of Puget Sound team at Seattle. Washington, after meeting California, will be out to defeat Stanford, and Jimmy Phelan will let his men play as much as possible this Saturday.

Idaho and Gonzaga should put up a real battle and I am inclined to think that Idaho will be able to win. The team getting the ball the most will probably be the victor.

We have a comparatively easy game scheduled with Denver University. Last year Denver was one of the strongest teams in the Rocky Mountain Conference, but the present team has not come up to expectations.

The Rocky Mountain Conference is the best-traveling Utah eleven, appearing for many years, should defeat the Colorado Aggies. The Utah Aggies ought to beat Brigham Young, while Colorado U has a good team over Colorado College.

BY W. W. ROPER
Princeton Football Coach

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—All eyes centered on Saturday on New Haven, where one of the strongest teams Princeton has had in years meets a powerful New Haven eleven. Army defeated Harvard, and so did Dartmouth. Hence, on comparative scores, Army and Dartmouth should rate about even. Yale and Army tied, so on this basis the game with Dartmouth should be a toss-up.

Booth's condition may be the leading factor. If he is fit, he may be the spark plug of his team. Dartmouth somehow has not been at its best in past years, against Yale, and whether this will continue true Saturday is a question. I am giving the advantage to Yale, more on sentiment than anything else.

Army has a breathing spell, and should win from North Dakota. The Brown-Syracuse game will be close. Both are strong teams, but I favor Syracuse. Carnegie Tech will certainly try to stage a come-back against N.Y.U. Carnegie Tech has a really powerful team and should win.

Pitt has just played a trying game against Notre Dame, and I figure a long trip to Nebraska will not do the team any good. The game is a toss-up, however, with the odds, due to physical conditions, favoring Nebraska.

Penn State should win from Bucknell. Kansas is rumored to have a strong team, but I favor Penn. I believe Cornell will defeat Columbia.

Temple should win over Wake Forest and Haverford over Johns Hopkins; the Villanova-Duke game should be close, with the odds favoring Villanova.

As far as the Princeton-Chicago game goes, both teams have shown very little to date. The game will be close.

In the South, Alabama should win from Kentucky. Mississippi-Vanderbilt should be a toss-up, although I favor Vanderbilt. Georgia and Georgia Tech should win, is my prediction.

ZUPPKE AWAITING GOPHER SURPRISE

By Bob Zuppke
Football Coach, University of Illinois.
(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

URBANA (Ill.) Oct. 31.—Northwestern will probably beat Minnesota this Saturday, but it will not surprise me if the Wildcats have their hands full.

This game has considerable bearing on the Big Ten championship, as both teams are undefeated in the conference. Northwestern has defeated Illinois and Ohio State decisively, while Minnesota's only Big Ten start against Indiana was won by a single touchdown and the Gophers did not show offensive promise.

But they have come a long way since they were so flat-footed against Vanderbilt. Their great defensive struggle against Stanford restored morale, and with a rest of two weeks they should be in fine physical condition, but no better than Northwestern.

Northwestern's personnel is more formidable in playing ability but not physically. Much will depend upon the astuteness and agility of the Minnesota secondary defense, which must break up a dangerous passing attack with Rentner throwing and Baker receiving. With Bruder and Russell back, Northwestern's running attack will presumably be stronger than against Illinois. If it has not improved and if the Gophers can thwart the passing, the game will be close and Minnesota will have a chance.

BOB ZUPPE PREDICTS

Minnesota-Northwestern: Northwestern. The Gophers may win if their secondary stops the Rentner-Baker pass combination.

Illinois-Purdue: If we can knock down the passes we may make it a game.

Wisconsin-Ohio State: Wisconsin. Ohio State has been hitting and missing too often.

Chicago-Princeton: Princeton. But anything may happen.

Detroit-Iowa: Detroit. They look like stronger scorers.

Notre Dame-Indiana: Notre Dame. Hoosiers can't do the impossible.

Pennsylvania-Kansas: Kansas. Especially if Big Jim Bausch, the bone of Big Six contention, plays.

Iowa-State-Oklahoma: Oklahoma. But not an easy one.

Kansas Aggies-Missouri: Kansas. But likely to be anybody's.

Nebraska-Pittsburgh: Pitt. They scored 19 points on Notre Dame's seconds and thirds.

Marquette-Boston College: Marquette.

player, is coaching the Georgia eleven and doing a very good job of it. He lost to Oglethorpe Florida, New York U. and Tulane last year, which makes me feel that he won't be able to get through his next four tough ones without suffering a slap in the antspay.

Of course, Mr. Reynolds will not be able to find out a great deal today, but if the field is narrowed to Alabama and Georgia, as seems probable, he will at least know where to look on Thanksgiving Day, that is provided one of the two great teams does not get bumped off before their momentous meeting in the old town of Birmingham.

Washington State, Southern California and Oregon are the western possibilities, with odds heavily in favor of the terrible Cougars, dependent on their ability to subdue Jimmy Phelan's up-and-coming Huskies at Seattle on the 15th inst. And that, mates, will be quite a task, although Washington's having to meet Stanford on the previous Saturday, while the horrible Cougars will be engaged in a mild romp with Idaho, should be of great advantage to Babe Hollingbery and his boys.

Corbett and Jackson Sign

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Signing of Young Corbett of Fresno and Sammy Jackson, Negro welterweight of Los Angeles, for a ten-round bout here next month was announced by Promoter Ancil Hoffman today.

The match will head a benefit boxing program, part of the proceeds, of which will be given to Mrs. Elsie Campbell, widow of Frankie Campbll, heavyweight who died here August 26 following a fight with Max Baer.

Jackson will turn over 5 per cent of his purse to the fund and Promoter Hoffman will turn over his entire profits to Mrs. Campbell. The date for the program has not been decided.

Max Baer May Meet Sharkey

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—A new face was inserted into the muddled heavyweight championship picture today, when Madison Square Garden disclosed negotiations with Max Baer, San Francisco heavyweight, to fight Jack Sharkey on the Christmas fund card at the Garden December 12.

Matchmaker Tom McArdle received the contest of Baer via telephone conversations with Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, and now is waiting for word from Sharkey. The Boston gob was said to be withholding his decision until after the Stribling-Christner fight in Boston tonight.

Firemen to Play Divers

Firemen gridiron warriors with Bill Blewett in charge hop off for San Diego tomorrow morning, where they tangle in the afternoon with the strong Submarine Base team at San Diego Stadium. The game is expected to be one of the toughest for the Firemen to date. While Blewett is confident his players will win, he looks for a terrific struggle, as the Divers are rated as the best team in service circles on the coast. They recently thumped the Bruin Frosh team to a fare-thee-well.

KENNEDY REFEREES FIGHT

Lieutenant Gets Assignment for Newsboy Brown Bout With Varner at Olympic Tuesday

Lieut. Jack Kennedy was yesterday named by the Olympic to referee the Newsboy Brown-Claude Varner rematch, next Tuesday night.

The naval officer will have competition in his art from Art (The Great) Shires, who is booked to handle the six-round semi-wind-up between Bobby Reister and Don Burchard.

JACK KENNEDY

Kennedy is spectacular in his refereeing and Shires claims he has more "It" than the Dempsey man. Shires took out his courtesy license yesterday.

Young Varner is an even-money bet so far, but Brown will likely wind up being favorite. The youngster knocked Brown down and buckled the veteran's legs several times the first fight.

There's a lot of fresh confidence in the Varner camp now. They are counting on a knockout by the kid Tuesday night. In the gymnasium Varner handles Delos Kid Williams, who is probably just as clever a boxer as Brown.

If Brown should be stopped by the youngster he may lose the London match in December. Emmett Ledwith has decided to accept the London Sporting Club's offer for Brown to fight there.

Brown is a good money fighter. He goes the hardest when the stakes are highest. I'd rather fight any other boy than Varner," says Brown, "but I couldn't turn down a guarantee of $2500. Varner furnished twice the opposition Midget Wolgast gave me. I was in no danger against Wolgast, but Varner can tear your head off with either hand."

The Reister-Burchard bout is commanding almost as much play as Brown and Varner. It will be the little German boy's first showing under Jack Doyle's banner.

Doyle is particularly steamed up over Reister since he has trained at the old Vernon gymnasium entirely for the last year. It was at Vernon where many of the great fighters of another period worked—Ad Wolgast, Johnny Kilbane, Johnny Coulon, Joe Rivers and others.

Billy Papke, Jr., and Sig Ecklund, heavy middleweights, box the special.

LOYOLA FACES OLYMPIC CLUB

in tonight's line-up. All the men who received injuries in the California game have completely recuperated and will be seen in action against the Lions.

The northern eleven is basing its hopes of victory in its two backfield aces, Fredericks and Pomeroy. Fredericks is classed as one of the best open-field runners of the country, while Pomeroy is famous for his line bucking. Both have proved disastrous to previous opponents and may be the same to Loyola tonight.

The Olympic Club will be heavy favorites over Tom Lieb's eleven tonight, particularly because of the splendid showing it has made throughout the season. It boasts victories over California, West Coast Army and the Los Angeles Firemen. It has lost but one game and that to Clipper Smith's Santa Clara Bronchos.

The line-up is as follows:

DARTMOUTH TO TACKLE YALE

mouth from ever defeating a Yale team.

Dartmouth beat Harvard last week, while Yale was tying Army, and will be the favorite.

Fordham's great outfit, the only major team in the country not yet scored upon, figures to keep its record spotless against West Virginia, although it should be recalled the rugged Mountaineers managed to hold the Maroon to a scoreless tie a year ago.

Pennsylvania's stand against the undefeated Kansas Jayhawkers, making their eastern debut at Franklin Field as a favorite, and Army's battle with another unbeaten invader, North Dakota, features in the East. Others include Harvard-Williams, Davis and Elkins-Oklahoma City.

Meanwhile two of the East's elevens that buckled under heavy shellfire a week ago, Pittsburgh and Princeton, follow the ancient advice to go west. The Panthers tackle Nebraska at Lincoln, while the Tigers play Chicago at Stagg Field.

The big ten headliner is Northwestern's invasion of Minnesota for a clash between two conference championship contenders.

Purdue hopes to stay in the race by trimming Illinois, Wisconsin must stage a scoring comeback to beat Ohio State. Iowa, the battered prodigal, bumps into the unbeaten, high-powered Detroit eleven with scant hope of gaining anything but additional bruises.

WASHINGTON STATE READY FOR ORANGEMEN

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 31. (AP)—On a trail of the Oregon State Beavers a pack of Washington State Cougars, thirty-five strong, stalked into Portland today for the football argument with Oregon State College here tomorrow.

Conquerors of California and Southern California, the preying Cougars were confident of hurdling the powerful Orange team in their march to a conference championship. But not one member of the squad, from Coach Hollingbery down to the water boy, would voice that confidence. Hollingbery said simply his team "is ready for a tough battle."

The Oregon Staters will reach Portland tonight. They are expecting Washington State to resort to the same diversified assault that proved so successful against California and U.S.C.

Every player making the trip is in excellent shape. One member of the regulars, Arnold Soley, fullback and letter man, was left at home to nurse an injured neck.

Prospects of good weather inspired new attacks on the ticket office today and a big crowd was expected. The weather forecast read: "Fair tonight and Saturday."

RITTERHOUSE MEETS SAL AT MAIN STREET

What appears to be the best match and the closest battle slated for the Main Street Club in weeks is on tap for tonight when Baby Sal Sorio of San Bernardino meets Herman Ritterhouse of San Diego in the ten-round main event. The two met a few weeks ago and Ritterhouse took a decision, it being the only reverse Sorio has met since starting his comeback a few months ago. Since re-entering the ring Sorio has scored eight knockouts in nine starts.

Sorio's big Mexican following will make him favorite tonight but there are many who believe Ritterhouse will repeat his win of a few weeks ago. On that occasion both finished strong and Sorio had been unable to get his best wallop over. He is confident that the extra rounds scheduled for tonight will give him ample time to flg the San Diego scrapper. Bubbles Johnson and Tony Cadena, middleweights, will tangle in tonight's semi-wind-up.

Christner is Finished Up by Stribling

BOSTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling won from K.O. Christner, veteran Akron (O.) heavyweight, by a technical knockout in the third round of their ten-round bout here tonight.

Stribling came out of a clinch in the third and battered Christner's head heavily with both hands. One of the blows opened a wide gash in Christner's nose and the injury appeared serious enough for Referee Johnny Brassil to stop the bout. Stribling led in the first two sessions. He weighed 191 pounds, ten less than Christner.

Arthur Dekuh, gigantic New York heavyweight, who battles Young Stribling in Atlanta on November 7, closed strong and won an eight-round bout from Big Hill Hartwell of Kansas City in the semifinal bout to the Stribling-Christner battle.

YACHTSMEN IN TREASURE HUNT

Southland Skippers Head for Avalon Today

Thirty-one Southland racing yachts, including the cream of the 8's, R's, 6's, schooners, yawls and ketches, will leave Los Angeles Harbor this morning from 11 o'clock on in the annual treasure hunt at Catalina sponsored by the California and Los Angeles Yacht clubs. Erv Jones, representing the Southern California Yachting Association, will start the race.

The committee in charge has so arranged the event that all of the boats entered will reach the island around the same time. The smaller boats under their handicap allowance will start first.

The prize will be a pirate's chest donated by Dave Lee, the man who sponsored the event originally in 1914. When the boats reach the island they will be handed a chart and the search for the chest will be on.

A cup for the race of forty-five-foot sailing boats has been put up by the Los Angeles Yacht Club. Don Ayers will be in charge of the officials.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan only laughed at Jane's fears. Werper was dead and an earthquake wasn't likely to happen again. Those had been his enemies on the previous trips to Opar. "Shall you take Korak with you?" she asked. "No," said Tarzan, "he must remain with you. Our son and the Golden Lion surely ought to protect you," he laughed, trying to dispel her fears. "Fifty of the Waziri warriors shall go with me. They can carry the gold—enough this time to last our lives. A week later they set out on the long trail that leads to Opar.

Behind the ape-man marched fifty giant Waziri. These were the pick of the war-like tribe that had adopted Tarzan as their chief. Jane and Korak waved farewell to the party. As it filed off across the plain, the rumbling roar of Jad-bal-ja came to the ape-man's ears. Did the Golden Lion sense that unheard-of dangers were to threaten his master before the two should meet again? At last the voice of Numa trailed off into nothingness as the warriors were swallowed up in the distance.

Opar lay a good twenty-five days' trek from the Greystoke estates. Upon the return journey, laden as they would be with the ingots of gold, their progress would be slower. Because of this the ape-man had allowed two months for the venture. They carried no supplies. All were hunters and were moving through an abundant game country. A thorn boma and a few leaves provided their shelter by night. Spears, arrows and the powers of their great white chief were all the equipment they needed.

Mid-afternoon of the third week Tarzan, ranging far ahead of his blacks in search of game, came suddenly upon the carcass of Bara the deer. A feathered arrow protruded from the animal's flank. What caught the attention of the ape-man was the arrow's design. When he withdrew it he was filled with wonderment, for he knew it was not of native make. What had brought that alight weapon from some civilized city's sporting-goods house into the heart of savage Africa? Tarzan's curiosity was aroused. Also his inherent jungle caution.

HUNDREDS OF JOBS IN SIGHT

San Bernardino to Be Site of State Labor Camp

District Highway Engineer Sullivan in Survey

Work for Pick and Shovel Men to Begin Soon

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 31.—[illegible] that one of the four [illegible] California labor camps to be [illegible] to provide "pick-and-shovel" jobs for hundreds of unemployed men will be located in or near San Bernardino, E. Q. Sullivan, district State highway engineer, has begun a survey of conditions in San Bernardino and adjoining counties which will be forwarded to Sacramento, possibly early next week.

The survey was begun after Sullivan had received details of Gov. Young's plan to establish eight labor camps in the State as a means of relieving unemployment.

Sullivan was advised, it was said, that the camps will be established in each county and in view of this statement said that the survey in the San Bernardino district will be made as quickly as possible.

Highway construction is already providing employment to a large number of men in the three counties under Sullivan's jurisdiction and projects were placed under way during the late summer and men are said to be using as many employees as they can under their contracts.

The purpose of the camps is to give work to "pick-and-shovel" men who are out of jobs and who face the winter without work.

Protests to Be Heard Soon on Canyon Work

SIERRA MADRE, Oct. 31.—A session of protests concerning proposed improvements in Sierra Madre Canyon will be heard by the City Council on November 5, it was stated today by city officials. The meeting will really be a continuation of protests heard Wednesday night by the Council, who discussed the proposed improvements with a delegation of 100 property owners.

A protest petition presented by Attorney Robert McCartney and bearing the signatures of more than 50 per cent of property owners between Nos. 50 and 77 on Brookside [illegible] tentative thoroughfare, requests elimination of that portion of the project. Zone No. 3 was recently enlarged to include all lots [illegible] in Stuntevant Drive improvement district, and Attorney Henry S. Gierlich and City Attorney Phil Dodson, received instructions from the City Council to prepare necessary resolutions to proceed with the project as planned, with the above changes.

Various protests on opening and widening of Holly Trail Path were made by the five property owners, who contended that no benefits would be derived from the improvement and that much harm would result in the destruction of live oaks that must make way for the improvement. Objection was also made to the limited assessment of the district and property owners requested an injunction against the entire project.

Other objections about the improvement were voiced by the Canyon Improvement Association.

STATE TABLES FOR CHURCH; IOWA WINS

UPLAND, Oct. 31.—As a means of determining the number of members in the church from various states in the Union, the Bible class of Upland First Methodist Church created an innovation as part of the annual banquet in Crowell Hall.

A number of tables were named representing various States of the Union, and the members of the church chose their native State. Mrs. L. E. Moser, class president, was toastmistress.

The Iowa table led in the number of members. This table was decorated with corn and miniature sheep from Canada and England ran [illegible] in numbers. Mrs. W. F. [illegible] was hostess at the eastern [illegible] table bearing its individual State flag. Mrs. John Engle [illegible] to the western States [illegible] and Edward Dart was host [illegible] California table. Each State [illegible] performed a stunt.

SELF-DEFENSE TO BE PLEA

Clarence Hyde, Confessed Slayer of Oscar Olson, Federal Dry Agent, in Court Today

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 31.—When Clarence Hyde, 19-year-old confessed slayer of Oscar Olson, Federal prohibition enforcement agent, is brought before U. S. Commissioner Benshoff at 10 a.m., tomorrow for preliminary hearing, he will plead self-defense as a motive for the shooting, according to word purporting to come from Attorney Dennett Withington of San Bernardino, who will defend the young Morongo Indian.

The commissioner will be required [illegible] if there is sufficient [illegible] to certify the asserted [illegible] to the Federal court for [illegible] if he will not waive a preliminary hearing. A plea of guilty [illegible] automatically waive his right [illegible] demand that evidence be presented to support the murder [illegible] that Hyde's relatives [illegible] retained the attorney to wage [illegible] to save his life, loomed when [illegible] came here from San [illegible] to confer with Hyde [illegible] held without bail in the [illegible] County Jail. Federal laws [illegible] empower the government [illegible] impose the death penalty, although it is reported that a plea of guilty is in a defendant's favor.

Hyde's attorney is expected to base his fight on the assertion that Olson had invaded the rights of young Hyde's home, "Indian John" Hyde, on the reservation at the time of the shooting—4:30 a.m. last Sunday.

The young accused slayer asserts the officer broke in the door of the house and threatened them with a gun. Assertedly believing the officer meant harm to them, young Hyde grabbed a rifle, slipped from the house and shot Olson as he emerged. The officer, who was winding up a week's investigation of liquor conditions among the Indians of Riverside county, died instantly.

LICENSE FOR SALOON ASKED

Strangers Tell City Clerk of Alhambra They Had Picked Location

ALHAMBRA, Oct. 31.—"We want to apply for a permit to operate a saloon. How much does it cost?"

City Clerk R. Bruce Wallace, accustomed to all kinds of questions and requests, thought he had misunderstood.

"What is that again, please?"

The two strangers standing at Wallace's desk in the City Hall repeated their inquiry. There was no mistake about it. They wanted to open a saloon in Alhambra.

"Nothing doing," said Wallace, when he had caught his breath. "You see, the city charter prohibits saloons in Alhambra. The ordinance is one of the oldest on the city statutes. It was passed in 1903."

The men explained that they believed the sale of light wines and beer would be permitted after January 1, 1931 and that they had picked out a vacant store room on Main street in which to install their bar and brass rail.

ORANGE TO SHARE ITS PROSPERITY

William Tway Appointed Chairman of Committee to Evolve County-wide Plan

SANTA ANA, Oct. 31. — On a committee headed by William Tway of this city, past president of the Santa Ana Business Men's Association, today rested the responsibility of evolving a plan for a county-wide advertising campaign calculated to indicate the manner in which the prosperity of a large number of Orange county residents can be passed around to those less fortunate. Assisting Tway will be G. C. MacLeod, secretary of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and Harry May, secretary of the Fullerton chamber.

Tway's appointment occurred when newspaper editors and chamber officials met with Earl Ruddy, secretary of the Santa Ana Business Men's Association, and V. D. Johnson, Orange county publicity agent, last night to discuss conditions which have lead to the establishment of Orange county as a "white spot" on the nation.

Much plain talk was indulged in and it was clearly indicated that the newspaper men and others would not countenance a campaign that would have as its aim the furtherance of a false feeling of county well-being while hungry men walk the streets.

It was pointed out forcefully that while a large class of Orange county residents are well off financially, there is a large class that is suffering because of the lack of employment and the curtailment of wages.

Tway's committee was instructed to draw up a plan for submission to the County Board of Supervisors, which probably will be asked to make an appropriation to carry it out.

The new structure is to contain nine rooms, three of which are to be used for library purposes, while the remaining six will be small store rooms. The library will contain a work room, store room and children's room. More than double the floor space will be given in the new building, as compared with the structure now in use here for county library purposes.

Search Ends With Arrest on Drunk-Driving Charge

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 31. — George W. Moulton, County Assessor, who for two days was hunted for service of a subpoena from the grand jury, today presented that body with the book of records of his office, which had been demanded by the inquisitorial group. The Assessor left the police station, where he had been charged with driving while drunk, this morning, and was summoned to the grand jury session. He took with him a small volume believed to contain banking records of his returns on personal tax collections, covering recent months.

Moulton's reported failure to produce this volume at request of special public accountants now engaged in a $9700 audit of county records had caused the subpoena to be issued for him Wednesday.

A search for Moulton ensued Wednesday afternoon when he did not answer the summons. The search ended yesterday afternoon when a traffic officer arrested the Assessor south of La Jolla on a charge of driving while drunk.

BOY HONKERS GET REPRIMAND

Twenty-two in Police Court at Santa Barbara

Assemblyman Bliss, Author of Law Broken, There

His Son Among Those Cited for Horn Tooting

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 31.—Twenty-two high school boys, several of them from Santa Maria, as well as Santa Barbara, appeared before Police Judge E. A. Rizor this morning to show cause why they should not be penalized for honking automobile horns on State street for fun after the local high school eleven had defeated the Santa Maria High School football team, 6 to 0.

Police Judge Rizor, when court opened, called attention to the recently enacted State law which makes it a violation of the Motor Vehicle Act to honk a horn for other purposes than for a warning. Assemblyman George Bliss, who helped pass the law, was present with an attorney, for his son, too, had been cited.

The boys hemmed and hawed when the judge put it straight to the group asking them to show cause why they should not be penalized. The courtroom was packed with the youths who had been cited. A few volunteered that they were just out for a good time and celebrating a football victory, the greatest of the school year.

The judge pondered a bit, gave the boys a stern lecture about law observance and regards for the life and property of other people and dismissed the group. Assemblyman Bliss, who criticised the police for interfering with the boys' celebration of the football victory, retired with his lawyer and son. He said he still planned to introduce in the next Legislature an amendment to the law to permit the general public on special occasions to honk automobile horns for other reasons than warnings.

CHILDREN INVITED TO JOLLY FETE

Pasadena Halloween Will Be Celebrated in Rose Bowl There Tonight

PASADENA, Oct. 31.—More than 15,000 persons, including a large number of children, are expected to attend this city's community Halloween celebration in the Rose Bowl tomorrow night.

The program of music and pageantry will serve as an informal dedication of the reconstructed stadium. In view of the fact that children caused the police somewhat less trouble than usual tonight with their pranks, it was decided to reward them by admitting them free to the Rose Bowl celebration.

The evolution of the Tournament of Roses will be depicted by an elaborate dedication pageant, composed of four episodes: The Valley Hunt Club, chariot races, first East-West football game, and dedication of the stadium to the youth of California.

Proceeds from the Halloween celebration will be used to plant 5000 roses about the stadium.

"DEAD" DOG FINDS PUPPIES

Rattlesnake Bites Prospector's Pet; Thinking Her Defunct, He Leaves Offspring at Ranch; She Picks Up Trail, and All Ends Well

ADELANTO, Oct. 31.—Mother instinct was recently demonstrated here by a small terrier, who staggered over rough desert land after being bitten by a rattlesnake, some twenty miles to a ranch, having been left for dead by her master, and human admiration was shown when the rancher, accompanied by his wife, drove for almost twenty-four hours over desert roads, searching for the master, an old prospector, who was carrying with his little outfit five very small puppies.

The old prospector, who with his two sleek burros hitched to a small covered wagon has become a familiar figure along the roads leading to and from Victorville, came to the F. H. Merrill ranch near Helendale about a week ago. He appealed to Mr. and Mrs. Merrill for help for five young puppies whose mother had died, he said, from the effects of a rattlesnake bite. A bottle with an improvised nipple was made and the puppies were soon given a substitute dinner and for three days while the prospector lingered at the ranch so as to have fresh milk for the babies, they thrived and grew.

After the three-day stay the prospector went on his way, carrying the puppies with him. On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Merrill were surprised to see a small mother dog come staggering into the yard, evidently following the cold trail which had been left by the burros and the prospector. She went immediately to the spot where the puppies had lain on the ground and laid down.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill fed the little dog and in a short time she recovered her strength sufficiently to begin another hunt for the puppies. Mr. Merrill loaded the dog into his car and started with Mrs. Merrill out on the long search for the prospector, who had carried the babies away with him.

On reaching Victorville the searchers discovered that the prospector had stopped for a few supplies and left the town by the northeast bridge over the Mojave River and on out the roadway across Apple Valley. The trail finally led to a dead camp fire near the mountains, and at some of the scattered ranches information was gained to prove to Mr. and Mrs. Merrill that they were on the right track. The search continued on to another dead camp fire, and finally, after night had fallen Saturday evening the last fire of the prospector was seen.

According to those present, the prospector refused at first to believe that his friends might have brought his dog, which he declared he had left dead on the desert, some twenty miles from the Merrill ranch. He declared that it was impossible, but when he saw the dog, which knew him, he was convinced. Tears rolled down his cheeks and the little mother dog kept up a whine even after she had found her nest of puppies all well and happy.

A deep snake wound was found on the side of the little dog, which was evidence that the story told by the prospector was entirely true. Mr. and Mrs. Merrill reached Victorville on their return to their ranch near Helendale from the search on the desert roads in the small hours Sunday morning and stated that the reuniting of the little family was well worth the effort.

Motorist Hit by Train Has Narrow Escape

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 31.—Ely Kaplain, local business man, had a miraculous escape from death or serious injuries today when he emerged unscathed from the wreck of the small car in which he was driving after it had been struck by a freight engine and sandwiched between the engine and a standing box car, at the Southern Pacific Railroad crossing on North Mill street.

Kaplan was driving south on Mill street, according to eyewitnesses; as he approached the crossing he slowed down, but the engine was switching cars on the north track, and Kaplan was not aware of it until he saw it loom up in the foreground. He applied his brakes and swung his car to the right, but the engine struck the machine in the rear and crushed it against the box car on the siding at the Southern Pacific Milling Company. Kaplan, with the exception of a bad scare, a slight cut on the head and a few bruises was not hurt. The car was a complete wreck.

HOSPITAL LOSES THREE DOCTORS

Pasadena Emergency Staff Members to Resign

Drs. Hatfield, Wagner and Szukalski to Leave

Twenty-four-Hour Schedule Given as Reason

PASADENA, Oct. 31.—Three members of the surgical staff of the Pasadena Emergency Hospital will resign when the hospital moves into its new quarters in the recently completed $200,000 Hall of Justice, it was learned today.

Dr. Howard L. Hatfield, Dr. William Wagner and Dr. Joseph Szukalski have decided that because a new twenty-four-hour duty schedule will go into effect when the hospital moves into its new quarters, they will have insufficient time to devote to their growing private practice. As a result of their resignations, Chief Surgeon C. C. Troensegaard will appoint three new emergency surgeons to fill their places within a few days.

Occupation of the new police station and jail will necessitate several other reorganizations. Norman Firth, for five years office manager of the local detective bureau, will be promoted to the position of police statistician, in which capacity he will prepare monthly and annual reports of the department. His place will be taken by Lee Sudith of 1650 Navarro street.

Location of the jail at a greater distance from the desk sergeant's office will necessitate appointment of three jailers and a woman's matron.

The victims of the double tragedy are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Flores, with marital troubles given as the cause. There were no children.

Flores, 23-year-old vegetable picker, and his wife, Mary, 19, separated several weeks ago and she went to Los Angeles. Several days ago she returned and obtained employment as a waitress. A few minutes before the tragedy, Flores entered the cafe and engaged his wife in a brief conversation, then pulled a pistol, shot his wife through the heart and himself through the head.

HEAVIER PENALTIES URGED

Imposition of More Stringent Punishment for Driving While Drunk Urged by City Prosecutors

GLENDALE, Oct. 31.—Imposition of heavier penalties for drunk automobile drivers, through a change in the present law, was advocated by speakers at the meeting of City Prosecutors of Southern California, meeting in the Oakmont County Club as guests of the city of Glendale.

As the law now stands, the prosecutors asserted, anyone charged with driving while intoxicated is accused of a felony, but the jury before whom such a case may be tried is granted the power to impose the penalty, offering an opportunity to change the charge to the level of a misdemeanor.

Changes proposed would make the first offense a misdemeanor, while a second violation would be treated as a felony, without any discretion being left in the hands of the jury to fix the penalty.

Dun's Review Sees Hopeful Recovery Signs

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Dun's review tomorrow will say:

The fall season has developed some encouraging signs in business, although caution still governs many operations and the scope of the improvement remains restricted. Another month's movements have reflected a continuance of the changes which have been in process for more than a year and trade has so many ramifications and has become so diversified in character that the transition is attended by numerous complexities. Conditions which in some respects have had no precedent require time for their adjustment and the fact that the present unusual phases are practically world-wide not unnaturally lengthens the period of recuperation. Fluctuation in the weekly rate of activity in any given line is of less importance than underlying forces which determine basic trends, strengthening of the fundamental situation being regarded as essential to ultimate general revival.

Progress in the latter connection does not yet show in the principal statistical barometer, but the closer balancing of production with consumption, the working off of some surplus stocks of goods, the naming of more attractive prices and the efforts to mitigate unemployment are among the hopeful auguries.

Weekly bank clearings, $7,996,946,-000, a decrease of 61.8 per cent from a year ago.

Utility Operating Earnings Higher

Gross income was $1,755,947 as against $1,698,171.

September profits before interest, reserves and Federal taxes amounted to $89,958, as against $86,426 in the 1929 month, while gross income for September was $169,455, as against $160,123 a year ago.

BANK DEBIT VOLUME UP IN OCTOBER

Clearinghouse Figures Show 16.4 Per Cent Gain Over September

Los Angeles bank debits for October, while showing a sharp decrease from the abnormally high total, in October, 1929, registered an increase of $146,059,129, or 16.4 per cent over 1930 September volume, according to figures released yesterday by the Los Angeles Clearing House Association.

The month's debits aggregated $1,032,925,391 against $886,866,262 in September, and compared with $1,385,691,541, reported for October a year ago, represent a decrease of $352,766,150, or 25.5 per cent.

This is the sharpest decline compared with 1929 figures of any month this year, however, the total in October last year was the record high for all time of any month and was influenced partially by the extraordinarily large volume of security transactions in the collapse of the stock market at that time. Yesterday's debits totaled slightly in excess of $31,000,000 against $66,000,000 a year ago and on Thursday, last, were about $35,-000,000 against $71,837,413 on October 30, 1929.

Debits for the first ten months this year aggregated $10,239,221,341. This compares with $12,306,806,890 for the same period last year, and represents a decrease of $2,067,585,-549, or 16.8 per cent.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Recoveries from an early decline in cotton today were promoted by reports of a recent active business in cotton print cloths, relatively steady Liverpool cables and unfavorable features in the weather news, but met a renewal of southern selling and liquidation.

The latter was stimulated by weakness in the stock market during the early afternoon and sent the market into new low ground for the day, with March contracts selling off from 11.62 to 11.48, or about 10 points net lower. Trading was comparatively quiet and the tone somewhat irregular around 2 o'clock at rallies of 2 or 3 points from the lowest.

SUNSET PACIFIC MAY SELL

Deal With Tide Water Associated Pending, but No Decision Reached Yet, Carnahan States

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Affairs of the Sunset Pacific Oil Company, successor to the ill-fated Julian Petroleum Corporation, may soon come under the custodianship of the Tide Water Associated Oil Company if details involved in a proposed sale are adjusted satisfactorily.

H. L. Carnahan, president of the Sunset Pacific, confirmed yesterday the rumors that representatives of the two companies have been discussing a combination of assets for the past several months. Whether or not the conversations will culminate successfully Mr. Carnahan was not able to state, but he did promise that full details will be transmitted immediately to stockholders when, and if, an agreement is reached.

TRADE BEST HOPE

At various times in the last few months echoes of the negotiations between the two companies have been heard on the street, but neither company has seen fit to comment. Mr. Carnahan, however, has intimated in recent communications to stockholders that the only hope for Sunset Pacific stockholders of ultimate profit is the transfer of assets to a larger and stronger unit in the oil business.

Tide Water Associated is conspicuous in the financial news at this time through its activities along consolidation lines. The company submitted the other day a proposition for the acquisition of the Richfield Oil Company, and itself is popularly given a place in the projected combination forming around the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company.

While the 30,000 stockholders of the Sunset Pacific Oil Company can hardly expect a liberal offer from the Tide Water Associated or any other prospective buyer, due to the depressed earning power of small oil companies, the possibility of ultimately receiving Sinclair shares should at least open an avenue for speculative profits some time in the future.

Under the direction of Mr. Carnahan, formerly coreceiver of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, the affairs of the Sunset Pacific Oil Company have measurably improved since receivership in spite of unsettlement in the oil business and a heavy load of fixed charges growing out of the reorganization.

FIXED CHARGES HEAVY

The company is paying interest charges on $10,000,000 first mortgage bonds and $2,500,000 of debentures, a total funded debt of $12,-500,000 on assets of slightly more than $15,000,000, as stated in the 1929 annual report.

Tide Water Associated Oil Company is the owner of approximately $2,317,000 of the first mortgage bonds and the First Securities Company holds the remainder, or $7,683,-000. Both received the bonds as preferred creditors of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, the First Securities Company receiving the bonds among other assets not admitted in the consolidation of the Los Angeles First National Trust and Savings Bank and the Security Trust and Savings Bank.

Former Julian Petroleum stockholders are the owners of approximately 3,900,000 Sunset Pacific Class A shares, and unsecured creditors of the Julian company hold $2,500,000 of debentures and the 300,000 shares of "B" stock.

Under the new curtailment program, Sunset Pacific is only running from one to two strings of drilling tools and is producing about 5700 barrels of oil daily. Prior to curtailment the company was producing approximately 9200 barrels daily.

Utility Alters Dividend Policy

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. — Effective with the January 1, 1931, payment, People's Light and Power Corporation, subsidiary of Tri-Utilities Corporation, will pay dividends on Class A stock at the present annual rate of $2.40 a share entirely in cash. Heretofore, stockholders have had the option of receiving quarterly dividends either in cash at the quarterly rate of 60 cents a share or in stock at the rate of one-fiftieth of a share of Class A stock for each share held.

Similar action in relation to the Class A dividend of Federal Water Service Corporation, another Tri-Utilities subsidiary, was taken a short time ago.

Sloan Denies Rumors Afoot of Dividend Cut

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—General Motors Corporation today reported net earnings for the third quarter of $25,470,697, equal to 53 cents per common share, against $70,988,025, or $1.58 a share in the corresponding period of 1929. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the corporation, said, "While earnings have declined due to perfectly evident and fully appreciated reasons, I believe the General Motors organization has established an operating record equal to, and, perhaps, more outstanding than in previous years."

Directors meet for dividend action November 6, next. Although the earnings of 53 cents were less than the quarterly dividend requirement of 75 cents a share Wall-street rumors of a possible reduction were recently emphatically discredited by the management.

PETROLEUM PRODUCTION DECREASES

September Daily Output 549,000 Barrels Under Last Year's Period

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Production of petroleum in the United States during September was estimated by the Bureau of Mines today at 70,977,000 barrels, a daily average of 2,366,000. This was 49,000 barrels a day less than August and 549,000 under the daily average production for September, last year.

The decline was reflected in a contraction in stocks on hand of all petroleum products. These were estimated to be 678,508,000 barrels on September 30, a reduction of 7,349-000 in a month.

September demand for gasoline was 37,823,000 barrels, an increase of 9 per cent over September, 1929. Gasoline stocks on hand at the end of the month declined to 38,254,000 barrels, 3,370,000 less than one month previously.

Most of the decline in crude production took place in Texas. The output in California, Oklahoma and New Mexico was unchanged.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Gasoline production, imports, domestic consumption and exports in September and August this year, and September last year, with stocks at the end of the month, were as follows in barre's:

GRAPE CAR DEMAND HEAVY

Santa Fe Reports Movement to Eastern Marts Running Ahead of Last Year

Most significant in California agriculture at this time, states the monthly crop report issued yesterday by the Santa Fe Railway, is the grape movement, which will run in large volume despite the efforts of the control board to effect curtailment.

"Shipments are running ahead of last year, causing urgent demands for refrigerator cars, and if the present market and favorable weather conditions are maintained, the movement of all varieties will continue heavy until the middle of November," says the report.

The peach harvest, now at an end, shows that California produced a record crop, and with the Valencia orange season rapidly drawing to a close the new citrus crop continues promising. Picking of navel oranges has started in the San Joaquin Valley but little fruit will ripen in Southern California until about December 1.

While the citrus crop the past season was smaller than usual, the report states that "a record in cash returns to growers seems possible."

RICE HARVESTING ON

Rice harvesting is in full swing with most of the crop still in the field. Production for the State is estimated at 6,270,000 bushels, a slight increase over last year. Despite low prices and some shortage of labor, cotton gins are active.

"There is a normal movement of all kinds of vegetables," states the Santa Fe, "and shipments of cauliflower and lettuce are expected to increase materially within the next few weeks. The avocado crop, the largest in the history of the State, is now being harvested, and California for the second time is shipping persimmons in carload lots."

DATE OUTPUT GROWS

Another significant feature of the report is the statement that the first carload of dates to ever leave the State was shipped over the Santa Fe last week. California has been shipping dates for some time but always in less than carload lots. This year the date production is estimated at 2,200,000 pounds.

Grapefruit has started to move from Arizona, and the new citrus crop there continues to give promise of substantial increase over preceding years. It is also stated that weather conditions in Arizona the past few weeks have been favorable for lettuce and other growing crops.

FORD PLANS STIR BRITONS

Mass Production at Plant on Thames Promises Reversal of Old Industrial Policy

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Henry Ford is building on the Thames River, England, one of the largest manufacturing plants ever constructed in the British Empire, a plant capable of producing 200,000 individual cars per annum.

What will this mean to Great Britain? Undoubtedly, Mr. Ford's successful formula of mass production and small profits will be carried out there as in the United States. The present total output of all British automobile manufacturers, including Ford's, is not quite 200,000 cars per year.

Will a cut of 50 per cent in automobile prices in Great Britain occur when Mr. Ford begins producing cars there? If so, havoc will reign in many automobile factories, and all will be faced with a new kind of competition.

A British tariff would do no good in this situation because Mr. Ford has announced that the cars built at this new plant will use 100 per cent British materials.

The subject remains not only one of intense interest to British manufacturers, but of just as much interest to the mass of British citizens, who see in Mr. Ford a mighty force which will lead a movement toward higher wages and higher standards of living, as so signally happened in the United States.

Col. Arthur Woods is taking hold of the unemployment problem in a vigorous way. Nearly $1,000,000,000 is being drafted to start work in every part of the United States. Every section of the country is responding. The money mobilized so far is substantially as follows:

Pacific Coast, $475,000,000; Middle West, $285,000,000; South, $75,000,-000; Southwest, $74,000,000; eastern States, $44,000,000; Mountain States, $25,000,000; Northwest $18,000,000.

Relief programs have already begun in more than thirty cities of the country to combat the growing army of unemployed, once expected to reach a total of 5,000,000 persons by January. Western cities, such as Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles, seem to have the jump on the others in the organizations already effected.

The Federal government's own program includes not only a $115,-000,000 building program in the Capital City, not all of which will be spent this year, but an additional $50,000,000 for building merchant vessels under the supervision of the Shipping Board, which expects to employ an additional 20,000 men.

Louis T. McFadden, chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency of the United States House of Representatives, continues his fight against American intervention in European financial affairs. In New York he criticised severely the action of American bankers in participating in the $125,000,000 loan to the Bruening government despite the growing opposition of Germany to the whole reparation settlement.

"It's a dangerous piece of meddling in German domestic politics," said Mr. McFadden. "It tends to involve us with the Bruening government, and commit us by this very act to support the revision of the Young plan that the present German government has already hinted is inevitable.

"The drop in the price level of the world, however, is a most important factor in the whole situation," Mr. McFadden continued. It may make revision or repudiation of the Young plan by Germany imperative. If the commodity price level should remain where it is now, it would mean a tremendous increase in the amount of reparations. If the level should settle down 30 per cent below what it was when the reparation payments were fixed, it would mean that Germany would have to pay 30 per cent more in goods and labor than she agreed to do.

"Now if the result should be a repudiation, France is authorized under the provisions of the plan to reoccupy evacuated Germany, and, in my opinion, such an occupation would mean war."

The Congressman summarized his position by saying in the Magazine of Wall Street:

"We are bogged down in the quicksands of the German reparation slough."

WOOL MART CONDITIONS SUMMED UP

Weekly Survey Reports Buying Still Light and Prices Barely Steady

BOSTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

Fine wools are steadier in the foreign markets. On the whole here there has been little change. Medium wools, on the other hand, have shown a declining tendency abroad and are barely steady here. The domestic market has continued rather slow, with buying spotty and for rather small quantities.

While the piece goods and clothing markets are reported rather liquid, manufacturers say there has been little reflection as yet in any buying on the part of the men higher up. Certainly, there has been little reflection in the wool market of buying higher up.

Mohair still is dull, with prices nominally unchanged.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1930, to October 30, 1930, inclusive were 114,782,500 pounds against 149,324,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1930, to October 30, 1930, inclusive, were 301,766,612 pounds against 277,422,300 pounds for the same period last year."

Net income for the first nine months of this year was $4,173,871, equal to $4.53 a share, as compared with $2,613,299, or $2.82 a share in the corresponding 1929 period.

BANKING INSTITUTE TO OPEN NEW HOME

Los Angeles chapter of the American Institute of Banking will formally open its new quarters next Monday evening in the new Bankers' Building now being completed on South Hill street. The event, for which a program has been arranged, will culminate several months of effort on the part of the institute and is made possible through the co-operation of the senior officers of the Los Angeles banks and members of the clearinghouse, it was stated.

CHEMICAL UNIT TO RESUME OPERATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Commercial Solvents Corporation will resume full-time operations at its Peoria plant November 1. Plant has been operating at about half capacity in order to allow inventories to be reduced. During curtailed operation the new cookers have been installed and an anticipated better demand in the remainder of year has caused operations to be increased.

JARDINES RETURN

John Earl Jardine, president of William R. Staats Company, accompanied by his son, John Earle Jardine, Jr., returned to Los Angeles yesterday. They had been east during the past month attending the Investment Bankers' Association convention. Following that conclave, they visited New York and Boston financial centers.

BLUE-CHIP STOCK LIST DWINDLES

Only Two Issues Remain in $200 Price Class on Exchange

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Of a dozen blue chip issues—shares selling above $200—traded on the New York Stock Exchange earlier in the year, only two remained among active issues at the close of today's session. They were Norfolk and Western, closing at $214.75 and Peoples Gas at $231. Both Allied Chemical and Atchison dropped out of the $200 class, closing at $196.75 and $195.75, respectively.

Allied Chemical, together with Case and New York and Harlem, have sold earlier in the year above $300, but have all declined more than 100 points. Other issues having passed out of the blue-chip class included American Telephone, Eastman, Auburn, Union Pacific, Westinghouse Electric and Western Union.

BEARS STILL IN MARKET SADDLE

Long List of New Lows in Day's Trading

Weakness of Steel Notable Feature

Sales Volume Reports 2,249,195 Shares

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—A stock market compiled an extensive list of new lows today as the cumulative effect of the two-day and Thursday selling left wider gaps in prices.

Liquidation in the steels was forward steadily. Chemicals, Radio and Electrical Equipment shares, together with a wide assortment of specialties, had prominent representation among stocks that broke through their 1930 minimums. Trading was fairly active in the final hour when the market was weakest, though last-minute covering reduced most of the losses. Sales totaled 2,249,195 shares.

Weakness of the Steels was particularly noticeable in the day's pendents, reflected the sharp abandonment of hope that industry could show much improvement over the remainder of the year. Bethlehem was off 3 points to a new low, although it recovered partially.

Miscellaneous favorites were touched new minimums, including Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Allis-Chalmers, Westinghouse, American Brown Roveri, Auburn, American Metals, Kennecott, Houston Oil, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, General Radio and United Aircraft. The net decline in the active issues was from 1 to 10 points. Allied Chemical showed the extreme loss, Ingersoll Rand dropped 14 points.

Business reviews for the month in October characterized trade as spotty.

The monthly review of the New York Federal Reserve Bank said available evidence pointed to little change in general production activity during October from the comparatively low level of September. A further moderate decline in commodity prices for October, the bank noted, carried the index more than 450 products to a new low level for recent years. Continued weakness in metal prices was regarded as the most significant move of the month.

The reduction in the American metal dividend unsettled investors. American Brown Boveri deferred broke 8 points, Radio as low as 18 3-4, United Corporation Steel, which on Tuesday sold at 154, reached 143 1-2, only 1 point from its year's low. The closing quotation of 144 1-2 was lower.

Three to 4-point losses were registered by New York Central, Auburn Auto, American Tobacco B, Columbian Carbon, Crucible Steel, Western Union, Westinghouse, Du Pont and Baldwin Locomotive.

Foreign exchanges were dull and little changed.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stock Market Approaches Record Bottom Levels as Prices Again Dip Fractionally Lower

With bearish sentiment increased by the poor showing of third-quarter reports and the market again demonstrating its inability to rally on any rallying movement, the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday continued to recede with net fractional declines general throughout the list. At the close of the day's trading the average of thirty representative common stocks was but a fraction above the record low hit a week ago.

Selling was quiet and orderly, transactions for the session holding to a small volume and only about half that of the average session of the preceding week. Trading in the last hour was quiet and indicated no particular trend in either direction.

Union Oil, which, with Union Associates, has played a prominent part in the activity of recent sessions, dropped an additioned 3-8 to strike a new bottom at 28. The stock closed at 28 1-8. Union Associates dipped to 27 1-8 and ended at 27 1-4, off 1-8 net. Other oils followed a similar trend, including Standard of California, Pacific Coast and Rio Grande. Richfield finished firm at 6 1-2, and Pacific strengthened 3-8 to 10 3-8. Southern California Edison continued a brisk trader and fell off an additional 5-8 to close low for the day at 49 1-4. Pacific Gas dropped 1 1-8 to 49 7-8. Pickwick traded rapidly but held to 2.80. Pacific Public Service, formerly an active issue, was not traded, having a closing bid at 24 1-2. Only 100 shares of the stock have crossed the board this week.

Transamerica again topped the turnover volume and lost 5-8 to 17 5-8. Security-First National Bank dropped a point to 92 1-2, 1-2 above the record low. Seaboard National Bank, yielding 7-8, marked a new bottom at 40 1-8. Pacific Finance registered a fractional loss, and International Re-Insurance reacted a point to 36. Claude Neon yielded 5-8 to 18 1-2.

Sales totaled 18,556 shares valued at $459,219; previous day, 14,465 shares valued at $452,964.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD KEGLEY

The Belridge Oil Company has no immediate plan to increase its string of tools in the North Belridge district, where the company recently brought in the first deep producer. It is expected to await developments by other operators who control considerable offsetting property.

Belridge's No. 15 continues to flow at the rate of 3000 barrels of 6-deg. gravity oil a day from a depth of 5475 feet, along with 60,000 cubic feet of gas.

Production is going in for the Standard Oil Company's McPhail No. 1 to be drilled on Sec. 36, 27-20. The Texas Company's Martin No. 1 is preparing to spud in, while Associated is rigging up Reward No. 1-A on Sec. 34, 27-20. These North Belridge projects will endeavor to find the same deep zone developed in the Belridge Oil Company. All within a short distance of the R. H. Richfield's No. 1, due northeast of the producer, is preparing to core.

Increase Flow

Daily production from the Dabney-Johnston Oil Corporation's No. 3 in the extreme southeasterly portion of the Signal Hill field has increased from 2000 barrels to more than 2500 barrels. This project is one of A. M. Macrate's Britch No. 1, which came in recently at the rate of 100 barrels daily.

In the Los Cerritos field, northwest of Signal Hill, D. H. McFarland No. 1 completed for 300 barrels daily, and the James Oil Company brought in No. 6 for 150 barrels daily and the company's No. 7 completed for 500 barrels daily. Signal Hill is producing approximately 90,500 barrels daily, as against a quota of 95,000 barrels.

Outlining Appointment

William Reinhardt, chairman of the Kettleman Hills oil and gas operation committee, is understood to be considering various appointments to the committee of engineers and attorneys that will map up the first draft of a unitized plan for the future development of the Kettleman Hills oil field.

Mr. Reinhardt's committee on Friday closed a series of meetings held in the assembly rooms of the California Oil and Gas Association, during which it discussed the possible limits of the field and a number of other conditions suggested by the various operators. The committee of engineers and attorneys is expected to be appointed early next week.

Completes One

The R. Helens Petroleum Company plugged back to complete Hershey No. 15 in the easterly portion of the Montebello field and the well is on the pump, flowing about 100 barrels of oil a day, along with considerable water from a depth of 5010 feet. A water shut-off was attempted at 4975 feet and indications are that it will be recemented. St. Helens drilled Montebello No. 13 to a total depth of 5010 feet, but failed to find sufficient oil sand showings to place it on production.

Test Showings

Oil showings continued to be encountered by the Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation's Tideland Permit No. 3, at the end of a pier off Campbell Point, about two miles southeast of the Elwood oil field. Bottom of the hole is at 3180 feet, and the drill now is making better progress in a brown shale formation. For a few days Bolsa Chica's Tideland test was penetrating a sand formation and progress was slow.

Bolsa Chica's Tideland Permit No. 2 embraces 155 acres, and is owned on two sides by property apparently exempt from drilling restrictions. The company also has Tideland Permit No. 161, which includes sixty-two acres. It is nearer the Elwood field, and Tideland Permit No. 160, embracing fifty-nine acres, is just east of its active project.

Gas Flowing

The Shell Oil Company's Taylor No. 1 in the Ventura-avenue field, is flowing yesterday at the rate of twenty-five barrels of oil a day and a depth of 6980 feet, and is expected to settle down into a steady flower in a day or two. At Signal Mountain, Shell's Freeman No. 1, which was completed recently, is putting out 200 barrels of 36-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 1705 feet.

Productive Zone

The productivity of the shallow zone in the Venice oil field is shown by the completion yesterday of the Shell Oil Company's Townsite No. 1, the first producer on that lease, in the southwesterly portion of the field. This well, one of five projects on the lease, came in at the rate of 100 barrels of 23-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 4890 feet.

In the Del Rey lease, Union's Del Rey No. 1 for a time was flowing about 400 barrels of oil a day. It built up a daily flow exceeding 600 barrels. Union's Townsite well No. 2, No. 4 are drilling ahead, while a tentative location has been made for Townsite No. 5, and for Del Rey No. 2.

The Venice Oil Syndicate's No. 4 on the corner of Thirty-ninth street and Speedway in the Venice field was completed yesterday for 100 barrels of oil a day, with bottom at 6400 feet. Water shut-off was expected at 3600 feet. The cores from 800 feet of oil sand. Venice Oil No. 3 was brought in several days ago and is putting out 2000 barrels daily with bottom at 6099 feet. The operator's No. 5 is swabbing for a water shut-off at 3554 feet and is expected to be given a production test in the shallow sand near the intersection of Forty-fifth avenue and Speedway, the Venice Oil Company's No. 1 came in for 100 barrels daily with bottom at 6000 feet.

Grande's Birthday

Twenty years ago yesterday the Rio Grande Oil Company was formed in El Paso, Tex. Since then Rio Grande has become a widely diversified unit of the petroleum industry, embracing three major divisions—production, refining and marketing. While growth has been rapid, the company has planned and developed each division of its operations at opportune periods and to a point where each is well balanced with respect to the other.

Each division is so diversified in scope that neither production, refining nor marketing is dependent upon the caprices of any one section of the territory in which the company operates. Rio Grande has a total of eighty producing wells with an aggregate estimated daily potential net production in excess of 40,000 barrels of which the greater part averages 37-deg. gravity. These wells are located in seven fields in Texas, New Mexico and California. The larger proportion of crude production is from the company's California acreage.

YESTERDAY'S QUOTATIONS

CATTLE—Receipts Friday were moderate and although trade was not very snappy prices held fully steady on practically all matured classes of cattle. Fat steers were practically lacking, cows and heifers making up most of the fresh supply, the latter furnishing a large share of the 300 head of holdovers.

A part load of 967-pound steers from a near-by feed lot made 7.25 and a load or two of light Arizona steers went to a feeder at 7.25. A few odd head of steers ranged from 5.75@7.00. The load of steers reported at 8.50 late Thursday was an error. The price should have read 7.50.

A few head of good light heifers reached 7.50 with part loads of local and intermountain heifers of medium quality at 6.00@6.75. About a load and a half of top medium intermountain cows cashed at 5.75 and 6.25, with small lots at 5.00@5.50, and a few at 6.00@6.25. Bulk of trucked-in cows at 4.75. Other common cows went down to 4.50, with low cutters and cutters at 2.50@4.25. A few head of good 600-pound odd head of medium kinds made 4.50@5.50.

CALVES—A load of fresh calves and over 200 holdovers were fairly well cleaned up at about steady prices. Practically no milk vealers were available. Several loads of southwestern stock calves cashed at 7.00@8.00, with a few common down to 6.00 and some undesirable light vealers at 5.00@6.75.

HOGS—Two loads of eastern butchers were slow to move and price reductions of fully 25c had to be made. One load of 181-pound Utahs topped at 10.75, with a mixed 179-pound load at 10.50. A few head of local butchers made 10.00@10.50 and a 500-pound packing sow scored 8.50.

SHEEP—Two decks of common 70-pound Utah lambs were considered about steady at 6.75 straight. Good to choice 80-lb. 75 pounds down, are quoted at 7.00@8.25. Late Thursday nearly two decks of 59-pound New Mexico feeders scored 8.50. Medium to choice ewes quoted 3.00@4.00.

Fresh Drop in Corn Futures Features Mart

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Under pressure of heavy selling, the corn market today broke through the season's low-price record, and dragged down all other cereals. Oats, as well as corn, reached a new bottom level unmatched heretofore on the present crop. Enlarged estimates of the country's 1930 corn production went hand in hand with reports ideal weather had brought about rapid curing of the new corn crop, and that most of the corn would be out of the fields before the end of another week.

After a tumble of as much as 2½c a bushel in some cases, the corn market closed nervous, 1⅜@1½c lower than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed unsettled, ¼@1¼c down, oats 1¼@1⅝c off and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 27c.

Fresh downturns in corn values began as soon as trading started. An immediate factor was a crop estimate issued by a leading private authority making the total yield of corn this season 2,095,065,000 bushels, compared with the latest official forecast of 2,047,000,000 bushels.

Oats values suffered from liquidation sales, associated with corn market downturns.

Most of the provisions went lower, responsive to setbacks of hog values and of grain.

MACDONALD FORCES WIN FIRST CLASH

Extremist Move Beaten in Session Enlivened as Dry Offers Prohibition Bill

LONDON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The MacDonald government won its first victory in this session of Parliament today with the defeat of an extreme Laborite amendment to the address replying to the King's speech expressing regret that the speech from the throne contained no "proposal for Socialistic reorganization of industry."

It was a listless session for the British week-end always throws a shadow across Friday sittings.

A diversion was created, however, by the introduction of a prohibition bill by Edwin Scrymgeour, who calls himself the only prohibitionist sitting in the House. His measure, which had the first reading accorded all bills regardless of their nature, would prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. There is not the slightest chance of its getting any farther than a similar bill he introduced last year, which was killed at the second reading.

The Laborist motion, introduced by Jowett of Bedford East, was supported by Fenner-Brockway of Leyton East, who warned the government that failure to pursue a more vigorous policy of unemployment relief might result in Fascism or even Communism.

After brief debate the amendment was defeated by 156 to 11.

CHEST WORKERS TELL OPTIMISM

Percentage Creeping Toward 100 Mark

Team Leaders Confident of Final Success

Robust Growers Raise Six Times Quota

Percentages in Community Chest drives gradually are creeping toward the 100 mark as revealed in the reports at yesterday's luncheon at the Biltmore. At the end of the first half of the campaign, the score has not yet reached the halfway mark, but nowhere has a note of defeat been sounded. On the contrary, the spirits of leaders and workers appear to be on the crest of the wave, and on all sides an air of quiet confidence, determination and faith in the final outcome underlies the daily gatherings of campaigners.

"Don't worry about us. We will make our quota," is the theme heard most frequently from the team leaders, and reports show that many of these are well on their way toward the home stretch. In the central division, team No. 18, under Will Rossell, still holds the lead with 67 per cent of its quota; R. H. Schaub's team No. 20, follows with 66 per cent; Victor H. Rossetti's team No. 4 is next with 62.34 per cent; Homer Lawton's team No. 21 is 61.18 per cent; Byron J. Baden's leading team No. 2, reports 57 per cent and Byron M. Ketchum, leading team No. 26, brings up the list of the over-fifty-per-cent with 52.80 per cent.

PROGRESS COMPARED

The central division teams are in a series, twelve are well up in the thirties and only seven of the forty-three teams are in the foot of the class hovering around the 20 per cent line. The total for the central division to date is 42.10 per cent of its goal of $1,750,000.

Comparing the progress of the campaign with the results at the same time last year, Campaign Chairman Kerr said that to date there is an increase of 10,472 in the number of pledges.

"At this stage of the game last year," he said, there was a total of 41.66 per cent subscribed, or 24.44 per cent of the goal, as compared to $943,-000 or 53.89 per cent of the goal for the same period of time this year.

"Monday's total reached $1,087,-000 or 13.89 per cent of the total goal of $3,200,000," announced by Mrs. Albert Crutcher, vice-chairman of the residential unit, who presided for residential night day. Bishop John J. Cantwell expressed the hope that the Chest campaign will succeed for two very good reasons—that there would be no necessity for a bread line in the city and that the citizens of the community might experience the satisfaction that comes with unselfish giving.

WOMEN FORGE AHEAD

"A great city," he said, "may well be proud of its physical assets, its cultural development and its commercial prestige, but a mark of far greater distinction is the solicitude for those who work for those who cannot. It is a mark of distinguished civilization to have compassion for the sick, the unfortunate and the dependent. Their care is a serious obligation of those who have much."

Mrs. Crutcher called for reports from the vice-chairman of the residential district, the totals for which showed that the women campaigners have received subscriptions amounting to $48,391, or 24.20 per cent of the total quota for the district of $200,000. Twenty-five per cent more women are working this year than in any previous campaign, Mrs. Crutcher said.

WALNUT MEN LEAD

Some idea of the manner in which Community Chest money is used was given by Mr. Kerr when he spoke of the condition in two agencies last year. At the Children's Hospital 90 per cent of the total amount of money to that institution was paid but for straight charity cases, where no charge whatever was made for services rendered in the Orthopaedic Hospital, only 33 per cent of its total allotment was used in a similar manner.

"Business establishments of the city still continue to exceed their quotas, yesterday's reports showing about twenty-five which had gone over the top, with the outstanding organization going to the California Walnut Growers' Association, which reported in 633 per cent of its quota.

Dr. Willsie Martin, pastor of the Hollywood Methodist Church, delivered the invocation, and music was rendered by Mary Rochas's Harmonians.

There will be no report luncheon—

Mother Seeking Infant Still Waiting

Mrs. Marguerite Dunn

Mrs. Harold Laird and Dolores

MRS. MARGUERITE DUNN, 17-year-old mother, must wait until Monday before she finds whether she shall have custody of her 10-month-old daughter, Dolores, now in the custody of foster parents.

The case was called in Superior Judge Crawford's court yesterday under a habeas corpus proceeding instituted by the mother but it was continued upon the request of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Laird of 226 Niagara street, Burbank, foster parents of the baby, who asked more time to prepare their return on the writ.

Mr. Laird and his wife Elsa, appeared in court with the baby, according to their orders from the court, and the mother, Mrs. Dunn with her attorney, William Christensen, were prepared to take up the matter.

When the case was called, however, Vetran Ritta, attorney for the Lairds, asked that the matter be deferred until Monday so that he could have more time to prepare his case.

Mrs. Dunn charges that while she was ill and despondent shortly after her daughter was born, she was persuaded to permit the Lairds to take the child. Since then, she says, she has wept daily over her loss and having recovered her health wants the baby returned to her. The foster parents are fighting her move.

OCTOBER EXPORTS INCREASE

Value of Goods Leaving Port Total $8,750,000; Postal Receipts Gain

October exports from the ports of the southern district of California made a substantial increase, according to a report yesterday by Collector of Customs Schwaebe. The value of exports for the month was $8,750,000 and imports, $3,600,000.

Shipments to Hawaii were valued at $575,000; to Alaska, $55,500; to Porto Rico, $2850. Customs collections for the month amounted to $535,000.

The postoffice receipts for October of this year, compared to the same period in 1929, showed an increase of 1.17 per cent, according to a report of Postmaster O'Brien. The receipts for October, this year, reached $961,712.91, compared to $950,591 for the same month in 1929.

PAVING CONTRACTS LET

The Board of Public Works yesterday awarded the contracts for the paving and improving of Rossmore avenue and Vine street at $8752.51 and for the paving and improving of Rexford Drive between Pico Boulevard and Airdrome street, at $7579.18.

CARAVAN OF AIR AT BAKERSFIELD

Good-Will Flyers Have Nice Day of Flight

Fresno Entertains Travelers at Hangar Dinner

Blind-Flying Test Being Made by Students

BY BURTON L. SMITH
"Times" Staff Representative

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 31.—The fourth day of the California good-will tour finished tonight at Bakersfield when forty-seven planes came to a stop after a most notable trip through the San Joaquin Valley. The party got away on time at Sacramento this morning and after an uneventful yet most enjoyable trip landed at Modesto for a short time and then flew to Fresno, landing shortly before noon.

At the two morning stops large assemblages of citizens, headed by municipal officers and Chamber of Commerce officials, were at the airports to extend greetings and official welcomes. The party got its first taste of real San Joaquin grapes at Modesto where members of the American Legion passed from plane to plane with baskets of the lucious fruit. At Fresno the Chamber of Commerce served a most delightful noonday luncheon in one of the hangars at the airport. Aviators and passengers alike enjoyed to the fullest degree the lunch served picnic style and consumed with the alacrity such meals always are.

REACHING BAKERSFIELD

A longer stop than had been anticipated was necessary at Fresno to permit of several minor repairs to some of the aircraft; not that any of the planes were damaged to any considerable extent, but some of them needed immediate and careful attention.

Bakersfield was reached about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon where the night was spent at the El Tejon Hotel. A banquet by the Civic Commercial Association tonight was the entertainment feature.

As has been the rule since the beginning of the air tour, entertainment features of the banquet were limited to short talks by officials of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles, which is standing sponsor for the tour, and officers of the Bakersfield organization. More than 1000 miles in California has been covered since the air tour left Los Angeles Tuesday morning. A score of cities has been visited and hundreds of the State's citizens have been given added reason to be interested in all the phases of aviation.

EVERYTHING LOVELY

No accident of even the smallest character has happened on the trip and each time the nearly half a hundred planes land at a field, just another reason is added to the many that exist why travel by air is not only convenient and quick but safe beyond the peradventure of a doubt.

Without exception flyers on this trip are singing loud the praises of the perfectly developed Kern County Airport, located on the outskirts of this city.

The tour leaves here at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, flying sixty-six miles to Lancaster in the Antelope Valley. From there a 110-mile hop will take the caravan to Inyo, where lunch will be served. From Inyo the only stop outside of the State will be made at Yuma, Ariz., which will be made as a special compliment and concession to a more than active committee on aviation connected with the Chamber of Commerce in the Arizona city.

Another fifty miles will carry the tourist to the Imperial County Airport, and arrangements for the night with special entertainments on both sides of the international border have been made. From Imperial Valley the tour will wend its way over the mountains to San Diego and return to Los Angeles

RUMOR HAS FILM PAIR SEPARATED

Tom Mix Registers at Roosevelt Hotel and Wife Refuses Explanation

Reports that Tom Mix, once the screen's most famous western star, and his wife, Victoria Forde Mix, have again come to the parting of the ways were heard in Hollywood yesterday when it became known that Mix had registered at the Roosevelt in the film capital.

Mrs. Mix declined to deny or affirm the reports when reached at the Mix mansion at 1010 Summit, Beverly Hills.

"Tom has always done all of the talking for the family and I have nothing to say as usual," she declared.

She asserted her husband had gone to Agua Caliente for the week-end, and when she was told later that he had taken a suite at the Roosevelt she said she was not aware of that fact.

Inquiries for the actor at the hotel were referred to a Mr. Joy, who identified himself as Mix's representative. Joy admitted Mix was at the hotel and when asked about the rumored separation said Mix did not wish to discuss the matter.

On his return more than a week ago from a circus tour, Mix asserted "everything is okeh between me and Mrs. Mix." At that time he said he was staying at his home with Mrs. Mix and their young daughter, Tomasina, who was also in the circus with him.

In 1929 Mrs. Mix made a trip to Paris with her daughter, when French attorneys announced she had taken preliminary steps for a French divorce. The statement of the attorneys was followed by a denial from Mrs. Mix as well as one from Tom in which he came out with his famous indorsement of American courts, American justice and the little red schoolhouse.

Later Mrs. Mix returned and everything seemed to be all right. She remained in Hollywood during most of the time he was on the road with the circus.

Mrs. Mix, as Victoria Forde played leads in many of her husband's pictures.

In 1927 she and Tom entered into a property settlement by which she received in the neighborhood of $500,000.

BREEZE OFF DESERT TO CONTINUE

They'll Not Be Cooling Zephers Either, According to Experts on Weather

Desert winds from off the Mojave, extremely low humidity and continued warm temperature are on the weather bill of fare for today, according to the predictions of the United States Weather Bureau experts.

It was 92 deg. at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At noon the humidity was but 10 per cent. At 5 a.m. it was but 16 per cent as against a figure usually four or five times that amount. A high pressure area hovering over Idaho is driving the air from the desert out over the coastal plains, it was stated, making the fire hazard extremely serious.

If you have forgotten what October was a year ago just think about the month just ended. Last year's near record-breaking weather was almost duplicated again this year, but a point and a fraction separating the two records, according to Weather Bureau figures. Last year was the warmest October since 1918. The mean temperature was 68.7 for 1930 as compared to 70.2 for October, 1929. The normal is 65.3 deg.

The mean high for the month was 78.9 deg. as against 79.9 deg. for last year. The mean low for this year was 58.5 as against 60.4 for 1929.

THEODORE J. SHERWOOD, 84-year-old Civil War veteran, this morning will walk out of the Van Nuys Jail after having served a two-day term imposed because he refused to get a city permit for a bathtub he installed in his home at 13614 Sayre avenue, near Van Nuys.

"I'm going to fight this out to the end," he emphatically declared. "If necessary I'll take it to the highest court in the land. Why should a man pay for the right to keep himself clean by maintaining a bath in his home?"

After having once suspended a sentence on the octogenarian, Municipal Judge Curtis imposed the two-day term in the hope of compelling Sherwood to obey the law. The veteran had demanded that building inspectors approve the plumbing work he had had done in a grocery he owns on Sayre avenue. The inspectors refused to do so until he obtained a permit to do the work.

"I won't get a permit," Sherwood said. "They can arrest me again and again. I'll go to jail every week rather than give in to such a law.

"I fought for the American flag in the Civil War and I think I have earned the right to take a bath without paying a tax for it. I'm going to fight for my rights. If necessary I'll carry the fight to the President."

Armistice Day Leave Urged for ex-Service Men

Representatives of 30,000 veterans of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other World War organizations have requested the local Armistice Day committee to obtain permission from employers to dismiss ex-service men in their employ at noon on Armistice Day, the 11th inst., so the veterans may participate in the celebration in the Coliseum.

"Armistice Day is the most eventful day in the lives of more than 4,000,000 men who were under arms twelve years ago," said Maj.-Gen. Charles S. Farnsworth, United States Army, retired, who will be grand marshal of the parade.

CHIEF OF ARMY SEES DEFENSES

Gen. MacArthur Inspects Fort Named for Sire

Olympic Games Preparations Emphatically Approved

Triple Errand Brings Visit of Military Leader

Combining his first visit to Fort MacArthur, which was named after his father, with a whirlwind 150-mile motor trip to all the proposed sites for the 1932 Olympic Games, Maj.-Gen. Douglas MacArthur spent a busy day yesterday preparatory to his departure to take over the office of chief of staff of the United States Army.

Gen. MacArthur's trip was made in the triple capacity of the son of the late Lieut.-Gen. Arthur MacArthur, after whom the fort was named, as prospective head of the military forces of the country, and as former president of the American Olympic Association. He was accompanied on the trip by Col. Charles Patterson, Maj. J. J. Reddy and Capt. C. Davis of his own military party, Col. V. W. Cooper of the local military establishment, Maynard MacFie, vice-president of the 1932 Olympic committee; Zack J. Farmer and Gwinn Wilson, also representing the Olympic Games.

SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY

The visit to Fort MacArthur was the fulfillment of a promise made many years ago when the fort was so named. Gen. MacArthur was greeted at the gates of the post by the commanding officer, Maj. Kelly Lemon, and paid a brief but comprehensive visit to both the lower and upper reservations. This visit, in addition to its sentimental meaning to the general, was part of a tour of inspection of army posts which he is making en route to Washington to assume his new duties.

"I know of no city capable of making the thorough preparations for the Olympic Games that you are making here in Los Angeles," Gen. MacArthur said to Mr. MacFie at the conclusion of his trip. "Your exhaustive attention to every detail will not only make the 1932 games the finest ever conducted but will, in addition, make it difficult for other cities which conduct succeeding Olympic events.

OLYMPIC AUTHORITY

Gen. MacArthur's comments were regarded as carrying considerable weight because of the fact that as president of the 1928 American Olympic Committee he organized the American Olympic team and took them to Amsterdam, and this experience qualifies him as an expert on the subject. His interest is no less keen in the 1932 games and he is looking forward with great interest to the participation of United States Army officers in the equestrian and modern pentathlon events.

The trip yesterday included an inspection of the 2000-meter rowing course at Long Beach, where the delegation was greeted by representatives of the local recreation and playground departments, including President Doyle and Director Hunt. A trip was also made to the practice rowing course in Alamitos Bay.

A complete tour of inspection of the Olympic boxing stadium, which will be the scene of the 1932 boxing, wrestling and weight-lifting events, the Exposition Park Armory, where the fencing events will be held, and the Coliseum itself, was included in the trip and Gen. MacArthur pronounced the big football bowl the finest he had even seen.

VISITS POLO GROUNDS

The site of the proposed Olympic village, where several thousand contestants in the 1932 Games will be housed, also was visited and the trip terminated with a visit to the Santa Monica polo fields of the Riviera Country Club, Uplifters' Ranch and Will Rogers's home, where the 1932 polo and equestrian events will be concentrated.

Gen. MacArthur expressed himself as delighted with the progress made in preparing for the Games and predicted a most inspiring success for them. Accompanied by his staff, Gen. MacArthur will leave tonight on the Union Pacific for Cheyenne, Wyo., to inspect the Army post there. His official term of office as Chief of Staff will commence the 21st inst.

STREET OPENING PLANNED

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

UNTIL this raging mountain fire the year 1930 had an exceptionally good record. Before it is through it looks as though it might have one of the worst—the most charred.

There is a plan of the somewhat vague future which might help in the fight against these terrible fires. It is to make one great park of the Angeles forest reserve—a vast summer playground. Although it would bring more fools with cigarette butts to the park, it would also bring more firebreaks and place more people on guard against the fire demon.

Any one of these forest fires could, at the start, have been stamped out in one second if a heel were available. By saying that to populate the forest reserve would bring in more heels I intend no double meanings.

A HOLLYWOOD TRAGEDY

The tragedy of the "double" of Pola Negri who attempted to commit suicide—driven to desperation by poverty—is a common and ironic tragedy of Hollywood.

But for the machinations of Lady Luck the unhappy Gladys White might have been the star and Miss Negri the double.

There has never been any other phase of life where fortuitous circumstances governed human lives as in Hollywood. As, for instance, the girl who became a star through the circumstance of dropping a nice new magazine in the gutter to be run over by the ruthless automobile wheel of Mr. Erich Von Stroheim. Von was apologetic and her career began.

Out when the casting director called . . . an inch too tall for a pudgy leading man . . . too pretty for an aging star's jealousy . . . an extra girl catching the eye of a harassed director who wants to show some temperamental actress where to get off . . . of such are the whims of fortune in Hollywood.

BLESSED ARE THE MEEK?

The assassin's bullet fired at the harmless King Boris and his unhappy bride is another irony.

It is nearly always the harmless kings who get it. Of all the long line of Russian czars Nicholas was the least tyrannical, the most pathetically well-meaning.

SLAPS

Gallantry is costly in the film colony; two chivalrous men throwing up the job rather than slap the beauteous countenance of Miss Esther Ralston.

They might call in a lady double. I saw one scene taken in which a resolute character woman was called upon to slap the face of a tender and lovely young lady violet. The y.l.v. was carried out by the heels by her horrified seconds. The spiteful character woman had felt the call of her art.

GAMBLING NOTE

The boys in Wall street might make up their minds that conditions will not be stable on "the street" until conditions are stable elsewhere in industrial America. The age of miracles has passed.

Halloween Evolves Into Mardi Gras

PERHAPS it was the warm night, or just that everyone wanted to join the marble-shooting and pinafore-frocked population of Los Angeles in the celebration of Halloween, that last night turned the remembrance of All Saints' Day into an impromptu Mardi Gras and brought thousands of masked, costumed figures milling into Broadway, into Hollywood Boulevard and sent other thousands of merrymakers to the beach piers.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night traffic on Broadway was only a slow moving mass, sprinkled with brightly costumed, horn-tooting

Olveras street drew masked chicas and their caballeros and Hollywood Boulevard turned out a cross-section of motion-picture costume lofts.

HAMBURGER LAID TO REST

Friends Crowd Chapel in Grief at Last Rites for Beloved Pioneer Merchant of City

Although announcement had been made that the funeral services would be private and special requests had been made that no flowers be sent, the chapel of J. D. Faris was crowded yesterday with close friends of Moses Asher Hamburger and the coffin was covered and the walls lined with floral tributes from those who knew and loved the pioneer merchant who died Wednesday at the home of his brother-in-law, P. L. Nathan.

Dr. Edgar F. Magnin, rabbi of Temple B'nai B'rith, who was in charge of the services, called attention to the two lighted candles near the coffin, symbolizing everlasting life and then opened the Holy Book to read and comment upon the promises of immortality contained therein.

The ninetieth Psalm was read in Hebrew and then translated into English.

"Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations." . . . "So teach us to number our days that we may get us a heart of wisdom."

"Had it not been that these services were announced as private many more friends of this beloved man would have been here today to honor his memory," said Dr. Magnin. Uncle Mose Hamburger was a big man in every sense of that word. The spirit of democracy and kindliness which animated his thoughts and actions made him well known and highly esteemed and the humblest of his friends were at home in his presence. I think of him as a shining member of that family that has helped to write the history of this region. When today shall have become as romantic as yesterday, when we who sit here now mourning our loss shall have laid aside our staff and lantern, the name of Hamburger will be a bright star on history's page.

"Commerce is but the means to greater ends," continued Dr. Magnin. "Moses Hamburger helped to build a great business enterprise, but his spirit ever was alive to those higher values of intellectual and spiritual culture that follow in the wake of trade. Moses Ham-

CHAPLIN PREMIERE SET

Contracts giving Los Angeles the world premiere of Charles Chaplin's latest picture, "City Lights," the only one made entirely silent and without dialogue in Hollywood since the advent of the talkies, were signed yesterday. The picture is to be shown in the city's newest theater, a $2,000,000 edifice now under construction on Broadway between Sixth and Seventh streets.

It was also announced yesterday that the house has been named the Los Angeles Theater, the first to be named after this city. It is owned and operated by the Gumbiner Theater Enterprises of which H. L. Gumbiner is president.

The opening of the theater for the Chaplin premiere has been definitely fixed for New Year's Eve. Seats will sell for $10 each, the announcement stated.

Articles for the first showing were signed yesterday at the Chaplin studio. Alfred Reeves, vice-president and general manager of the studio, represented Chaplin, while the theater interests were represented by H. Rosenbloom, secretary-treasurer, and Charles Michelstetter, manager.

"City Lights" has been in production for more than two years and Chaplin is said to have invested $1,500,000 of his money to prove his contention that there is still a place on the screen for silent pictures. The picture, however, will be synchronized with music and sound, but not one word of dialogue.

The new theater is being constructed on property owned personally by William Fox and on which the Gumbiner interests, which also operate the Tower Theater, Eighth street and Broadway, have taken a long-term lease. Gumbiner operates independently with several theaters here and in Chicago.

Chaplin, who is making plans to be present for the premiere by postponing his trip abroad until that time, announced yesterday he plans on road-showing his picture in twenty-six key cities before releasing it for widespread distribution. He probably will attend the New York and London openings as well.

YULETIDE TOYS FILL WINDOWS

Christmas Displays Ready in Downtown Stores

Throngs View New Modes in Children's Playthings

Gifts With Utility Value Also on Exhibition

BY OLIVE GRAY

Gleaming with light and color and crowded with thousands of toys, windows in stores in the downtown shopping district last night were unveiled ushering in the Christmas season.

The newest inventions in toys were on display to the joy of the children. Nearly every store had at least one interesting and novel exhibit and several of the larger stores featured whole villages and circuses.

The old tried and true playthings, the dollies and the teddy bears, the little wagons and horns were all there but in glorified re-creations. In keeping with the wizardry of modern times were electric trains, mechanical toys and objects of a wide variety.

THRONGS ADMIRE

Throughout the length of Broadway and Seventh street the window exhibits drew admiring throngs.

A leading store on Seventh street presented a novel tropical setting, a scene in keeping with the Southland. Here spreading trees formed the colorful forests of Never, Never Land sheltering the activities of a troop of dollies and animals.

A neighboring store presented a window with a nursery scene with the latest appliances in the way of furnishings, chairs, davenports, all in miniature. Entire suites for the child's bedroom also were shown, all done in the finest of woods. An outdoor scene in a store near by served to assemble everything in wheel goods — bicycles, velocipedes, motor cars, gliders, airplanes and every kind of motivated mechanism.

GIFTS ASSEMBLED

Elsewhere on Seventh street, a store lacking a toy department, assembled other gifts from all departments, trying to aid in the solving of the gift problem.

The circus idea seemed to have seized the Broadway stores and several windows feature this ensemble. Three windows carried out this scheme. One had a sideshow with a spieler, and crudely fashioned animal cages on wagons, the wheels of which were cobbled from chunks of wood. The man-eating lion was present, a spotted dog with shaved hide and tufted tail. The back-lot goat, the hand-made giraffe, disporting a feather duster tail, all formed a part of the menagerie.

TRAINS IN WINDOW

A conspicuous window featured mechanical trains, busy little locomotives in a hurry to go nowhere in particular, wrecking crews and cranes all in a motion.

Fairyland villages occupied a battery of windows in one of the great Broadway stores. Elsewhere a winter scene, with glowing white mountain peaks, winter sports, presented a contrast to the prevailing weather.

While the window openings last night were for the purpose of introducing the holiday season, the sections inside the stores really present a huge diversity of gifts for the children. This morning Santa Claus will arrive at a candy castle in one of the stores and will be greeted by a coterie of dolls from a balcony of ice-cream cones.

CIRCUS IDEA

Elsewhere children will be able to communicate with Santa by means of a Noah's Ark, which will be known as the Santa animal ship The circus idea, featured in many of the windows, is further carried out inside many of the stores. An archway composed of gayly revolving wheels will admit the children in one store where Koko and his assistant will hold forth from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. today.

At another store Santa will arrive in a chimney express. There will be a winter ice palace here also. Another store will feature a miniature toy factory. Toys will be shown from every part of the globe.

From now until Christmas daily programs and entertainments will feature nearly all the large stores in the city.

TWO GRAVELY HURT IN CROSSING CRASH

LONG BEACH, Oct. 31. (Exclusive)—In a collision between a Pacific Electric freight locomotive and an automobile, Lucille Gish, 15 years of age, of 1632 Pacific avenue, suffered injuries tonight that will end in her death, physicians at Seaside Hospital believe. The girl was riding with J. L. Portlock, 21, also of 1632 Pacific avenue, who is said to have attempted to cross in front of the locomotive at State street and Daisy avenue. Portlock was seriously injured and is also at Seaside Hospital.

Blanche Sweet Neilan, motion-picture actress, got rid of the last part of her name in Superior Judge McComb's court yesterday, when she testified that she is best known by the name of "Sweet" and that she obtained a divorce from Marshall Neilan some time ago.

Viola Dana Flynn, who was troubled with the same affliction (the name of a divorced husband) eliminated the cause of her complaint by a second marriage, to Jimmie Thompson, golf professional, and did not appear to contest her suit to change the name she acquired when she married "Lefty" Flynn.

SUPPORTERS OF GRAVES IN PROTEST

Opponent of Supervisor Declared Using Names Without Authorization

Charges that J. Don Mahaffey, candidate for Supervisor from the Third District, is making unauthorized use of their names in appealing to Jewish voters, were made yesterday by David Tannenbaum, attorney for the State Inheritance Tax Department, and Lou M. Halper, business man. The names of Tannenbaum and Halper were affixed to a circular letter sent to Jewish voters in behalf of Mahaffey.

"Use of our names was not only without our knowledge," said Tannenbaum and Halper, "but without our permission as well. We are supportinfi Sidney T. Graves for reelection to the Supervisorial post he now occupies."

Indorsement of the candidacy of Graves by Rev. Gustav Brieglieb and Rev. Oscar P. Bell was announced at the campaign headquarters in the Hayward Hotel yesterday.

Graves, speaking from station KMTR yesterday, pointed out that during the time he has been chairman of the Board of Supervisors taxes have been reduced approximately $6,500,000; the county has started a movement to aid unemployment, and $5,000,000 has been pared from the construction costs of the General Hospital.

This morning from 10 to 10:05 o'clock Cora Deal Lewis, prominent club woman, will speak in Graves's behalf from station KMTR. From 8:20 to 8:30 p.m. Al J. Bennett, attorney, will be heard from the same station, and from 1:30 to 1:40 p.m. Mrs. Graves, wife of the Supervisor, will speak from station KMIC.

PRINTER TO KING LAUDS CALIFORNIA

Noted Londoner Predicts Graphic Arts Will Have Great Advance in State

California is destined to play a leading part in the world's printing industry, according to George W. Jones, of London, internationally known authority on the graphic arts and, by special appointment, printer to the King and Queen of the Belgians.

At the Biltmore yesterday, Jones, who is here with his daughter, Alice, said he believes California will inevitably become the home of many of the really fine printers and that they will develop a style distinctively Californian, which will reflect this State, just as types typify certain industries.

"We in England are already familiar with the work of California craftsmen, particularly their work in colors," said Jones.

Jones and his daughter are accompanied by William Edwin Rudge of New York, and Mrs. Rudge. Rudge has been a printer and publisher since 1888 and was appointed by the President as a delegate to an international exposition of modern decorative and industrial arts in Paris.

MAYOR TO HOLD UP WOMAN'S NOMINATION

The hearing of the City Hall newspaper reporters again was at fault Thursday, it developed yesterday, and Mayor Porter is not immediately sending to the City Council the nomination of Miss Kate Smith, former high-school principal, as a member of the Police Commission to succeed Willard G. Thorpe, term expired. Several reporters understood Mayor Porter to say Thursday the nomination would go in "this week," but the Mayor now says he said "within a week." Members of the Council are not hesitant in expressing their disfavor of the nomination of a woman to this commission.

VISITOR LOSES VALUABLES

Lonely Orphan or Run-away, Police Problem

Juvenile authorities yesterday decided to investigate, before making him a ward of the county, the conflicting stories told by Kenneth Pope, 16-year-old transient, who was found seeking shelter shortly before dawn in the Union Rescue Mission.

Turned over to Detective Lieutenant Hanson of the Juvenile Bureau by Officer Gray, the lad first said he had been shifting for himself since he was 6. Later however, he declared his mother had died in Detroit in 1920 and his father in 1928 and that he had been roaming the country only since then. Left destitute by the death of his father, he and an older brother made their way to an eastern city and there became separated. He arrived here several weeks ago.

Detective Lieutenant Hanson says he believes Pope may have run away from home and is concealing his identity.

HOOVER PRAISES COMMUNITY CHEST SPIRIT

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—On the eve of the annual campaigns for charity contributions to community chests throughout the nation, President Hoover today lauded the movement as "wisely conceived" and said "it deserves the support of all our people," in a message to J. H. Case, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, as president of the Association of Community Chests and Councils.

Mr. Case made public the President's message, which read:

"The magnificent response of the American people to the present Community Chest campaigns is characteristic of the generous impulse and friendly spirit of co-operation and good will which is one of the most powerful constructive forces in our democracy. This movement is wisely conceived and administered and deserves the support of all our people."

Wife's Lawyer Asks Time to Prepare Fight Against Divorce-Case Surprise

Trial of the marital contest of Francis Whitaker and Mrs. Margaret P. Whitaker late yesterday was continued by Superior Judge Guerin for three weeks. The continuance was granted on motion of Mrs. Whitaker's counsel, who requested time to meet surprise testimony introduced at the hearings during the past week. Four witnesses, called by the husband, have testified concerning asserted indiscretions of Mrs. Whitaker and Cleon Plato, named as co-respondent, at Kernville, Cal., and at Henshaw Dam, California.

These assertions had not been set up in the husband's original cross-complaint, but were incorporated yesterday in an amended cross-complaint. Mrs. Whitaker is seeking separate maintenance, and Whitaker is cross-suiting for divorce. As a further reason for postponement, it was stated that much time is required by A. D. MacLeod, auditor appointed by the court to report on the Whitakers' debated business affairs.

Mrs. Whitaker and Plato testified yesterday, denying every assertion of impropriety made by the husband. The case resumes the 24th inst.

FERGUSON TRUST ISSUE UNDER BAN

Corporation Commission to Investigate Backing of $50,000,000 Trust

Sale of certificates in Trust 999 of the Harold G. Ferguson Corporation has been temporarily suspended by the State Corporation Commission, it became known yesterday. The commissioner's office is conducting an investigation of the trust.

The Ferguson issue of $50,000,000 was started September 12, 1929. Action of the commissioner's office was taken following complaints, according to Deputy Hahn yesterday.

Trust 999 is one of six trusts organized by Ferguson. The others are the Malibu Trust, organized in February, 1929, at a capitalization of $2,000,000; Trust No. 33 for $5,000,000, organized in May, 1928; Trust No. 50 for $1,000,000, formed in 1928; the Canoga Estates Trust, No. s-6638, formed in January, 1925, for $400,000, and Trust No. 27 for $250,000, to operate ten years, organized in April, 1927.

BLIND-FLIGHT TEST BEING MADE ON TRIP

One of the most striking practical demonstrations of advancement in airplane piloting is being carried on in conjunction with the California good-will air tour by two Curtiss-Wright student pilots who are participating in the tour piloting a plane from a "blind" cockpit.

Maj. C. C. Moseley, head of Curtiss-Wright interests here, stated last night that Student Pilots Earl Johnson and Gilman Sheldon have flown a Curtiss Robin cabin monoplane completely "blind" since the tour left Los Angeles.

The two students take turns at a set of controls arranged in the rear of the cabin with the ship's rear windows curtained to prevent them from seeing anything but the controls and a completely equipped instrument board.

The board contains a standard set of blind-flying instruments as well as a Sperry artificial horizon—the last word in navigation equipment.

Capt. Joe Plosser is accompanying the students at the controls in the nose of the plane as safety pilot, but he reported he has not been called on by either student to take control of the ship, they being able to keep it on an even keel and headed on a correct course by aid of the instruments exclusively.

"We're Going to Take You for Ride," Say Quintet

An attempt to kidnap Arnold Bosch, Ontario manager of the Cucamonga district plant of the Western Grape Products Company, two of whose officials have mysteriously vanished in the past year, was frustrated by police yesterday shortly after five armed men struck him down and told him "We are going to take you for a ride."

The attack on Bosch brought from police files the fact that Frank Baumgarteker, wealthy winemaker of Los Angeles, and Joe Newman of San Bernardino, both formerly connected with the plant, have been missing for nearly a year, and no trace of them has been found.

STRUCK WITH GUN

Bosch was in his office in the winery when the quintet of armed men forced their way through the doors. Announcing that they planned to "take you for a ride" one of the gangsters struck Bosch down with a gun butt. He was badly injured.

An employee hearing the commotion in the office and seeing the manager ruthlessly beaten, summoned police. The officers arrived at the plant in time to frighten away the kidnapers who were riding in a large automobile.

Partial description of the gangsters was given police, and a search throughout Southern California was started. Meanwhile Bosch and the plant at Ontario have been placed under heavy guard to prevent a repetition of the bold foray.

MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR

Bosch was unable to give the officers any reason why the gang should raid the winery or make an attempt on his life, and the entire affair stands as mysterious as the disappearance of Baumgarteker and Newman, for whom wide search has been made and rich rewards offered. Police believe both dead—victims of some strange plot of vengeance which appears still to be active in the shadows of the winery.

Baumgarteker, wealthy and successful in his various business interests, suddenly dropped from sight last November. Newman was the next to go. Baumgarteker attended a luncheon in Los Angeles, after which he started on a business trip to Long Beach, but never appeared there.

A wide search was carried on throughout the United States and Mexico, but only one clew was discovered. His automobile was found in a garage in San Diego, but the officers ascertained that it had been parked there by a man whose description indicated he was not Baumgarteker.

GIRL'S HEROISM SAVES SISTER

Child's Dress Catches Fire from Halloween Lantern; She's Badly Burned

This is a story of the first Halloween accident reported last night, but it ought to start with the loyalty and heroism of Billie Royal, 12 years of age. Billie is a girl.

Last night her sister Fay, 5, was playing with a lighted jack o' lantern at the family home, 2845 Frederick street. The child's dress caught fire. The flames spread to her hair.

Billie beat the flames with her bare hands. She was burned but did not desist. According to physicians at Pasadena-avenue Receiving Hospital, she saved Fay's life, though the latter is in a critical condition with burns on the head, neck, hands and body.

Billie's hands are swathed in bandages and she'll be well soon.

PAIR HELD IN FORGERY QUIZ

Real-Estate Loans Totaling $231,000 Sifted by Police After Arrest of Holding Company Officials

Police investigation of loans totaling $231,000 was begun yesterday, following the arrest of R. Arthur Jones, 44 years of age, president of the Pacific Coast Holding Corporation, 707 South Hill street, and J. O. Daniels, 34, treasurer, on charges of suspicion of forgery.

The $231,000 is asserted to have been obtained by Jones and Daniels on loans on thirty-eight pieces of property in or near Los Angeles in the last four months, since the Pacific Coast Holdings Corporation was organized and opened well-furnished offices in the Foreman Building.

Police assert authenticity of these loans was brought in question following the arrest of Jones and Daniels on the complaint of M. C. Somers of 337 South Las Palmas avenue, that his name had been forged twice in connection with an application for a loan of $7500 from the Mortgage Guarantee Company of 626 South Spring street. This loan was on a piece of property owned by Mr. Somers and valued by him at $25,000.

According to police, the loan was negotiated by Jones and Daniels without consent or knowledge of Mr. Somers. The amount actually obtained after deduction of various fees and expenses was $7211. Somers, according to police, repudiated his purported signature on the formal request for the loan, as well as on the back of the check for $7211 made out by the Mortgage Guarantee Company, and assertedly cashed either by Jones or Daniels or both in the name of the concern of which they are officials.

RECORDS SEIZED

Immediately following arrest of the men, police confiscated the business records of the holding corporation at the offices in the Foreman Building.

The police then questioned whether any of the loans making up the $231,000 had been sanctioned by the Los Angeles property owners in whose names they had been negotiated.

Coincident with the arrests of Jones and Deniels, and the seizure of office records, Edward Gallaudet, local attorney, announced he had been retained by the Pacific Coast Holdings Corporation as its representative in legal matters, and had also agreed to the formality of serving it as corporation secretary, but that he had no knowledge of the inner workings of the concern, and certainly none of the asserted methods of Daniels and Jones.

Police seeking every possible light that may have a bearing on the $231,000 obtained in loans, and the way the money was spent, started an inquiry, too, into the private lives of the two accused men.

It was disclosed that both men are involved in divorce proceedings said to have been instituted by them against their wives.

Daniels, who is reported to have bought three automobiles in the last five weeks, caused his wife to be placed in a sanatorium some time ago, it is said. Although his home address is given as 2619 Wilshire Boulevard, he was said to be living at 7909 Naomi street, when taken into custody there yesterday.

Jones was said to have given the name of Allen Brown when arrested. His home address was given as 328 West Third street.

EX-REALTY MEN

The two men were arrested by Detective Lieutenants Posner and Krowley after an investigation ordered by Captain of Detectives Mailheau of the police forgery detail.

Posner and Krowley learned that prior to launching into large affairs as president and treasurer, respectively, of the Pacific Coast Holdings Corporation, Jones and Daniels had been associated with various real estate concerns in Los Angeles.

Four months ago they requested Gallaudet to handle the legal arrangements necessary to the organization of the holdings corporation and, he told reporters yesterday, he consented. He agreed to appear before the State Corporation Commissioner and to look after any law problems that might arise while the concern was getting under way. He also announced himself ready to handle all legal problems that might come up in the future, but he did not inquire into the internal methods or affairs of the organization.

Mr. Somers was among the early clients obtained by the new holdings corporation. He is said to have authorized it to make certain collections for him, and to handle small real estate matters, but nothing more.

The property on which the $7500 loan was negotiated is at 816 West Fourth street. Mr. Somers told police that his first knowledge of a loan having been negotiated on his property came through a notice from the Mortgage Guarantee Company that there was due a fee of $8 in addition to the charges that had already been deducted from the $7500, which he was asked to pay. This notice was sent to him personally, and he at once went to the office of the guarantee company to ask what it meant.

SIGNATURES DENIED

He was told of the $7500 mortgage that had been taken out on his property, and was shown, he says, an authorization bearing his supposed signature for the Pacific Coast Holdings Corporation to act for him in the transaction. He was also shown a canceled check for the $7211 with what purported to be his signature on the back, written when the check was cashed.

Mr. Somers went at once to the police, charging that both signatures were forgeries.

Police add that following his arrest Jones charged that Daniels was the one who had forged Somers's name to the application for the loan and on the back of the check.

What seemed to be the signature of Jones also appeared on the application for the loan, but he explained this by saying that in addition to being president of the holdings corporation he is also a notary public. And it was in his capacity as notary public that Daniels forged his name to the application, according to Jones.

THREE IDENTIFY BUNKO SUSPECT

Victimized Women Confront Shepard at City Jail

Prisoner Sought for Years by Coast Authorities

Capture Effected Here After Two Months' Effort

Alvan L. Shepard, alias Royal R. Brown, debonair, Canadian, was identified by three women in the City Jail yesterday as the man who took baggage and personal belongings from them after making tentative arrangements to employ them as private secretaries, according to Policewoman Mary Ross.

Shepard, for whom the police of the Pacific Coast have been searching for years on charges of similar nature, passing fictitious checks and similar, was taken in custody Thursday night by Detective Lieutenants Hollencie and Sanford after he had walked into a trap laid for him by Miss Ross.

Complaints from more than half a dozen women in Los Angeles started Miss Ross on his trail two months ago. His method, according to police, was to negotiate with women, placing advertisements in the newspapers for positions as traveling companions and secretaries. Representing himself as a doctor or writer he would "employ" them as governesses or secretaries and then on some pretext gain possession of their baggage or borrow jewelry and small sums of money. For three weeks Miss Ross placed advertisement lures in the local newspapers without result until Thursday night.

Shepard admits his activities, the police say. Records show that he was wanted at San Francisco on similar charges and for passing bogus checks at Vancouver, B. C., for bunko and at San Jose for an assault attack upon a girl. He was not arrested in 1922 in San Francisco for burglary but was released. He has not been convicted of any crime in this country.

The three women who detectives say identified him yesterday are Miss Doris Rooney of 1953 Ivar street, Miss Nellie Haynie of 682 South Alvarado street, from whom he is said to have obtained a $4500 diamond ring, and Mrs. Teresa Ryle of 1260 North Los Robles avenue, Pasadena.

He will be arraigned Monday morning.

POLA NEGRI DOUBLE TRIES TO DIE

Ex-Actress Drinks Poison After Reverse

Gladys White and Pola Negri

BEHIND a lunch-counter a dark-haired, brown-eyed young woman worked for months in a valiant effort to support herself and her 11-year-old son Elmer. Thousands of cafe patrons, perhaps, admired her for her striking beauty, but still to them as they came and went she was just one of the waitresses.

It was not until yesterday morning, when she made an unsuccessful attempt to end her life by swallowing poison, according to police, that it became known that she once doubled for Pola Negri in motion pictures here. Her name she gave as Mrs. Gladys White, 32 years of age. Taken back to her home at 1407 4-5 Mohawk street, after being given emergency treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, Mrs. White ruefully spoke in retrospect of the days when she lived in ease and comfort in the radiance of the scintillating Pola.

"I had been just an extra before Pola came here," she said. "Then they found that I resembled her so closely that I could be used as a double for her in several of the pictures in which she starred. Life was pleasant then. I though even that I might be able some day to have a double of my own. Then she went away and things began, for some reason I could never figure out, to become worse for me.

"For a time I succeeded in obtaining steady employment at the studios, but gradually this became only day work, and after a time I could get no work at all. I had to find something that would be remunerative enough to support me and my son, so I became a waitress.

"But even as a waitress I finally failed to find work. It seemed impossible to go on and so, well, you know the rest. I tried to obtain permanent relief from it all but I failed. And now that it is all over I am glad that I did fail. I don't think I will ever do such a thing again, no matter how hard things seem to be."

Officers Curtis and Stevenson, reporting the police investigation of Mrs. White's attempt to end her life, stated they were called to her residence by a neighbor, Mrs Lillian Ferguson. They found her lying on a bed in a semiconscious condition.

Mrs. Ferguson, the officers said, told them that Mrs. White had called her in and asked for a cigarette and then, before the request was granted, remarked, "Never mind, it is too late now. I have taken poison."

Born in Poland fifty-seven years ago, Mr. Modra resided in New York City for twenty-five years, coming to Los Angeles in 1914. He was the founder and a director of the fine arts department of the Los Angeles County Fair Association, past treasurer of the California Art Club, past president of the California Water Color Association, past president of the Painters and Sculptors Club, director of the fine arts department at the Pacific Southwest Exposition in 1928, honorary chairman of the art section of the Los Angeles Ebell Club and a member of many orgnaizations devoted to art and artists.

TRIAL SET IN KILLING OF PET DOG

Son of Minister and Companion Must Answer Charges in Court

Trial of E. E. Wall, 21 years of age, son of the associate pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, and Melvin Addington, 20, a leader of young people in the same church, charged with cruelty to animals in connection with the beating to death of a dog the 18th inst. has been set for the 30th inst.

Wall and Addington, prominent in the church of which Rev. R. P. Shuler is minister, are asserted to have beaten to death with a shovel and a hand-ax a dog belonging to Mrs. Connie Williams of 1226 East Twenty-second street.

According to Humane Officer Lee the youths beat the dog to death and asserted to him that the animal was suffering from rabies.

Mrs. Williams obtained a complaint against Wall and Addington from the City Prosecutor and the two were taken before Municipal Judge Curtis, where they pleaded not guilty. Bail was set at $100 each. Both were held in the City Jail fifty-five minutes until they posted bonds.

Dorothy Shuler broadcast a radio talk against the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, charging that the youths were thrown into jail. In reply to a letter from Officer Lee, Shuler promised another attack on the society.

Lee says the young men were held in jail but fifty-five minutes while they were providing bail after their appearance in court—and that three days after the warrants were issued. Lee asserts that Wall and Addington were permitted to go to police headquarters and surrender after they were notified of the complaint.

STAND AIRED ON AUTO TAX PROPOSITION

Ed W. Hopkins, County Assessor, Gives Views on No. 18 on Ballot

Reasons for his indorsement of Proposition No. 18 on Tuesday's ballot, providing for State collection of automobile taxes, were given yesterday by Ed W. Hopkins, tax assessor for Los Angeles county.

The outstanding reason given is that under the present system a large number of automobiles escape taxation. "There are some 800,000 cars registered in Los Angeles county, this year," said Mr. Hopkins. "Approximately 70 per cent of them are owned by concerns and individuals who reported their property for assessment purposes. The balance, some 30 per cent, or some 240,000 cars, had to be assessed to the owners as unsecured personal property. This was done, but some 45,000 notices of assessment were returned by the postal authorities as the parties could not be found. This item alone means that 45,000 persons registered cars from Los Angeles county but cannot now be located. The tax on these cars will average from $5 to $8."

Mr. Hopkins states further, that the proposed change will work no hardship on property owners. Further, he says, all automobile taxes would be collected at the time the license plates are obtained, thus cutting down public expense. The act leaves it to the Legislature to establish the basis for the tax.

Hopkins believes the amendment will tend to equalize the taxation burden, and thus, in a measure, meet the demand for a decrease in taxation.

FUNERAL OF JOHN HOVEY TO BE TODAY

Paralysis Proves Fatal by Attacking Brain After Machine Saves Lungs

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. today at the chapel of the Lawson F. Utter Company, 4254 South Broadway, for John Alden Hovey, 22 years of age, who succumbed to infantile paralysis at the General Hospital Thursday evening, after artificial respiration accomplished with a new machine had successfully overcome the danger of paralysis to his breathing organs. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

The youth, who was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Selden P. Hovey of 209 West Forty-sixth street, was a second-year student at Loyola College of Law.

At the hospital when his lungs gave evidence of failing, he first was kept breathing by manual artificial respiration.

Then the hospital borrowed from the Children's Hospital a Drinker-Shaw respirator, a new machine which has proved very successful. In this case again it was successful, and young Hovey was thought to have a good chance for recovery when the disease invaded the base of his brain, and death was caused by bulbar poliomyelitis. The General Hospital, it was said there yesterday, was so impressed by the practicability of the Drinker-Shaw respirator that one has been ordered for that institution.

Rev. H. Booth Smith, pastor of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church, will conduct the services. Entombment will be in the Hollywood Mausoleum.

Mr. Slusher, who was 46 years of age, leaves a son, Richard. His wife passed away a year ago.

ROBBERIES PASS FORMER RECORD

Bandits Force Manager to Revisit Store

Twenty-One Burglaries Total $7000 in Plunder

Robberies and burglaries continued to increase yesterday. Five robberies brought the month's total to 137, an increase of twenty-one over last month and an increase of four over the same period last year. Burglaries stood at 477, an increase of twenty-seven over September and sixty-three over the same period last year. Burglaries reported yesterday totaled twenty-one with plunder taken valued at more than $7000.

That bandits are not operating in a haphazard fashion is indicated in the report of the robbery of W. F. Albright, manager of the MacMarr grocery at Sixty-third street and Crenshaw Boulevard. Albright stated he had just alighted from a street car near his home in Inglewood when two bandits drove up, covered him with revolvers, and forced him to go back to the store.

DEATH THREATENED

"You make a move and we'll blow your head off," one of the bandits told him when he hesitated in opening the store safe. After taking $50 in cash and $69 in checks the bandits locked Albright in a rear room and drove away.

"That was durned good coffee, now let's see what you've got in the cash register," remarked a bandit to Buster Coomer, night manager in the Golden Pheasant Cafe at 2112 West Pico street. He then produced a revolver, took $80 from the money box, backed out, and fled on foot.

The same bandit is believed to have held up George Barris in the Chef's Cafe at 1339 South Main street, obtaining $23 in cash. Descriptions tallied, police said.

AUTO BANDITS ROB

Earl Dones of 3515 Hooper avenue was walking near his home when three auto bandits drove up to the curb, threatened him with pistols and robbed him of a $30 watch.

Two Negro bandits held up S. Otani as he drove in the driveway of his home at 2726½ Eagle street, and robbed him of $25 and a $50 watch.

Of the twenty-one burglaries reported seven showed a loss of $500 or more.

The home of Christian Kent Nelson, retired inventor, at 13698 Beverly Boulevard was completely ransacked and jewelry, rugs and a radio valued at $3000 taken. Entrance was effected through a jimmied front door.

OTHER BURGLARIES

Dr. Joseph Monteleone reported his residence at 5826 Olympic Boulevard entered through a bedroom window and $1000 worth of jewelry taken.

An even $500 worth of jewelry and clothing were taken from the homes of Mrs. M. L. Watson at 266 South Parkview avenue, Richard J. Marsden at 100 South Vista Place, Mrs. Matilda Galego at 531½ South Chicago street, and T. Miyamoto at 144 3-4 North Mott street.

Jewelry valued at $800 was taken from the home of P. Waronker at 897 White Knoll Drive. Entrance was made in each case through a bedroom window.

The silver-wedding anniversary of Charles S. Lamb, secretary of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Commission, and Mrs. Lamb tonight will be honored by co-workers of Lamb in the Playground Department in a celebration at Echo playground community center. Honor will also be paid Lamb for his twenty-two years of service to the Playground Commission. Mr. and Mrs. Lamb will wear the wedding clothes they were dressed in at the original ceremony in the old First Methodist Church at Sixth and Hill streets.

REBUKING DENIED BY ATTORNEY

Counsel for Hursh Gives His Account of Court Session in Romola Case

Denial was made yesterday by Maurice R. Norcop, attorney for Alexander Hursh, former president of Romola, Inc., accused of using the mails to defraud in connection with the operations of the company, that he was rebuked by the court in his appearance before United States District Judge James last Wednesday.

During argument on pleas in abatement on behalf of Hursh and twenty-nine other defendants, all associated with the Romola company, Mr. Norcop stated, the indictment was faulty because an unauthorized person was in the grand jury room at the time of the hearing.

"A short argument resulted between Mr. Redwine and myself, but I was not 'rebuked' by the court," stated Mr. Norcop. "I did say, however, that Asst. U. S. Atty. Davis was not wholly frank in the matter."

Briefs on the motions regarding the pleas in abatement are to be filed next week and ruled upon by the court. Otherwise the case will come up on the court calendar on December 15 to be set for trial.

SPOOKS STALK CITY STREETS

cost at $75 for each bogus call.

Harold W. Parks, 14, 7050 Van Nuys Boulevard, was taken into custody by police for the juvenile authorities after J. Aldava, 1445 Roscoe street, complained that the youth had thrown a green tomato which struck his daughter Sarah, 8, in the face and split both eyelids. The tomato was thrown near Van Owens Boulevard and Haskell avenue.

Prospects of a gang murder were faced by a Central Police Station flying squad which last night raced to Glendale Boulevard and Coronado street on the report of two horrified motorists who reported that a woman had been thrown from a speeding automobile and that their own cars had passed over the body. Investigating detectives found a dummy figure dressed in modish women's clothes. The dummy was taken to the Central Station for investigation.

Bessie Heynemann, 5, and her mother, Mrs. Theresa Heynemann, 1412 East Forty-ninth street, were treated at the Georgia-street hospital for burns. A Jack o' Lantern in the little girl's hands ignited her costume and the mother was burned when she beat out the flames.

A similar accident sent Mrs. Consuella William, 30, 739 East Nineteenth street, with her son Jack, 6, to the hospital for burns.

Another victim of a Jack o' Lantern was Dorothy Newfield, 8, 2610½ West Jefferson street, who was burned while attending a party at 3526 Fourth avenue. She was burned on the face, neck and chest.

Harry Leland, 9, 613 West Eighty-fifth street, was treated at the hospital for a fractured right leg, received, he told attending surgeons, at a party on the grounds of the Manchester School. He said a group of boys had thrown him into a summer-house.

Both Hollywood police station and that of Lincoln Heights reported numerous calls from indignant citizens complaining that porch furniture, urns and sometimes garden shrubs had disappeared after visits from Halloween spooks. No arrests were made.

One of the largest throngs in many months crowded the piers at Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica. Police there reported the crowd noisy but good natured, and made no arrests before midnight for malicious mischief.

City Ordinance Fixing Oil Tax Will Be Revised

The ordinance which fixes a license fee of 1 per cent upon oil wells in the city was continued until next Friday by the City Council yesterday. Meanwhile the ordinance was referred to the City Attorney for revision. A strong protest against the tax is being made by oil companies in the Venice field, but the Council contends there should be some compensation for police and fire service, along with damage to streets.

Officers Hunting Theater Bandits

Search for two bandits who Thursday night robbed the Fox Theater at One Hundred and Third and Diamond streets, Redondo Beach, is under way by Sheriff's office investigators. The pair obtained $317.94 from Mary Scanlon, cashier, and escaped.

Officers also are seeking thieves who Thursday burglarized the Cleophas Department Store in Hawthorne of merchandise valued at $588.25.

VICE SQUAD WORK RUINED HUSBAND, ASSERTS WIFE

Vice-squad police work ruined her husband, it was asserted yesterday by Mrs. Naomi Hudson, who went before Superior Judge Craig asking for a divorce from Warren S. Hudson of the Hollywood police vice squad. The wife offered in evidence a girl's photograph which, she asserted, the policeman captioned "the sweetest thing on earth" in a letter he sent to his own father.

The elder Hudson turned letter and photograph over to his daughter-in-law, she continued. After greetings, the letter contains the following:

"Naomi and I have separated, for I don't love her any longer. I am not saying anything about her, she only wants $41,000 and our home. I love another little girl. She is the sweetest thing on earth and I am going to come and bring her so you can see her. I hope you like her like the rest of the family does. They don't blame me. You will find enclosed her picture. I am as ever your loving son, W. S. Hudson."

The officer first filed suit for divorce, asserting desertion, but did not appear yesterday. Mrs. Hudson's cross-complaint contains assertions that he lived for several months with one Bea Walker at 510 South Kenmore avenue. The wife seeks the custody of the children, Warren, 9 years of age, and Patsy Jean, 1. Mrs. Hudson estimates the community property at $250,000. She said there has been a property settlement.

Because Judge Craig wished to clear up certain questions, he announced he will issue a subpoena for Officer Hudson's appearance in court next Thursday. Attorney Ray Stewart represents the wife.

Do go up to the fourth floor of Schwabacher - Frey's, 736 S. Broadway, and join the free instruction class in plastic modelling clay and artcraft decoration! You see, the only cost to you is for materials used. With Xmas presents to be made, this is marvelous for you. Remember they have many new and attractive designs to copy. The class is being conducted by Mabel E. Smith, the well-known art craft teacher.

Let me advise my readers who are looking for a trade to learn, to see the Liberty Candy Co., who teach either for home or commercial purposes, candy-making, chocolate dipping and cake ornamenting. All supplies may be purchased from them, too. Their address is, 4th floor, Grant Bldg., 355 S. Broadway. TUcker 4156.

When boiling butter or lima beans, add a pinch of baking soda and the process will be hastened by one-half, also making them more tender and digestible.

A nice layer cake is made of alternate chocolate and white cake baked thin in four round tins. When putting together a two-layer cake place the bottoms together. Then the bottom will be crusty and not likely to fall apart when cut.

Be sure to see the "Philippine" window on the Hill Street Side of the May Company this coming week—then after viewing that go into the Grocery department and take in demonstration of "Monday Coco-Hon-ee," which, as you know, is a syrup made from the milk of fresh cocoanuts in old Manila.

You'll never regret buying a jar for it is the most delectable "different" syrup you ever tasted! Wonderfully good on hot cakes and waffles—perfect over ice cream and wonderful for baked ham.

Pond lily salad—Boil eggs for fifteen minutes and drop in cold water; peel, cut off the tops and remove yolks intact; slice each egg white in eight sections lengthwise, leaving them joined at the base and lay them back to form the petals of the lily. Force the egg yolks through a coarse-grained wire sieve and moisten with mayonnaise to give a flavor; fill the centers of the egg whites with the mixture after arranging them on beds of crisp lettuce.

We housewives of the West should be proud in the knowledge that the finest quality flavoring extracts manufactured in the United States are produced right here in our own dear Los Angeles. We should not only be proud of this fact but we should have a feeling of loyalty to this brand on that account.

Ben-Hur Vanilla extract is so outstandingly superior that in every cake-baking contest held by different organizations throughout this territory in the past few years, Ben-Hur Vanilla has produced the prize-winning cakes in a ratio of more than ten to one over all other brands combined.

Inasmuch as the finest vanilla beans known to the world are produced near by in Mexico, and we now have our own glass manufacturers on the coast, it has made it possible for the manufacturers of Ben-Hur Vanilla to put more quality into this splendid product than it would be possible to do were it necessary for them to ship clear across the United States.

In demanding Ben-Hur Vanilla from your grocer you are not only getting the most value for your money, but you are helping maintain prosperity here through building up your own local pay roll. This applies to all Ben-Hur Food Products.

Now is the time to order shirts for your husband, made to his individual measurements by Arthur W. Werner, the Custom Shirt Maker, whose new address is 122 South Spring street (MUtual 1589). Why not give your order right away!

Have you seen those brass bottle openers in animal shapes, at Steinen's Cutlery Shop, 210 West Third street? They are so very unusual and make the most useful gifts and all they cost is 50 cents! Then too, there are so many other novelties shown in the very worth-while shop.

Every bit of string can be easily removed from string beans if, after thorough washing, they are plunged into boiling water for five minutes, then drain it off.

To keep a cake moist and prevent it from drying out, cover it with a napkin and put it in the icebox near the ice.

A sprig of mint added to fresh green peas while cooking gives them a delightful flavor.

There are invariably many places in your home for fluff rugs. Now what I would urge you to do is to get out your old carpets and send them to the Hoffman Rug Works, 2814 West Jefferson street, (EMpire 2048,) and have some attractive rugs made from them. The cost is very small. They make colonial rugs from rags, too.

Every loss teaches men how to be wiser.

Save time in shelling peas—Wash them well and boil them in the pods; the pods burst open when done and can be skimmed off, while the peas go to the bottom. The flavor will also be much better than with shelled peas.

If you want real country sausage, seasoned to the Queen's taste with thirteen different spices, and made from government-inspected eastern shoulder pork, go to the Western Sausage Co., 302 S. Hill St and take this article with you, won't you. This sausage is perfectly delicious—the best you'll say you ever tasted!

What tastes better this time of the year than good old mince pie! You may serve it hot at dinner or cold for Sunday night supper, but which ever way you serve it, it's particularly delicious if made with the addition of Guasti Cooking Sherry, which is given us by the Fruit Industries, Inc., formally the Italian Vineyard Company.

For your information let me tell you how to use the cooking sherry: Take any prepared mince meat and heat well, then add ½ cupful Guasti Cooking Sherry for each pie. My word but you'll find your pie wonderfully good!

Cocoanut Whip—Put in the double boiler two cupfuls of milk and heat it; add one cupful of sugar. Beat up in a dish the yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch and a pinch of salt; when the milk scalds pour this in the milk and beat it until it sets; the two egg whites should be whipped till very light and then folded in just as it is taken from the fire. Add one level cupful of grated cocoanut. A delicious dessert.

Your old broken and worn silver can be restored to its former loveliness by being mended and replated by the Peerless Platers, whose address in 239½ South Spring street, (upstairs.) They do exceptionally fine work at prices which are astoundingly small . . . and you will find them thoroughly reliable, too.

If a fruit or meat pie is placed in a tin of boiling water when putting it in the oven to cook, the fruit juice or gravy will neither boil over nor soak into the crust. A little flour and water, stirred together and put on the outer edge of the lower crust just before putting the upper crust on will prevent the juiciest pie from running over. Two slices of macaroni stuck in the openings in the top of the pie is also good. Spread a few leaves of mint under the upper crust of a lamb or mutton pie for a delicious flavor.

To peel an onion properly, hold it with a fork, cut off the top and bottom and the outer skin will then come off easily.

It will help you in disposing of clothing you are discarding and articles about the house you have tired of, to know that "nothing is too old or too new; too large or too small," to give to the Children's Hospital Salvage Department, of 712 Maple avenue, TUcker 1203. A bundle would be greatly appreciated at any time.

When cooking pumpkin for pie instead of peeling the pumpkin wash it and cut it up as usual leaving the rind on; it takes less eggs and pumpkin. To improve the flavor, drop in a few seeds while cooking, afterward removing them.

"IT AIN'T GONNA RAIN?" HO, "I AIN'T GOIN' TO JAIL"

Superior Judge McComb yesterday wrote the first verse to a song entitled "The Rainy Day Blues" when he sentenced Leslie Thompson, 30-year-old road roller operator, to fifteen days in the County Jail as a condition of three years' probation with the understanding that the fifteen days are to be served on rainy days.

Thompson pleaded guilty of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Asking for probation, the defendant threw himself on the mercy of the court.

The probation officer, H. C. Roberts, recommended probation but urged that a short jail sentence be imposed. Judge McComb, impressed by the man's good record, announced he would sentence him to fifteen days in jail to be served on week-ends.

John Morris, Thompson's attorney, then spoke up and said that Thompson works every day except when it rains, for he is engaged in the construction of streets and highways.

Judge McComb then announced that the sentence should be served on the days when it rains.

VACATIONS TO RELIEVE JAIL TERM

Union Agent Gets Twenty Days for Drunk Driving, With Wednesdays Off

Ben Simmons, representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, was sentenced to twenty days in jail by Superior Judge Tryon after Simmons pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. Letters filed by the probation officer stated that Simmons, who has been married twenty-three years, had a good reputation, among business and social associates, and a search of court records indicated he had never been arrested before.

The court stipulated as part of the defendant's sentence that he should be released every Wednesday during his term of imprisonment from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. to attend to union business. A letter from the vice-president of a Hollywood bank suggested that "inasmuch as the defendant is steadily employed as a studio carpenter a short jail sentence would impress him with the seriousness of the offense."

Simmons ran into a street car on September 25, last.

MORE TIME GRANTED IN LAVINE CASE

Counsel for Miss Johnson and Codefendant Allowed Extra Days to File Briefs

Counsel for Morris Lavine and Miss Leontine Johnson were granted additional time yesterday by Division 2, District Court of Appeal, to prepare and file briefs in their clients' appeals from conviction in the Superior Court on charges of attempted extortion.

The petition for an extension of time in Lavine's case disclosed that Paul Schenck has been retained. Schenck said that the length of the transcript and the many legal points involved, coupled with the fact that he has just been retained, necessitate additional time. The court granted him until the 17th inst.

Attorneys for Miss Johnson were granted until the 30th inst.

Lavine and Miss Johnson were asserted to have obtained $75,000 from Charles Crawford, politician.

Ensenada Will Get Tri-Weekly Ocean Service

Inaugurating tri-weekly service to Ensenada, the Admiral liner Dorothy Alexander will leave Los Angeles Harbor on a special excursion at 7 p.m. Tuesday, arriving on the return trip at 7 a.m. Thursday.

In announcing the excursion, for which special rates have been approved, R. B. Schutten, assistant general passenger agent of the Pacific Steamship Company, states that a twelve-hour scheduled voyage is to be instituted direct to Ensenada without stopping in San Diego.

The Admiral Rogers, former flagship of the Seattle-Alaska fleet, will sail at the same hour this coming Thursday and operate on the same schedule, returning here Saturday morning, leaving again the same night for Ensenada on the tri-weekly schedule of voyages. The opening of the Playa Ensenada, new tourist hotel and casino, at the pleasure resort on the Mexican west coast, is assigned as the motive of the Pacific Steamship Company in increasing to such a large extent its passenger-carrying facilities to Ensenada.

Death Valley Season Opens

The season in Death Valley opens today, and all the picturesque accessories of the district have been made ready for the great tide of travel which this year is expected to be larger than ever.

Requests for reservations have been received in large numbers by Furnace Creek Inn, which has installed many improvements. One of these is in the preparation of the nine-hole golf course which has been rolled until it is in excellent shape, and there is little resemblance left to the old alfalfa field on which it is located.

This year, too, it is announced by Miss Kathryn Ronan, manager of Furnace Creek Inn, guests who prefer to be driven about the valley will find a fleet of automobiles with desert-wise drivers at their disposal.

ANOTHER CUT

A This call for a cut in arms sounds like a vaccination item, but it is explained that it is something different.

FADEAWAYS

Radio fadeaways have been traced to the sun, or more specifically to sun spots. Possibly the sun learned how to do it from the Hollywood stars.

IN RADIOLAND

Said that there are now 1,470,000 radio sets in California. New York has 1,750,000, but no other State has more than a million. California vastly surpasses Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Texas, all of whom have more population than we boast of. We even have political preachers and sensationalists to keep the radio bugs in action. Give 'em the whole works is the watchword.

ALL DOLLED UP

A Doesn't pay to put on airs. J. H. Thomas, who is Secretary of State for the Dominions in the British Labor Cabinet, has been refused re-election to the national executive committee of the Labor party and the apparent reason is that he has been seen at several social functions in a dress suit. It seems that this is a serious offense in union circles. He might at least have worn his suspenders on the outside.

CAKES AND HEALTH

At the age of 98 a Chicago woman is telling that she thinks she owes her health, activity and sunny disposition to the fact that she loves cake. She likes all brands—especially the chocolate and cocoanut layer specimens—and she has tried to take on some every day since she was a child. The doctors will explain that there must be a mistake somewhere and that the good lady might even be 110 years old today if she had left the sweets alone.

THE BIRTH RATE

The States in the Union having the lowest birth rate are Oregon, Washington, Nevada and California—all of the Pacific Coast. In each case the rate is less than fifteen per thousand of population. The average for the Union is about eighteen. The funny thing is that the highest rate is in New Mexico, which is also a Far West commonwealth. The rate there is twenty-six per thousand. There is no explanation why the birth rate in California should be less than Massachusetts, but there it is. Also the boost in New Mexico is hard to understand.

FORREST BANKRUPTCY

Maj. George P. Ahern of the Plant Research Foundation told the representatives of the National Wood Industries at their recent convention that while there are still vast reserves of hardwood in Latin America, in two-thirds of our States more lumber is being used than is grown there and that the country is on the road to forest bankruptcy.

It seems that the efforts at reforestation are small compared with the work of denudation. New York State has been planting pine and other trees for many years, yet it is importing 96 per cent of its softwood lumber. Some of the New England States which formerly grew nearly all the lumber used there are now sending outside for it. This is true in a way of California, for while we ship redwood to various parts of the world, we are sending to Puget Sound for much of our lumber.

In many foreign countries it is the same story. "In the course of the next twenty-five years," predicts the chairman of the British Forestry Conference in a recent report, "timber will rise to prices which will make it prohibitive for house building."

Still here and there one sees hopeful signs of preparation for the future. In Hawaii, which is suffering greatly from forest denudation, the Commissioner of Forestry and Agriculture is reforesting barren areas by means of airplanes. From comparatively low altitudes foresters have been showering down thousands of pounds of tree seeds, including those of California redwoods. While this would be a somewhat dangerous way to plant cocoanuts, it probably will be safe enough with lighter seeds. If successful in Hawaii this cheap method of reforestation might be profitably adopted in continental America.

THE RACE FOR SHERIFF

Los Angeles voters are confronted with a clear-cut issue in the contest between William I. Traeger and Clyde L. Plummer for Sheriff of this county. Traeger, the incumbent, is honest, likable, well-meaning, inefficient, ineffective and lacking in administrative ability. Plummer is honest, likable, able, energetic, an excellent executive and a genuine leader.

Traeger has the affection of a large number of his subordinates, but does not possess the respect which a stronger, more alert, more consistent officer of the law would command. The functions of the Sheriff can be immeasurably improved by substituting real leadership for lethargy and indifference in the headship of the office.

Plummer's candidacy offers an unusual opportunity for guaranteeing a continuance of the good features of the Sheriff's office and at the same time making possible the elimination of the glaring faults and shortcomings therein.

Possessing a splendid and spotless record as a police officer in the city of Los Angeles, where his courage, integrity, energy and fitness won him the respect of his fellow-officers and the confidence of the citizenship, Plummer would bring new force, purpose and direction to the county's department of law enforcement.

He is independent of any man or group of men in the city and county. Any person who, for whatever reason, is supporting Plummer's candidacy on the basis of expectation of special favors or undue influence upon his actions after election is merely wasting time and effort.

Plummer strictly observes the law and if elected Sheriff he will, in keeping with his record of more than twenty years as a peace officer, proceed to enforce the law. On this point his political adversaries have sought to make such a virtue appear as a reason for opposing his candidacy.

Being unable successfully to challenge his honesty or ability, his antagonists are trying to advertise Plummer as an exponent of "Cossackism," as an advocate of the "third degree" in police methods, as a zealot willing to violate constitutional guaranties in order to obtain evidence or arrests.

Plummer's career covering a period of more than two decades is sufficient answer and sufficient refutation in this matter. There is no record of any instance of brutality on his part during twenty years of handling desperate and violent criminals. No record of unlawful entry, none of violation of one law to enforce another.

The candidate not only has disproven these charges by a recitation of his official history, but announced without equivocation that justice, courtesy and full consideration for the rights of every person will go hand in hand with firmness, vigor and impartial administration of the Sheriff's office if he is elected.

The Times regards Plummer as exceptionally well qualified for Sheriff and, hence, strongly recommends that every voter believing in able and honest enforcement of the law cast a ballot for him in next Tuesday's election.

FOR MORE FISH AND GAME

The most absurd statements are being circulated in opposition to Proposition 11 on the November ballot, which would give California a real fish and game commission, similar to those in other States, with real power of protection and conservation. Some of these statements have been traced to a paid lobbyist of commercial interests which help themselves to everything they want under present law and who naturally object to a change.

Proposition 11 does not establish the proposed commission as "legislature, judge and jury" rolled into one. Trial of offenses against its regulations is not, contrary to the propaganda, before the commission itself, but before the courts. It is not "subversive of the principles of the American government;" it is in strict harmony with other commission plans which have been tried and found successful, such as the State Railroad Commission and the Industrial Accident Commission. It does not destroy the rights of any individuals or organizations, or threaten anyone's privilege to hunt and fish. It will not become a "dumping ground for political parasites" any more than the Railroad Commission or Industrial Accident Commission, both of which have been kept reasonably free from political control. The members of the commission will not be "irresponsible;" instead, they will be directly responsible to the people's elected executive, the Governor, and will be removable by him for cause.

Similar commissions are in charge of fish and game in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, New Mexico, Arizona, Alaska and Canada and in every case have improved matters for everybody's benefit. California's fish and game are disappearing rapidly under the present system and it is time to take another tack. Certainly the present laws and regulations are a proved failure.

Doubts as to whether the amendment does not confer too much power have been expressed by good lawyers, including F. M. Angellotti and M. C. Sloss, former justices of the State Supreme Court. Their objections seem to be predicated upon the possibility that the proposed commission might greatly and willfully abuse its powers. Every commission to which power is delegated can, if it goes crazy, upset applecarts all over the place. It is within the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission, for example, to wreck the transportation system of the country; but it has never done it. Without power and discretion in the hands of public officers no public business would ever get done. The commissioners to be appointed under this plan are presupposed to have common sense; and if any appointees are discovered to be lacking in this essential they can be removed by the Governor before any great damage results. A great to-do is made because the amendment empowers the Legislature to grant to the commission additional powers "unlimited by any provision of this Constitution." Before this could be dangerous the whole Legislature, the commission and the Governor would have to go violently insane, and even then the harm could be remedied quickly after they were locked up. Such objections are rather fanciful.

For the protection of our fish and game, vote Yes on No. 11.

LEE SIDE O' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

LOS ANGELES has grown into such a great city that many a noble enterprise is carried on here of which the general public knows very little—or nothing.

One of them is the Los Angeles Music School Settlement, at 2607 Mozart street, in which some of the best teachers in the city develop the musical talent of children and young people who cannot afford to study in other good schools for whatever they can pay. Some give only 12½ cents for their lessons—from teachers who get $5 a lesson from the wealthy. Some pay more, but the average lesson costs only 15 cents. And some are given free scholarships. The idea is that it is not a charity, but places the best of music within the reach of all.

Can you realize that such a school has been operating here for years, so that many of its graduates now are earning their living as musicians, and you never heard of it before?

Gives Everyone a Chance

Mrs. Carrie Stone Freeman was the founder of the school, fourteen years ago. Believing that real genius or real talent often is wasted or undeveloped because those who possess it have not the means to employ good teachers, she gathered around her a group of philanthropic women who felt that the refining and inspiring influences of music should be within the reach of all. They went to fine teachers and asked them to teach in the school for nothing or practically nothing, and found the teachers more than willing to co-operate. Mrs. W. W. Stilson was the first president of the organization. Mrs. Ada M. Hoffman the second, then Mrs. Freeman served two terms, followed by Mme. Emma de Zaruba and Mrs. Leon Yankwich. The organization bought the property at 2607 Mozart street, supporting it by the membership dues they paid and benefit recitals, and during Mme. de Zaruba's incumbency the property was finally cleared of debt.

At the present time there are 200 students in the school, studying piano under Dorothea Gilbreth, Donelda Warner, Frances Powers and Virginia Kahler; violin under Alois B. Hellauer, Heloise Gilstrap and Bessie Fuhrer Erb; 'cello under Henry Erb; woodwinds under Bernard Clives and Clotilde Ferte; brasses under N. L. Midderhoff; percussion under Sherdena Aston; fretted instruments under Z. Bickford; harmony and composition under Mary Carr Moore and Stiles Johnson, ear training and sight singing under Miss Powers and choruses under Anne McPherson.

Imagine getting individual training from a famous composer like Mary Carr Moore for 12½ cents or 25 cents or 50 cents a lesson, and you get the idea of the school.

Getting Bigger and Better

Mrs. Charles Jaben Hubbard, who now is serving as president of the Music School Settlement for the second time, has just negotiated a loan for the purpose of erecting an additional building on the school property, so that the school may expand and develop more musical talent. Miss Pearle Ireife Odell, the headworker, came here from the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, which started much as this Los Angeles school started and now is a great and helpful organization. The dream of the local school is to expand until art and drama are taught as music is taught now, and if enough of us will get behind the movement that dream will be realized. A gift of $25 to the school will mean a free scholarship for a year to some youngster whose musical talent otherwise might never be developed, and a supporting membership of $100 a year will pay for several. Charles Wakefield Cadman is one of the supporting members. Mrs. Lloyd Smith, Harold Lloyd's mother, is one of the directors.

The last Sunday afternoon of each month the pupils of the school give a recital, to which the public is invited. Go to one of them and you will be convinced that musical talent which may make history is being developed by this friendly school. Investigations have shown that some of these pupils have hardly enough to eat in their homes, but they have great hopes for the future because of the school.

Joshua Little Says

Harold Bell Wright announces that his young son has collaborated with him in the writing of a forthcoming novel. I suspect that this has been going on for years.

Anyhow, the fellow who's always sighing for the grand old days when you could get a lot for your money ought to be happy now.

Nowadays when a bright young man is too young to elect to the Senate we make him a university president.

Queen Victoria's observations on her time are being published, but I don't think I'll read 'em. I've always suspected that there were a lot of things going on in the Victorian era which she didn't know much about.

A STRONG COMBINATION

What amounts to a partnership of two of the strongest steamship lines of the Pacific Coast is the announced consolidation of the Los Angeles Steamship Company and the Matson Line. The cooperation between the fleets of these companies means more business for California's two principal ports, Los Angeles and San Francisco, and forfeits none of the advantages of the present services since the two lines are to retain their respective identities and continue to operate with virtually the same organization.

Los Angeles, among other things, becomes one of the ports for the Matson Line's service to Australia and other antipodean points, which is to be improved with three new steamers to cost $24,000,000, and will share in the line's service to Hawaii.

No reduction in personnel is contemplated and there will be a minimum of changes in either management or plan of operation, according to the announcement. Rather there will be a co-operation and co-ordination of the two services in ways which should increase the business of both.

The Lasco Line, with its famous coastwise service between San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco and its express service from this port to Hawaii, has been a great upbuilder of the traffic at Los Angeles Harbor during the more than nine years of its operation, and its bringing of the Matson Line service here also should mean a considerable boost of business for the local port.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

A courteous cop has been found. A motorist was finishing his tire change and tightening up the lugs, when an officer touched his cap and offered to help.

The cop meant business and completed the job. Then he mounted his motorcycle and left the automobilist staring.

No, this did not occur in California. It was a Minnesota episode. The patrolmen of that State are a picked variety. Chief Earle Brown has adopted five rules, and from all reports they work:

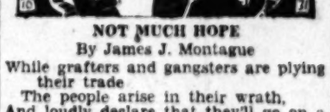
Do not swear. Spring not from ambush. Comfort the lost. Give aid to the stalled. Be courteous!

The cops are given training in mechanics and are equipped with tools to help motorists worried over engine trouble on the big road. It seems the chief was arrested some years ago for a minor offense and his dream of what a cop ought to be crystallized at that time. At the head of the State constabulary of Minnesota he is making his dream come true.

The new State officers of California are a great improvement over the old lurking, roaring regime. Even the city officers seem to have a heart at times. Also the dear public gives the officer plenty of opportunity for blowing up. And while a genuinely courteous cop is still a rare bird his number is increasing.

FLAMING YOUTH

Jane Addams says that the young people of today demand their individual happiness as an established right. They are not to be denied and they are loath to make sacrifices that might interfere. Assurance is a quality that carries far.



NOT MUCH HOPE
By James J. Montague

While grafters and gangsters are plying their trade
The people arise in their wrath,
And loudly declare that they'll go on a tear
And sweep all the crooks from their path.
But there soon comes a lull in the business of crime
And, observing the rift in the gloom,
The people say, "Well, there's been peace for a spell,"
And forget to reach up for the broom
Then the people of plunder go back to the game
And the world moves along much the same.

While political rascals are lining their nests
With more than habitual greed
The popular ire is kindled to fire
And a war on the rogues is decreed.
But as soon as the thieving abates for a while
And more careful and sly grows the grafter,
The people declare, with a world-weary air,
"We have got our own work to look after."
Then the reprobates quietly steal more and more,
And the world moves along as before.

The Greeks and the Romans ran often amuck
When the men in positions of trust
Took a bribe now and then from acquisitive men
While justice grew daily less just.
But the great malefactors laid off for a spell
And the quite human Romans and Greeks
Would remark when they met: "We have scared 'em, you bet;
There has not been a bribe for six weeks!"
Thereafter the tumult and shouting was drowned,
And the world kept on spinning around

CALIFORNIA HISTORY IN THE SCHOOLS

BY ROCKWELL D. HUNT

Evidences are multiplying which tend to indicate that we are about to witness an active renaissance of California history and government in the public schools of the State. This we believe to be a good omen.

For a good many years some attention has been given to stories or special phases from our romantic history in the elementary schools; and in the Los Angeles school district a competent and experienced supervisor has achieved excellent results in this field. But, as is perhaps inevitable under present conditions, many of the teachers are but meagerly equipped to handle this particular work; and without a well-prepared and enthusiastic teacher the children cannot be expected to secure the best results. The same may be said with regard to the local history work in the higher grades and in the high schools.

A prominent reason for this lack is found in the scarcity of suitable materials for study and search work that are of interesting and authoritative character. An enthusiastic teacher finds that she must continually ransack the school and public libraries for books and other materials to keep her pupils busy, so eager are they for everything dealing with such subjects as the mission fathers, the rancheros, the wild life and natural resources of California, the bold hunters and trappers of a century ago, the memorable gold rush, the prairie schooner, the camel corps, the pony express, the polite "road agents" and a score of others. When the teacher is informed and alert and the supply of materials adequate, there is not the slightest difficulty in holding the interest of the pupils.

It has been pointed out that the study of local history is of value in furnishing a first horizon or circumference to the young, expanding mind. On the well-understood principle that knowledge proceeds from the known to the unknown, the life of distant peoples in ages long past are revivified by process of ever-widening circumferences—the point of departure being the here and the now. "The most natural entrance to a knowledge of the history of the world," wrote Herbert Baxter Adams, "is from a local environment through widening circles of interest, until from the rising ground of the present the broad horizon of the past comes clearly into view."

That the field of California history yields abundant materials at once significant and fascinating in character for use in the schools of the State must be universally conceded. That the education of the children will be greatly enriched by the specific study must likewise be conceded. It will broaden their horizons, enhance their appreciation of our national history, open new vistas to the much-needed international viewpoint and withal contribute richly to the development of a deeper and more intelligent spirit of loyalty to our great State and devotion to our best American ideals.

The character of our population and its phenomenal growth add emphasis to the need of more and more enlightened attention to our local and State history. Men and women with their children come in legions from all parts of the country and from the ends of the earth, utterly innocent of the charm, the romance and the deeper significance of our story. The most effective way to instruct the parents who come is through their children. Children and parents alike should be led to an appreciation of our unique historical heritage—but how shall they learn unless they are taught?

Just now the stage is being set for a renewed interest in our Golden State and in our own Southern California. In July of next year thousands of teachers will throng to Los Angeles in connection with the great annual convention of the National Educational Association; the year 1931 is to witness the celebration of the Sesquicentennial of the city of Los Angeles; in 1932 the coming of the Olympic Games will afford a better opportunity than anything that has happened in 150 years to reveal to the world the truly international importance of our fair city and the blossoming out of a culture that—let us hope—will some day be commensurate to our rich and manifold blessings. The schools should be quick to seize upon so unique an opportunity for the immeasurable enrichment of the curriculum, whereby it may with even better warrant than hitherto be said, they deserve well of the commonwealth.

THIS LOVELINESS
(Southern California)

In future dreams will live this loveliness,
These singing streams are hidden in my heart,
Memories of flowery springs will come to bless
My questing years and ecstasy impart.

Wide mountain ranges, drifted desert sand,
These will be with me as I go my way—
Transforming light of sunset on the land,
Blue-purple of the hills at close of day.

Undesirable Espionage

ARLINGTON, Oct. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The editorial regarding the barbers' Sunday-closing law under date of October 22 was certainly a masterpiece. One reason that our forefathers came to this country was to escape the religious laws and rules of the old country. One of the outstanding reasons for the great and mighty progress of this nation is due to the fact that this country was founded upon the fact of civil and religious liberty.

While this said barbers' Sunday law claims to be humanitarian, yet there is a clause which clearly states that those who observe another day are exempt. Then in order for those who come in under that exemption to really be safeguarded they must religiously observe another day and inasmuch as the policemen would not be in a position to know whether his culprit had properly observed another day, he would of necessity have to place his victim under arrest and take him before the court and call in the minister of his church and other witnesses in order to verify the statement and satisfy the court. Let us keep church and State forever separate.

A Gold Mine

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] What a wonderfully rich gold mine the great city of Los Angeles is proving to be for the bond promotors, political contractors, assessment sharks, boss politicians and petty grafters. I suppose if we keep on voting bonds (which, of course, will never cost us a cent) we'll soon have more bonds than miner's inches of water; in fact, I believe such is the case at present.

Vanishing Wild Fowl

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The photo published in The Times this morning, "In Refutation of the Contention That Wild Fowl Are Forsaking California," is very misleading. The contention is not that the wild fowl are forsaking California, that causes the decrease in the population of these birds, but the very fact that they have so decreased in numbers that they have vanished from most all of the waters where in former years they established their cold-weather headquartera.

The authenticity of this statement is the records of the meeting; held August 27, 1930, at Toronto, Can., of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners of the United States and Canada. Official reports of the Canadian government show that the breeding areas of Canada have been so greatly reduced by the use of these areas for commercial purposes, and so many of the birds have been killed off, that in twenty years from 1910 to 1930, 90 per cent of the water fowl population of the entire continent of North America has been exterminated.

Will Vote For Young

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] With regard to your editorial in Sunday's issue, questioning the sincerity of Milton K. Young's "dry" stand, may I point out the fundamental fallacy of your whole argument?

If it is conceded that the official, of himself, can do nothing, either way, what difference does his sincerity make? It is his pronouncement that counts. For the overwhelming election of Roiph will be looked on as a triumph by the "wets," no matter how many hundred thousand "dry" but "regular" Republicans might swell his majority; and I, frankly, would vote for any opponent of his in order to express my extreme disgust and minimize that triumph.

Again—your stand for Fitts (in which I agreed) was, "a Southern Californian for Governor." Then shouldn't we remember that Young is a Los Angeles man? Whatever my Republican persuasion in the past, I intend to vote for Milton K. Young, a Southern Californian and a "few shades drier."

"Fireball" in Scotland

What is believed to have been a luminous meteor fell and exploded recently on the farm of Capt. A. Manson, near Kilblean, Scotland. Mrs. Manson said that everything had been unusually calm, when a loud hissing noise was followed by a terrific crash. Flashes of light flew in all directions. Rushing to the house to protect her children she collapsed at the door. The arm of a painter working inside the house was paralyzed. He said the "fireball," as it was called, locally, burst several feet above the ground, and a hole was made in the earth. The bursting of the astronomical visitor was followed by a torrential downpour of rain.

"Red" Women in London

Women agents of the soviet republic are reported to have begun their operations in London following England's recognition of Russia. They are said to be beautiful creatures who can go anywhere, and by their grace and seeming charm win friends in any grade of society. They already are reported to be busy in the fashionable West End. One place which is closed to them is the new Caucasian Grill, just opened as the haunt for "White" Imperial Russians. The cooking is done by the chef of the famous Bear restaurant which was the rendezvous of the court and fashionable society in St. Petersburg before the World War, assisted by three other Russian chefs.

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason

THE HUMBLE STATION

Yesterday he was a ruler with the reins of power in hand, and today he's in the ranks with no soul he can command. Gone are all his pomp and glory; he may have three lines or more when some fellow writes the story of his record in the State. Yesterday the crowds were cheering, he was idol of the mob; now such crowds as do appearing boost the man who takes his job. Gone are all the fuss and fever and the consequence and power, and the headsman with a cleaver must be with him any hour. Or perhaps he will be banished to some distant, barren isle; anyhow, all things have vanished he considered worth his while. When I see the rulers' faces, as they're pictured in the press with their deeply graven traces of frustration and distress, I am thankful I am humble and my destiny obscure and I do not whine or grumble that my outlook is so poor. I'm not ruler of a region, I'm not monarch of a land, and I cannot sway a legion with a motion of my hand. No one heeds what I am saying if I frame decree or plan; the idea of obeying never comes to any man. I am but a ten-cent mortal, barging through a thin-horn sphere, but I wave my hand and chortle where the rulers sheds a tear. I've no sceptre to be polished, I've no princely uniform; but my job won't be abolished in grim revolution's storm. It is good to be a prince and avoid the scenes of strife; it is good to be a hiker on the humble roads of life.

WOMEN OPPOSE BOND PROPOSAL

Tax League Not in Favor of Power Issue

Says Bureau Has on Hand Ample Funds

Future Water Needs Held More Urgent

Members of the Women's Tax League of Los Angeles have pledged their support to the widespread efforts of other organizations of citizens and of individuals in opposition to the passage of the proposed $13,300,000 power bond issue to be voted on at next Tuesday's election. Mrs. O. P. Clark, chairman of the league, made the announcement of the organization's stand against the bond issue.

The league membership includes women who are prominent in the social and business affairs of the city and they are united, Mrs. Clark said, in their determination to oppose granting additional funds to the Municipal Bureau of Power and Light in view of the fact that the bureau has large funds of money available.

"The league is cognizant of the fact," Mrs. Clark said, "that Los Angeles has a plentiful supply of electric power and that the voters of this city will be called upon in the very near future to vote many millions of dollars to make possible a greater supply of water for our city. We will be asked to vote between $225,000,000 and $250,000,000 for the Colorado River aqueduct to bring water from Boulder Dam and we should not add any unnecessary expenses to our municipality in view of this forthcoming great project and other vitally necessary improvements.

TAX BILLS REMINDERS

"The claim that this $13,300,000 power bond issue is in any way necessary to the completion of Boulder Dam is absurd. The same claim was made in connection with the bond issue of June, 1929. The bonds were defeated. Since that time Congress has ratified the Boulder Dam contract and has appropriated $10,000,000 for the beginning of actual construction work. Secretary of the Interior Wilbur asserted a few days ago that work on the dam will never cease until the dam is a reality.

"At this particular time of the year when every property holder has received or soon will receive his or her tax bill, we have before us a strong reminder that every citizen should be particularly careful about voting additional burdens of bonded indebtedness.

"The Women's Tax League of Los Angeles believes that this proposed bond issue of $13,300,000 is unecessary from any viewpoint and that its passage would be an unwarranted drain on our city's bonding capacity."

Members of the Women's Tax League of Los Angeles include Mrs. Ellen French Aldrich, Dorothy M. Arnold, Mrs. Amanda W. Barber, Mrs. Catherine W. Beardon, Mrs. Mrs. T. G. Bourn, Mrs. Fletcher Bowron, Mrs. Stella E. Bryant, Mrs. B. H. Cass, Mrs. Gertrude P. Chamberlain, Mrs. O. P. Clark, Mrs. H. V. Davis, Mrs. Jeannette De Garmo, Mrs. C. W. Decker, Mrs. Douglas L. TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION DISAPPROVES BONDS

Disapproval of the $13,300,000 power-bond issue, Proposition D on the Los Angeles city ballot, was voted today by the board of directors of the Los Angeles city unit of California Taxpayers' Association after lengthy consideration and study.

CITY FUNDS NOT USED TO SUPPORT BOND ISSUE

City Clerk Dominguez was instructed yesterday by the City Council to write Harold J. Perkins, a subdivider, informing him that the Council has not appropriated or allocated any city funds to be spent in support of the $13,300,000 power bonds.

On Thursday Perkins addressed a letter to the Council and the Board of Water and Power Commissioners protesting against the illegal expenditure of public funds in the bond campaign.

RIFT LAID TO OTHER WOMEN

"A certain woman of the Wilshire district" attracted her husband, Mrs. Thekla Haak Hall yesterday complained in asking a divorce from John Dewit Hall. The wife also asserted that Hall had dissipated $12,000 of her money. The Halls married July 31, 1929, and separated September 19, last.

"My husband remained out until 4 and 5 a.m., and told me he had been out that late on business," said Mrs. Hall. "I learned that he had been seen in public places, dancing and dining with other women. In particular, a certain woman of the Wilshire district."

Superior Judge Gould granted her a divorce.

HARMONY CAUSE OF DISCORD

Wife's Tale of Nocturnal Serenades by Spouse Wins Divorce

Alarm clock persecution and unwelcome all-night violin serenades were complained of yesterday by Mrs. Ethel Antreter in getting a divorce from Herman Antreter.

"He played a violin in the kitchen all night and until 5 a.m.," the wife told Superior Judge Guerin. "Also he made other noises to keep me awake. Another of his annoyances was to hide the alarm clock near my bed, set to go off in the middle of the night, waking me up. I would be so nervous that I couldn't go back to sleep."

Conservation of Compton Creek Water Planned

Plans for diverting the flood waters of Compton Creek into Nigger Slough, where they will be conserved in a natural reservoir or spreading grounds, are being considered, according to announcement yesterday by E. C. Eaton, chief engineer of the flood-control district.

Practically all of the drainage of the south part of the city of Los Angeles now goes through Compton and becomes Compton Creek south of the village. For years the flood water has been a menace, inasmuch as it overflows hundreds of acres of agricultural land before emptying into the Los Angeles River.

The flood-control district has $50,000 in its budget for the building of a ditch from Dominguez Junction to the Los Angeles River to carry the water to the ocean. Eaton's plan now is to use the money for a ditch to carry the water to the southwest to Nigger Slough, relieve the flood conditions and at the same time conserve the water.

STORY OF DITCHING WINS WIFE DIVORCE

Actually ditched by her husband, so she complained, Mrs. Blanche E. Lucas yesterday ditched Albert O. Lucas, matrimonially speaking. The wife told Superior Judge Collier that her husband drove his car into a ditch, throwing her out. Then, continued Mrs. Lucas, he drove off without bothering to learn if she was injured, and leaving her to get home under her own power. Judge Collier granted her a decree on grounds of cruelty.

CROP OF APPLES WILL BE PIPPIN

State to Have One of Best in Ten-Year Period

Season's Estimated Output 11,502,000 Bushels

National Apple Week Gets Widespread Notice

Southern California will have one of the best apple crops in ten years for color, size and quality, according to a report made by the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce.

This is outstanding at this time in view of the fact that National Apple Week will be celebrated universally during November. The season's crop for the State is expected to reach 11,502,000 bushels, or 81 per cent of the full crop, as compared with the 7,380,000-bushel crop of 1929.

ACREAGE FIGURED

The report further states that there are 57,440 bearing acres and 5944 nonbearing acres in the State. The principal producing areas are Santa Cruz, Sonoma and San Bernardino counties.

The total crop throughout the United States is expected to reach 153,369,000 bushels, as compared to 142,078,000 bushels in 1929, according to R. A. Smith, supervisor of agriculture for the Union Pacific System, who has made a survey of the various apple-raising districts in the country.

Utah and Idaho are expected to ship approximately 7000 carloads of apples to foreign markets and will have a correspondingly heavy local consumption.

INCREASE SIGHTED

Washington, according to estimates, will produce 46,100 carloads, which will be an increase over last year's crop of 35,260. In Oregon there is an estimated total of 9220 carloads, as compared to 8300 carloads last year.

Markets, merchants, fruit dealers, restaurants, hotels, dining-rooms and cafes will combine in furnishing special attractions for apple week. The Union Pacific System will serve special apple dishes on its diners and in its hotels and eating houses.

AUXILIAR WILL MEET

Los Angeles American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 8 will hold its next meeting Tuesday at Patriotic Hall, 1816 South Figueroa street. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 p.m.. It is planned to celebrate the birthdays of the members each month at the luncheons. Mrs. Ethel Perry, the new president, will preside.

CIVIC THEATER BACKING URGED

Mayor Asks Citizens to Help Movement

A PLEA to the people of Los Angeles for the support of the Bowl Theater Association, managing the Civic Repertory Theater, was made yesterday by Mayor Porter. In his statement, the Mayor said:

"This cultural institution, which aims at producing fine drama in Los Angeles, is one of the most important forward steps in the history of the city. It marks the coming-of-age of Los Angeles in a new direction. It ends the dependence of the people of this city on New York and the East for worthwhile plays. I believe it to be deserving of the full interest of the citizens of Los Angeles."

The Mayor was interviewed in his office yesterday morning by Doris Lloyd, guest artist of the Civic Repertory Theater.

Robbers Take Victim's Pants

Imagine the embarrassment of E. Salredo of 8404 South Grand avenue when two bunko artists operating the old-time lost-purse swindle left him standing at Sixteenth street and Central avenue last night with his shoes off, sans trousers, and minus $33 in cash.

Salredo said he was walking along when one man dropped a purse. He picked it up just as a second man appeared. The supposed loser then returned and accused Salredo of taking money from the purse. Despite his protest the pair searched him and took all his money, and to thwart pursuit detroussered him.

Bar to Answer Radio Attacks

Speaking in behalf of the independent judiciary committee, which has indorsed the candidacies of Judges Bishop, Keetch, Shaw and Hazlett, former Judge Wood from 7 to 7:30 p.m. today over KNX will summarize the reply of the organization he represents to the broadcasting utterances of a minister who has attacked these candidates.

The concluding radio address of the campaign will be over KMTR Monday from 8:30 to 9 p.m., and will be delivered by Nathan Newby.

MAMMALS TO BE DISCUSSED

The Zoological Society of Los Angeles will meet at 8 o'clock this evening in the Central Public Library. W. H. Burt of California Institute of Technology will speak on "Mammals—Past and Present."

EMPLOYEES TOLD TABOO ON POLITICS

Civil Service Workers of County Warned Against Campaign Activity

Notices were sent out to all county employees yesterday by the Civil Service Commission warning them against any form of political activity.

"Employees," the notice reads, "in the classified service of Los Angeles county are again cautioned against the violation of Sections 42 and 43 of the county charter, which provides:

"No officer or employee of the county in the classified service shall directly or indirectly solicit or receive or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any assessment, subscription or contribution for any political party or political purpose whatever. No person shall, orally or by letter, solicit or be in any manner concerned in soliciting any assessment, subscription or contribution for any political party or purpose whatever from any person holding a position in the classified purpose.

"No person holding a position in the classified service shall take any part in political management of affairs or in political campaigns further than to cast his vote and to express privately his opinions.

"Any person willfully violating any of the provisions of the above sections shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Divorce Court Sees Ghost of Old Halloween

Halloween spirits started the trouble, Mrs. Emma Jean Haskins testified yesterday in obtaining a Halloween divorce from Charles J. Haskins, salesman, in Superior Judge Keetch's court.

"It was Halloween, 1928, when my husband went out motoring and became intoxicated," asserted Mrs Haskins. "He drove his car off the road where it stuck in the mud. Consequently, he didn't get home until 3 a.m., and he was still angry. He cursed me and beat and abused me until I had to flee to my mother's for safety."

Judge Keetch completed the Halloween theme by granting a decree yesterday.

DOUG AND MARY WILL TRAVEL

Daughter of Whiting and Burt Signing With Sennett; Charles Winninger Assigned to Comedy Lead; Norma Talmadge's Next to Be Comedy

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

A Christmas spent at St. Mauritz, Switzerland, is the holiday now being looked forward to by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, United Artists stars.

MARY PICKFORD

"Douglas wants to go," Miss Pickford said yesterday, "and naturally I want to go with him. But it's going to be very hard to leave Gwen, my niece, who has come back from school in Europe, and is with me every spare moment I have. A Christmas at St. Mauritz will of course be beautiful."

By the holidays both Miss Pickford and Fairbanks will have finished their current productions, "Kiki" and "Reaching for the Moon," respectively, and will be free to travel.

"It took courage for me to tackle 'Kiki' and follow Lenore Ulric in a talking version," said Mary yesterday. "I'm like Will Rogers in regard to its showing. You know Will Rogers proposed, when he was to play polo along with some other amateurs, that there be a man placed on the gate to ask whether the customers had ever seen a game of polo before, and if they said they had, that they should be kept out. I think when 'Kiki' is to be shown in New York, I'll have somebody on the door to ask if they ever saw Lenore Ulric play 'Kiki,' and if they say yes, we'll bar them!"

Miss Pickford is to make another comedy for United Artists, she declares, but so far has not settled on any story.

VIRGINIA WHITING IS WITH SENNETT

Even though Sadie Burt is resting on her laurels for the time being, spending a vacation from stage work with her children at her Hollywood home, there are torch bearers in the family.

VIRGINIA WHITING

George Whiting, her husband, as you have been informed, is writing comedies for Hal Roach. And now blossoms forth their lovely young daughter, Virginia Whiting, who has just signed with Mack Sennett for leads.

Sennett is putting forth a series of comedies in color and sound and Miss Whiting is playing the feminine lead in the first of these, in which Frank Easton has the leading male role. There is no title as yet.

Miss Whiting is not without professional experience, having appeared as a dancer with her father and mother in their vaudeville act. It is possible, we hear, that Sadie Burt, too, may later on enter the talking pictures.

Charles Winninger In It

Charles Winninger, the original Capt. Andy Hawks of Ziegfeld's "Show Boat," and star of numerous Broadway musicals, is keeping right along with his picture work.

Yesterday he was added to the cast of Paramount's "Fighting Caravans," in which he will have the featured comedy role. Gary Cooper and Lily Damita are seen in the romantic leads, and Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall are reunited for the first time since they created their present roles in "The Covered Wagon," the picture of which "Fighting Caravans" is the sequel.

Ilka Chase at Universal

After all, it is Ilka Chase, and not Dorothy Christy, who will play the vamp role in "The Modern Wife."

Miss Chase has distinguished herself in several productions, including certain Fox and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures.

Miss Christy, I understand, is to be assigned to another Universal picture.

Louis Calhern in Play

Louis Calhern has displaced Joseph Schildkraut in "The Tyrant," which Charles Wagner is producing in New York. Schildkraut walked out of the show after deciding he didn't like the leading lady selected to play opposite him.

This is the same show in which Dr. Cecil Reynolds is playing a role. Dr. Reynolds, despite his success in his chosen profession, has a "yen" for the stage, and recently appeared in a play or two at the Pasadena Community Theater.

Norma Talmadge Soon

Norma Talmadge is at last really to come home. She is leaving New York Sunday for the west coast, and will probably arrive here Thursday of next week, unless the railroad plays a trick on her.

NORMA TALMADGE

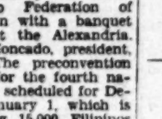
The actress, it is said, is favoring the playing of a comedy as her next United Artists production. Several plays and stories are under consideration for her. She is now appearing on the United Artists screen in "Du Barry."

Blanche Sweet to Stage

Blanche Sweet is going into vaudeville. A musical sketch is being readied for her, in which she will sing several songs. She will go out over the R.-K.-O. circuit.

Eddie Woods on Stage

Though our young friend, Eddie Woods, is keeping right along with his picture work, there is a possibility also of his going on the stage.



EDWARD WOODS

The Belasco interests are to produce "The Devil Pops Up," a current New York success, and negotiations are under way to place young Woods in the leading juvenile role.

Woods is also scheduled to appear in the Fox film production of "The Spider," which will star Warner Baxter. The youthful player is also being considered for other roles.

Audiences More Critical Now, Actress Says

That Los Angeles audiences have become far more critical of stage play offerings in the last two years than in the past is the belief of Olive Tell, who is playing one of the leading roles in "Women Who Take," at the Mason Theater.

Miss Tell is of the opinion that talking pictures have had something to do with this. The talkers, according to Miss Tell, have made everyone more dialogue conscious.

Jane Murfin, who wrote the initial play with which Metropolitans Productions, Ltd., is launching its policy of giving Los Angeles a series of original plays, has had wide experience both in writing for the stage and screen. Miss Tell came to Los Angeles four years ago and has confined most of her histrionic ability to the screen.

HEARING POSTPONED ON SNODGRASS WILL

Consideration of the $250,000 will of the late William T. Snodgrass, who died in a local hotel, apparently penniless, was postponed by Superior Judge Stephens yesterday until the 15th inst., on motion of Deputy County Counsel Prichard, representing Public Administrator Bryson. Snodgrass, who died August 4, last, left most of his money to Philadelphia charities, representatives of whom have contended that the will should be probated in Pennsylvania courts.

FILIPINOS TO MEET

With delegates from all parts of the United States, Hawaii, Alaska and the Philippines scheduled to attend, the fourth preconvention of the Filipino Federation of America will open with a banquet Monday night at the Alexandria. Dr. Hilario C. Moncado, president, will preside. The preconvention will draft plans for the fourth national convention, scheduled for December 23 to January 1, which is expected to bring 15,000 Filipinos to Los Angeles. More than 500 officers are scheduled to take part in the preconvention.

SAFETY MEASURE ADOPTED

An amendment to the Building Ordinance was adopted yesterday by the City Council which will eliminate exterior fire escapes from the new jail building, now under construction at the Lincoln Heights Police Station.

"REALIFE" AIDS OUTDOOR FILM

"Billy the Kid" Presented on Large Screen

Virile Story of Notorious Character Attracts

Brown, Kay Johnson and Beery Play Leads

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The vista of outdoor locations is again rendered splendidly attractive by means of a screen of enlarged dimensions. "Billy the Kid" was presented yesterday at the Criterion as the first demonstration of the Reallife form of shadow stage expansion, and there is no question but that it increases immeasurably the appeal of the outdoor settings, which appear in many portions of this production.

King Vidor directed "Billy the Kid" and it is his first feature since "Hallelujah." The cast is headed by John Mack Brown in the title role, with Wallace Beery colorfully present as a law enforcer, and Kay Johnson as leading light feminine.

Essentially this is a mannish feature, marked with a melodramatic intensity, and only here and there hinting at the gentler and more romantic purposes. "The Big Parade" was a mannish story, too, but of an entirely different order. The present picture seems to glory in scenes where its male characters fight it out to the finish.

The Billy the Kid that is depicted is hardly the Billy the Kid of history. He acts from motives of loyalty and devotion to a friend and employer, instead of being an out-and-out bad man. He is quick on the trigger and can shoot himself free from any fix no matter how difficult, but he is against the law as administered by crooked tyrants of the early frontier.

How much foundation there is for this particular limning of a western outlaw, I do not know. Billy the Kid had a certain coterie of admirers, and still has, I believe, in the locale where he flourished. However, the business of making him an acceptable figure to the public seems to have been no light one; it only goes to show that it is difficult to transform a bad man into a good one.

The picture is really strongest in the drama of battle. The fight between the Sheriff's crowd and Billy's followers, when the latter seek to protect the peaceful McSween is a spectacular affair. The escape of Billy himself when he has to depart the burning dwelling is dynamically represented, for with a gun in each hand he shoots his way out of the tight scrape.

Preceding this, the effort of one of the followers to get water from the besieged outlaws is a strong theatrical incident. Covered by the fire of his comrades, he goes to the well in the yard, only to be riddled by the bullets of the opposing party on his way back to safety.

Beside these events, the latter part of the picture is inclined to be anticlimactic. The effort of the general to appeal to Billy to stop his warfare does not ring true, and it is to be doubted whether Billy would ever have surrendered to the pangs of hunger, considering the vindictive spirit he displayed elsewhere. The scenes in which these diverse events occur lack conviction.

Interest is more strongly renewed later on when the hero makes his escape from the Sheriff, during the progress of a card game. This particular bit is rather effectively dealt with.

Actual backgrounds, procured, I believe, in New Mexico, as well as Utah and Arizona, are all enriching to the picture and the photography is exceptional in these scenes.

Brown, who is Billy the Kid with a southern accent, does a consistent interpretation of the leading character. It is easily one of his ablest portrayals and he manages to bridge p retty well over certain weaknesses in the role.

The deftness of Beery is shown remarkably in many scenes, particularly fine being his acting in the final fadeout.

Miss Johnson gives a touch of elegance to the heroine.

Two very amusing characters are furnished by Nelson McDowell and John Beck as Hatfield and Butterworth, respectively. Karl Dane appears in a grotesque impersonation.

Russell Simpson as McSween, Blanche Frederici as Mrs. McSween, Wyndham Standing, James Marcus and Warner P. Richmond, Aggie Herring and numerous others are excellent. Indeed, there are many roles that are given importance in this picture both in the acting and directing. A comedy incident with a mule gratuitously introduced is exceedingly funny.

One may note that the dialogue of the picture was written by Laurence Stallings and Charles MacArthur.

Charlie Chase stars in a comedy called "High C's," which peculiarly enough, considering the title, is about the war. Its principal highlight is the declaring of a truce in order that a German tenor may be procured from the enemy forces in order to fill out an American quartet. The picture is lively and laughable.

Player Boasts One Experience as Producer

John Litel's one experience as a theatrical producer is unique . . . he headed a production staff overseas which put on a show for the members of a French ambulance corps in celebration of the signing of the armistice.

When the war broke out, Litel, who is playing now with Charlotte Greenwood in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" at the El Capitan Theater, joined the Ambulance Corps and spent two years in active service at the front.

When the armistice was signed he decided to organize a company and put on a show for the boys. He helped with the writing of the scripts and music and personally staged the production. Louis Bromfield, Pulitzer Prize novel winner, painted the scenery for the show. It scored to the extent that Elsie Janis staged it practically intact in New York the following year and met with success.

WINNIE IN PEPFUL COMEDY

Miss Lightner Stars in Double-Barreled Opening of "The Life of the Party"

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Life is now made easy for the picturegoer. He can see his first-run entertainment either in Hollywood or downtown Los Angeles. This goes, at any rate, for "The Life of the Party," with Winnie Lightner, and establishes a precedent for double-barreled showings of the cinema.

"The Life of the Party" opened yesterday at both the Warner Brothers Hollywood and the Warner Brothers Downtown Theater, and drew unusually good houses, especially in the evening, at the two show places.

Miss Lightner's comedy is surefire in the movies ever since "The Gold-Diggers of Broadway," and her latest enterprise is hilarious enough to justify the claims that are being made for her popularity. It is a farcical affair dealing with the escapades of a pair of ingenious "wolking golls" who go on a holiday, with a light bankroll and a glad array of gowns "borrowed" from the shop where they were employees.

The screen play and the dialogue were written by Arthur Caesar, while Roy Del Ruth directed. Miss Lightner's "partner in crime" is Irene Delroy, who might be termed the foil of the irrepressible Winnie. There are two men who help increase the amusement of the picture, one of them, Charles Butterworth, being highly capable in a dumbbell role, while the other is Charles Judels as the explosive fashion expert.

One of the most uproarious scenes has been neatly transferred to "The Life of the Party" from that good old war horse of comedy, "The Hottentot." This episode shows the horse race in which Winnie turns jockey, and enters a handicap that is dizzy with fantastic photographic effects. She bounces all over the horse, clinging to the mane and tail, and does all the other hokumish stunts that made the earlier picture celebrated.

However, with Miss Lightner as the performer the entire affair gains a new zest. And the merriment is added to by the fact that she fails to win, as the horse eventually turns around and goes in the wrong direction.

"The Life of the Party" moves speedily, and the patter that Miss Lightner recites is generally laughable. She springs the usual line of flashy slapstick, and full use is made of her facility for facial expression. She looks exceedingly well, too, in the picture, which is photographed all in color.

The plot of "The Life of the Party," which happens in New York and Havana, mostly concerns the efforts of the two feminine principals to capture a wealthy husband. Their evasion of jail, where they both really belong, while on their matrimonial quest serves to put the necessary zip into the story. Theirs is a trail not only of purloned gowns, but of genial gold-digging and unpaid hotel bills. However, their adventure is cheerfully taken, and is as a whole very funny.

Miss Delroy succeeds in giving plenty of aid to her effervescent team-mate in their quest for riches, and seems more satisfactorily cast than in one or two previous features. Butterworth is really a very droll actor. And Judels, whose principal duty appears to consist of breaking up furniture, does this chore nobly. He is effective aside from that. John Davidson enacts a fortune-hunter of novel mien efficiently. Arthur Hoyt is in the cast.

"The Life of the Party" was adapted from a story by Melville Crosman, if that matters.

On the same program at both theaters, are an exquisite Japanese scenic, and a new talking animal comedy. This time it is monkeys that are the actors, and they are appearing in "The Little Big House."

Virginia Sale Finishes Role

Virginia Sale has completed a five weeks' engagement as Hannah Lucas in "The Great Meadow," under Charles Brabin's direction at M.-G.-M. The part, one of the principal feminine roles in the picture, is that of a young mountaineer wife.

This part, and a secretarial role she recently played in "Ex-Mistress," round out her year's work, with a contrast to the number of "old lady" and spinster roles, such as that in "Moby Dick," to which she has been assigned.

FINAL WEEK OF COMEDY ANNOUNCED

"Young Sinners" Leaves Belasco Soon; South Sea Drama Scheduled Next

Monday evening's performance at the Belasco Theater will start the final week of the Elmer Harris comedy, "Young Sinners," with Marian Marsh, John Darrow, Cecil Cunningham and Molly O'Day in feautred roles.

The night after "Young Sinners" departs from the Belasco, the popular playhouse will present the annual appearance of Dorothy Burgess in a drama of the South Seas, "The Bird of Flame," by John B. Hymer and Le Roy Clemens. Bramwell Fletcher and Robert Frazer are featured in support.

Seats for the last week of "Young Sinners" and the first week of Dorothy Burgess in "The Bird of Flame" will go on sale Monday.

Radio Executive Enthuses About Amos 'n' Andy

In a telegram to Amos 'n' Andy, M. Russell, executive head of the N.B.C. radio network system, tells of the enthusiasm of officials at Washington, D.C., on seeing "Check and Double Check," now showing locally at the Orpheum Theater.

The message reads: "Representatives of President Hoover's Cabinet, the White House staff, members of Congress, six assistant secretaries, members of government commissions and other officials and 1000 correspondents representing newspapers from all sections of the country gave your picture an enthusiastic welcome last night.

"Everyone joins in sending hearty congratulations. It's a great picture."

"Check and Double Check" is showing simultaneously in theaters over the country. It brings the blackface radio idols to the talking screen for the first time.

Paramount to Present Late Show Tonight

Several features have been arranged for the midnight show at the Paramount Theater tonight, Everett Hoagland and his college band and the regular Paramount orchestra will both be on the stage during the performance.

Hoagland's band is known for radio performances and stage appearances. "The Virtuous Sin" is the feature picture.

Also on the program will be Jack Partington's show, "Collegiate," which features Ray Bolger as master of ceremonies.

"Raffles" on Bard Program

Ronald Colman in "Raffles" and the Four Marx Brothers in "Animal Crackers" make up a double feature bill at Bard's Eighth-street Theater this week.

Colman reached the height of his career when he portrayed the role of Raffles, it is said. The fascinating Kay Francis plays opposite him. The Marx Boys cut-up again in "Animal Crackers." A news reel and cartoon comedy are also included on the bill.

LATIN HIT IN SECOND OFFERING

Ernesto Vilches Scores in "Mr. Wu" at International California Theater

BY SALVADOR BAGUEZ

A film reminiscent of one of the finest silent pictures made by the late Lon Chaney and one in which he excelled, is "Mr. Wu," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's latest Spanish talkie which opened last evening with a gala premiere at the California International Theater for a week's run.

It is a picture that should appeal to everyone. It not only has good direction, artistic photography and an absorbing story, but it has been produced on an elaborate scale and with as good a cast as could be assembled locally.

Starring Ernesto Vilches, who created the part of the rich and powerful Chinese mandarin on the Spanish stage, this second audible screen offering in Spanish to come from the Culver City plant casts a sinister spell on the beholder, emphasizing the exquisite artistry of its star.

Interspersing his more dramatic speeches with a rare touch of masterful pantomime, Vilches reveals himself almost a veteran of the screen in this his second performance before the camera. From his first appearance, and without even uttering a single word for a lengthy part of a reel, he predominates. It is evident that although Nick Grinde is credited with the direction, a greater portion of the laurels should go to Vilches himself.

Of the supporting cast only Jose Grespo in the juvenile lead and Angelina Benitez as Nang Ping, the daughter of Mr. Wu, are outstanding. All the others do very commendable work, notably Marcela Nivon and Jose Soriano Viesca. The adaptation was done by Salvador de Alberreich.

Preceding the showing of the picture Vilches, as master of ceremonies, introduced the members of the cast from the stage together with other celebrities present. This week's interesting and varied program also includes a Slim Summerville comedy, "Parlez Vous," and the customary newsreel.

German Film Featured by Theme Songs

Having run rampant on the musical score, "Because I Loved You," a German affair arrives for the week at the Filmarte.

Stamped in all ways with the touch of America, this film produced by Aafa Tobis, Berlin, attempts to do what America has given up in hopelessness. The prolonged problems of the drama occur in and out of the theater, back of the musical comedy or light opera stage. There is a militant chorus of girls who advance and retreat a la the conventional Hollywood system. A cabaret is also in evidence; sporting a master of ceremonies, a Spanish dancer and a dark couple from Alabama who croon and stomp the "Low Down Creole Blues."

But although adopted from our pictures, this appears pieced together in ignorance—that is, to judge from our standards. For instance, the theme song is sung at least ten times in the first half of the story. And the detail, the choice of which is very nice indeed, is spoiled by the quantity and the leaden tempo. But that again is the German style which one should recognize before criticising.

Quite a charming personality is found in Mady Christians, who plays the leading role of an actress retired eventually into matrimony, with resulting complications. She possesses an unusually pleasing voice and one which is heard repeatedly.

Walter Jankuhn and Hans Stuwe are the villain and hero, respectively; both are competent.

The Filmarte is becoming known for its travelogues and this week it presents "From Granada to Toledo," a picturesque journey through Spain, told to the accompaniment of music.

Shumway Once Played Role of Little Eva

Pound—the real definition of antithesis!

Lee Shumway, playing the prosecuting attorney in "Women Who Take," now at the Mason Theater, admits that he started his thespian career playing Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Shumway, to use a slang expression, has seen much water run under the bridge since he made his stage debut—as a girl—at the age of 6 in Salt Lake City. He has been identified with the stage and screen all of his professional life, playing in stock from Chicago west. In 1913 Lubin made him a film offer and he has stuck rather close to the celluloid drama ever since.

Prominent roles in such talking pictures as "The Bat," "Hit of the Show" and others "resold" Shumway as an actor with speaking ability. When Frederick G. Latham began casting for Jane Murfin's new play, "Women Who Take," with which Metropolitan Productions launched its new policy at the Mason, Shumway was one of the first supporting players to be signed.

Irene Rich, Olive Tell and Morgan Wallace have the leading roles of the play.

Dramatic Actor Has Comic Role

Spencer Tracy, stage player who scored in the production of "The Last Mile," enacts his first talkie role in John Ford's imaginary comedy, "Up the River," which is screening this week at the Boulevard Theater. While his role in this talking production is essentially comedy, his stage success was made through his interpretation of the role of "Killer Mears," a highly dramatic characterization. Others in the supporting cast are Claire Luce, Warren Hymer, William Collier, Sr., and Humphrey Bogart.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS AMAZE GERMAN EDITOR

Comparison of the methods of the newspapers of the United States with those of his own country is occupying much of the attention of Konsul Paul Girardet of Dusseldorf, Germany, publisher of five large German newspapers, who is on his first tour of this country, and who has been a guest in Los Angeles for the past few days at the Ambassador. He is accompanied on his two-months' tour by Kurt-Victor V. Sydow of Hamburg.

The most conspicuous difference which Konsul Girardet has noted is in the methods of reproducing pictures. He has noticed marked improvement in the pictures in American papers during the past year, he said, and they are so much better than the ones reproduced in his own papers that he contemplates using the American methods in his plants.

He is amazed, also, at the number of editions printed by American papers, for in Germany each publication has but one edition. His papers print both a morning and an evening newspaper and, as in all other German papers, the circulation is almost entirely home circulation, he said. In Germany the figures are just the opposite. If a newspaper in his country has a circulation of 100,000, he says that it is considered most remarkable.

The publications which Girardet is co-publisher with a brother are the Dusseldorfer Nachrichten, Essener Allgemeine Zeitung, Hamburger Anzeiger, General-Anzeiger Elberfeld, and the Neiderrheinsche Nachrichten.

"Germany, like all the rest of the world," said Konsul Girardet, "is having hard times, and out of a population of some 60,000,000, we have about 3,000,000 unemployed. But everything possible is being done to correct this situation, in addition to which employers and those employed are taxed a certain amount of their income and wages to help take care of the unemployed.

"We are near Russia, of course, and millions of dollars are spent in Germany to spread Communist propaganda, but I believe that if we can handle our unemployment problem in the proper manner we are in no danger of having Communism become widespread. The middle-class German and even the Socialists are our strongest bulwark against it."

Girardet regrets that he can not spend a longer time in the United States and he hopes that more of his countrymen will come to this country, for he believes that travel between the countries of the world will do more to promote a better understanding and closer friendship among nations than anything else.

REYNA CASE JURY RESTS OVER NIGHT

No Verdict Reached on Man Accused of Murder of Officer Brindley

After several hours' deliberation the jury which is trying Juan Reyna, charged with murdering Verne Brindley, Los Angeles police officer, was locked up for the night at 9:30 o'clock last evening.

Officer Brindley was shot to death on May 10, last, after he had arrested Reyna on a traffic charge. The case is before Superior Judge Hardy and closing arguments were made yesterday afternoon.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Bialock, prosecuting the case, charged that Reyna seized the officer's gun and shot him to death without provocation.

Reyna, however, through his attorney, Nathan O. Freedman, contends that he did not seize the officer's gun and fire until after he had been beaten over the head by their guns.

The prosecution asked that the jury inflict the death penalty for the shooting. The defendant's attorney pleaded for leniency.

KNOBLOCK CASE JURY LOCKED UP

Panel Unable to Agree on Verdict in Trial of Garage-Murder Charge

Unable to agree upon a verdict, the jury considering the fate of George Knoblock, charged with the murder of Danville Rowland, was locked up for the night at 9:30 o'clock last evening. Knoblock is charged with having killed Rowland by stabbing him with a screw driver in a dispute over a 25-cent garage bill.

Closing arguments in the case were made yesterday by T. P. Menzies, deputy District Attorney prosecuting the case, and Charles Ostrom, defense attorney. After the instructions were given by Superior Judge Fricke the case was given to the jury. Attorney Ostrom, defending Knoblock, asserted that the blow was struck in self-defense after Rowland had demanded return of the money and the argument ensued.

Absentee Vote to Be Factor

Taking advantage of the law permitting absentee votes at the State general election next Tuesday, fifty-four persons have thus far marked their ballots in advance, Registrar of Voters Kerr said last night.

A total of 158 persons made requests for papers entitling them to cast absentee votes. The remaining 104 who have not yet voted must do so by the 18th inst., so that the votes may be counted by the Board of Supervisors in the official canvass, Kerr said.

The law provides that certain persons, who, due to their vocations or health, would be unable to vote at the polls on election day, are entitled to cast an absentee vote to be held by the Registrar and turned over to the Board of Supervisors after election.

WEAF RADIO ARTIST SINGS AT HOSPITAL

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

PROTECT THE TEETH WITH DIET

The art and science of dentistry has made an enormous stride within the last quarter of a century, not only in the mechanical field, but also in discovering the relation of the teeth to health, and the relation of the diet to the teeth.

All modern dentists realize the value of a good diet in preserving the health and in protecting the teeth. It is even probable that dentists as a class have been earlier in recognizing the value of a protective diet than physicians of other schools. Some very interesting experiments have been performed in trying to find out the cause of pyorrhea and trench mouth. In the examination of several hundred patients it was found that all of the patients suffering from pyorrhea had been living on a diet which was deficient in vitamin C, and it was also found that this trouble was much easier to correct when the diet was first corrected.

Dr. M. T. Hanke of the University of Chicago took a group of people suffering from pyorrhea, inflammation of the gums, and tooth decay and placed them on a diet rich in this substance. In keeping track of a group of 100 patients he found that fifteen of them did not adopt his diet and in these the gum condition grew worse, but every one of the eighty-five who used the correct diet, showed a gain for the better, and in many cases their pyorrhea and gum inflammation were entirely cured within sixty days, dental treatments also being used in addition to the diet. Gums which had been bleeding easily ceased bleeding, spongy gums became firmer, and tooth decay was stopped.

This diet of Dr. Hanke was not unusual or freakish and yet it overcame that frequent disorder of modern life, bleeding gums. He advocated a diet which was rich in protein foods, supplemented by a diet that contained plenty of foods with vitamin C; to be exact, a diet consisting of plenty of meat, eggs, milk, a half head of lettuce and fresh fruit daily, and one pint of orange juice with the juice of one lemon. This diet not only brought about an improvement in the gum troubles, but also the general health so that the patient reported being less tired and had fewer colds than ever before.

If you are suffering from any gum disorder, you should see that your food contains plenty of vitamins. Here is a list of some of the foods which are rich in vitamin C. Oranges, lemons, grapefruit, tomatoes, sprouting grains or legumes, green leaves, celery, lettuce, spinach, cabbage, etc.

Such foods when combined with the proper dental regimen not only aid in curing modern gum troubles, but also in preventing their development. Fortunately, the foods containing vitamin C are almost all alkaline-forming and also have a tendency to overcome systemic acidosis so that the saliva which bathes the teeth can become more alkaline.

After you have corrected your diet you should call up a competent dentist and make an appointment as soon as possible so that he can treat your mouth. Between the treatments at his office he will probably tell you of some preparation he wants you to use to keep the gums free from bacteria until he can build up the natural resistance. I am sure that your dentist will be able to give you many helpful ideas about diet. Of course, he is chiefly concerned in teaching you how to grow and preserve good teeth, but at the same time this purpose is being accomplished, you will also find that your general health is improving.

LECTURE SERIES OPENS

The first of a series of lectures on California history before the women students of Occidental College, was delivered yesterday by Miss Marion Parks, publicity assistant of the Security-First National Bank. Miss Parks will tell of the historic personalities who have built up the State, with emphasis on the famous women of old California. The next lecture on "The First Overland Trail" will be delivered November 13, next. The series is being sponsored by Dean Irene T. Myers. Miss Parks is a former student of Occidental College.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Time to Look Them Over

The time has come to look over the storm doors and windows and see what should be done to make them efficient. Perhaps they need painting, the hinges certainly need oiling and maybe the door would be better if it had weather stripping tacked on the top and bottom.

A Good Preserver

If you use the baker's bread that comes wrapped in glazed paper, open the paper carefully and after you have cut all the bread you need replace the loaf in the paper and fold over the edges. The bread will keep splendidly in this manner.

Every Other Week

Windows do not need to be cleaned every week if a little attention is paid them on the in-between week. Go over them with a clean, soft cloth and polish well. They will shine just as though water had been applied.

The Fireplace

Always clean and brush the hearth of the fireplace before cleaning the room, and never get into that very bad habit of sweeping dust into the fireplace. You only have it back in the room again within an hour.

When Some One Is Ill

To deaden the telephone or doorbell during the illness of a person in the home, slip strips of felt weatherstripping between the hammer and the bell.

Slips of Plants

When growing slips of vines or plants indoors, place them in a glass vase or mason jar so the sun can get at their roots and nourish them.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

JOYS OF ANTICIPATION MUST BE TAUGHT TO CHILD

All parents realize that the average child lives on the principle that a bird in the hand is worth a half-dozen in the bush. Children have no interest in waiting hours or days for a treat. They want it at the moment. The younger the child the more eagerly will he seize any immediate pleasure in preference to a future one. This obvious lack of interest in the morrow makes rewards or even threats of future punishment ineffective. Few children are prevented from present misbehavior because it forebodes future punishment.

"If you bring another spoonful of sand in this house, Daniel Cutter, you can't go to the circus on Saturday!" That appalls the child for a moment, but Saturday is far away and the alluring sand right at hand. In an hour he is trailing through the house again with a dripping bucket of sand. He cries pitifully when reminded of the circus, but it doesn't last long. What is Saturday? He can't even visualize "this afternoon."

TRAINING BEGINS EARLY

"If you're a good boy all morning long, this afternoon mother will take you for a ride." Does he remember? Is his conduct improved? Perhaps while the echo of the words is in the air, but hardly longer. "Eat your nice vegetables and then you can have your pudding." One bite of vegetables and then "pudding, pudding," is the refrain.

To teach children the delights of anticipating future rewards we have to start literally from the day of their birth. We have to teach them to wait for their meals. All of us know that it is wiser to put baby on an absolutely regular schedule from at least the third day of his birth. While regularity is plainly excellent for his physical well-being, perhaps the moral angle is not so apparent. Yet what better lesson can there be in self-control, and anticipation is hitched firmly to self-control, than to let the child know from the first day of his birth that his cries do not bring the food he wants? He must wait until the proper hour for feeding arrives. After he has learned to wait patiently, anticipating his dinner, he enjoys an even greater satisfaction than if it had arrived on the very heels of his desire.

PERSONAL DESIRES UNIMPORTANT

If carried out conscientiously, every item of baby's day teaches him this same lesson. He adores his bath but baths come only in the morning. He crows with delight when his hood is put on and he knows he is to go outdoors, but this comes after his morning nap and not before. His whole day revolves not about his own personal desires, but around some inflexible schedule of events.

The baby is fed every time he cries, regardless of the hour, and is picked up the moment he indicates his desire for this attention, learns nothing, if unchecked, this education of getting what he wants when he wants it effectually chokes the development of anticipation. Such an adult says, "I'll live for today and let tomorrow take care of itself."

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

JIMMY AND BOBBY RETAIN THEIR SELF-RESPECT

Respect for others you may gain
And still your self-respect retain.
—Bobby Coon.

"I wouldn't have believed it," said Mother Brown, "if I hadn't seen it with my own eyes. No, sir, I wouldn't have believed it."

"I wish I had been there," said Farmer Brown's boy.

"I wish you had," replied Mother Brown. "When I first opened that kitchen door and saw Bobby Coon and Jimmy Skunk facing each other across that plate of food and heard them growling at each other I thought right then and there that this house wouldn't be respectable to live in for some time. Jimmy Skunk looked as if he might use that little scent-gun of his any second. He didn't, however. They touched noses and then they settled down to eat; and when they finished there wasn't a scrap of anything left. The funny part is that all the time they were eating they were quite polite to each other. When they finished Bobby Coon backed away a little and Jimmy Skunk did the same thing. Bobby looked at Jimmy a moment and very deliberately turned around and walked out of that cat hole. Jimmy waited a minute or two and then he followed. I wonder if both will come back again."

Meanwhile Jimmy Skunk had shuffled along home and Bobby Coon had gone over to the Green Forest and climbed a tree to think things over. Bobby says he can think better when he is up a tree. He thought of his encounter with Jimmy Skunk and how Jimmy Skunk had ordered him away. He began to chuckle. "Bobby Coon," said he, as if he were talking to some one else, "I am proud of you. You didn't back up an inch. You wanted to, though. It's a good thing for you that your nose was filled with the smell of that food. That kept you there when nothing else would. I guess Jimmy won't try that trick again."

Meanwhile Jimmy Skunk was doing a little talking to himself. "Well, well, well!" said Jimmy. "Bobby Coon did surprise me. He has more courage than I thought for. I have more respect for him than I ever had before. He didn't back up and there are very few have refused to back up for Jimmy Skunk. Probably I'll have to share my dinner with him every night now, but I'm sure we'll get along nicely. I just wonder if he surprised himself as much as he surprised me."

Bobby Coon didn't hesitate. He was right at Jimmy's heels

The next night Jimmy and Bobby arrived together at Farmer Brown's house. This time Jimmy Skunk went in first. Bobby Coon didn't hesitate. He was right at Jimmy's heels. When they got in there they discovered that Farmer Brown's boy was standing in the kitchen doorway and Mother Brown was beside him. Bobby Coon felt a little shy; he was bashful. Jimmy Skunk didn't hesitate at all. He walked right up to the plate of food and began to eat.

Bobby Coon hesitated only a moment; then he realized that if he were to have his share he must get busy. If Jimmy Skunk wasn't afraid why should he be afraid? He wouldn't be. No, sir, he wouldn't be! So, he in his turn walked up to the plate of food and began eating. Jimmy Skunk said nothing. He didn't once stamp his feet, Bobby said nothing. He didn't once growl. They stood side by side, Jimmy and Bobby; they touched cheeks as they ate. You see, each had kept his self-respect and at the same time had won the respect of the other. Also, they had won the respect of Farmer Brown's boy and Mother Brown. There was an extra lot of food on the plate that night.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

CORN BEEF BOILED DINNER

Wash a four or five-pound piece of corned brisket and tie it into shape with a string, place in a pot and cover it with cold water, and bring slowly to a boil, and boil for five minutes. Skim off the skum, cover the pot and simmer slowly until the meat is beginning to get tender. Add six scraped carrots, six onions, and allow to simmer for an hour longer. Add six peeled turnips, and cook until tender, lift out the meat and vegetables, and keep in a warm place, cut a cabbage in quarters, cut out the core, wash, and soak in cold water for one hour. Drain and place it in the corn beef liquor and cook until tender. Place the meet on a hot platter, arrange the vegetables and cooked cabbage around it. Boiled potatoes may be added if liked.

BANANA PUDDING

Pour three cupfuls of scalding hot milk over one and one-half cupfuls of stale cake crumbs, let stand for twenty minutes, then press through a sieve, and a half a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of orange juice, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, and four slightly beaten eggs, mix well, pour into buttered individual molds, set in a pan of hot water, and bake in a medium oven until set in the center, remove from the oven, let stand until cool, unmold on serving dishes. Pour over an orange custard sauce and sprinkle with finely chopped nut meats.

MACARONI MEXICAN

Boil a small package of macaroni in boiling water until tender. Drain and pour cold water through it, place in a sauce pan three tablespoonfuls of oil, one crushed clove of garlic and one finely chopped onion, cook until the onion is soft and clear, add one cupful of chopped round steak and cook for three minutes, add two cupfuls of peeled and chopped tomatoes, one tablespoonful of Spanish seasoning, half a teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley. Simmer for fifteen minutes, then mix with the cooked macaroni, place the mixture in a well-oiled baking dish, sprinkle with grated cheese, place in the oven and bake until the cheese is melted.

SAUTED ARTICHOKES

Take six small artichokes, cut off the outer leaves and stem, cut in quarters and remove the choke. Trim down the rough part of the leaves, cover with boiling water and parboil them for ten minutes, place them in a baking dish, season with salt, paprika and cover with one-fourth of a cupful of melted butter and one-half cupful of thinly sliced mushroom. Place in the oven and make slowly for twenty-five minutes, serve with a Hollendaise sauce.
